Things have come to a sad pass when a country which in its poverty-stricken youth defied the Barbary Pirates, in its larded maturity surrenders to the Pifflebund. To what a depth of shame the Senate will fall if it permits our historic old slogan to be changed to "Millions for tribute to the Antisaloon League but not one cent for defense."

The Antisaloon League seems to be getting sore on F. Scott McBride—Senators who used to dislocate the cervical vertebrae in the presence of Wayne B. Wheeler see him so seldom that they don't even pat him on the back and call him Francis.

HEATED DEBATE OVER DISTRICT BUDGET LIKELY

$38,213,150, Record Total Slated for Discussion in House Today.

CASEY HITS FAILURE TO PUT IN PAY RAISE

Schools Will Get One-Third of Appropriations; Griffin to Attack U. S. Limit.

The House takes up the District of Columbia appropriation bill today and the prospect is for some exciting, if not angry, debate on the measure.

The bill, which was introduced yesterday, is a record-breaker, calling for the largest sum ever asked for the District. The sum recommended to run the municipal government during the fiscal year of 1930 is $38,213,150, which is $344,972 less than was urged by the Bureau of the Budget, but $575,842 more than was carried in the last appropriation bill.

Representative Casey (Democrat), Pennsylvania, a member of the appropriations subcommittee which has the bill in charge, charged yesterday that the subcommittee was guilty of a serious breach of faith for not putting into the bill an item of $165,000 to give District employes the raises their efficiency ratings entitle them to get.

Casey Plans to Fight.

Visibly angry, Casey promised that he would go to the bat for the employes when the bill comes up, but he was afraid that his effort would be a vain one. Just before the bill was reported out yesterday, the Pennsylvanian made a motion to put the $165,000 in, but it was voted down.

At the last session of Congress, the subcommittee estimated that it would take $340,000 to give the District workers the pay that their efficiency ratings entitled them to.

A two-year program was agreed to, and $175,000 appropriated to take care of slightly over half of the employes. The subcommittee then promised to take care of the remainder this year. But, as Casey pointed out, that promise has been broken, the Welch act serving as an excuse.

The bill, as introduced yesterday, contained supplemental items amounting to $1,630,000, and it was these that swelled the total to its record-breaking proportions. Incidentally, the hearings on the bill showed that Chairman Simmons, of the subcommittee, severely criticized the Commissioners for failing to ask the bureau of the budget for the additional money, even though they knew there was a surplus of some $5,000,000 in the Treasury.

Schools to Get One-third.

The appropriation asked for the public schools, $11,846,000, constitutes approximately one-third of the total. The sum, however, is $304,530 less than was appropriated for schools for the current year, and $241,580 less than was recommended in the budget.

The Police Department gets $11,846,000, which is $304,530 less than last year. The subcommittee refused to provide for eighteen additional privates and criticized members of the force for "holding up street corners" and gossiping with each other.

The Fire Department also gets less this year, the amount recommended—$3,063,950—being $57,585 less than was appropriated last year.

Other items carried in the bill are as follows:

For street improvements, $3,745,500; for salaries, $2,615,679; sewers, $1,476,000; disposal of refuse, $1,613,900; public playgrounds, $198,060; electrical de-

Delight Potter Arnold Bride of L. W. Taylor

Girl Who Once Married Prince That Was No Prince Again Weds.

MRS. LOUIS WILLARD TAYLOR.

Miss Delight Potter Arnold, who stunned Capitol society in the spring of 1925 when she jilted Martin Marshall Marston, scion of a prominent Washington family, for an on-and-off marriage venture with a pseudo Cossack prince, has launched another marital adventure. She is now Mrs. Louis Willard Taylor, formal announcement of her marriage having been made yesterday, exactly one week after the nuptials.

Just why Mr. and Mrs. Taylor married secretly instead of giving Washington society a chance for a show-off at a church ceremony has not been revealed. The marriage was a secret for a week and the engagement was secret even longer than that.

The announcement made yesterday by Mrs. Taylor's parents, Maj. and Mrs. Davis Gorham Arnold, of 1661 Crescent place northwest, merely states that "they have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Delight Potter Arnold, to Mr. Louis Willard Taylor, son of Mr. John Gates Taylor, of Bolton Landing, N. Y."

No intimation is made as to where the bride and groom are at present nor as to where they will make their home.

The marriage was solemnized in New York by the Rev. Ernest Van Rensselaer Stires, son of the Bishop of Long Island, while Miss Arnold was on a visit to friends in that city.

Friends of the bride say that she and the groom had seen little of each other having met only a week before the marriage, while Taylor was visiting in Washington. They met at a party, the friends say.

Little could be learned of Taylor last night. It is said, however, that he is of a prominent family.

Back in 1925 Miss Arnold was a debutante and enjoyed the distinction of being one of the most beautiful, if not the most beautiful, debs of that season. Shortly after her debut her

POLICE GRAFT CASE SUBPENA IS ISSUED

STILL IN TEXAS, BELIEF

A subpena for Mrs Helen M. Blaylock, palmist, who accused a police captain of accumulating $14,000 through graft, was issued late yesterday by Assistant District Attorney William H. Collins, in charge of investigation of the charges.

The palmist made the charges at a secret interview in a Bethesda, Md., police station last month to Representative Ernest W. Gibson, of Vermont, chairman of the subcommittee of the House District committee, and then went to Texas, where she repeated the charges to Representative Thomas L. Blanton, of the Lone Star State.

Acting on the theory that the palmist may have returned to this city quietly from her visit to Texas, Collins, who is anxious to question Mrs. Blaylock and other witnesses in connection with the inquiry, issued the subpena, which will be turned over to the United States Marshal's office for service.

Collins telegraphed Blanton last Thursday asking him when Mrs. Blaylock intended to return to the city, and to forward all information she had given him, but his communication has not been answered.

Mrs. Blaylock declared to Gibson that the police captain also defrauded her in a real estate transaction, and was guilty of other misdeeds. She turned a white gold ring, set with two large diamonds, over to the investigators, declaring it was seized by the captain in a raid and given to her.

She said the ring was very valuable, and the police official offered her a large sum of money for its return.

Collins had the ring appraised by George Weber, a policeman attached to the District Attorney's office, who is an expert on watches and jewelry. Weber appraised the ring as worth no more than $150, Collins said.

AMERICAN IS SLAIN BY WAHABI BANDITS

U. S. WIRES FOR DETAILS

Basra, Irak, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Henry Bilkerd, of the American Mission here, has been shot dead by Wahabi tribesmen.

Charles Crane, former American Ambassador to China, accompanied by J. C. Crane, Charles Johnson, his valet, and Mr. Bilkerd left Basra this morning in two cars en route to Koweit.

Half-way on their journey they fell into a Wahabi ambush. Bilkerd was shot dead, but the others escaped unhurt.

Mr. Bilkerd was a native of Kalamazoo, Mich. He came to Basra four years ago, but had already spent eleven years with the American Presbyterian Mission on the Persian Gulf. The shot that killed him entered the shoulder and hit the spinal cord.

It developed that the ambush was laid within the Irak frontier. The attackers numbered about 100.

Mr. Crane said that the ambushers were so well hidden in the desert scrub that none of them was visible. No horses or camels were near. Irak shepherds had been warned of the approach of the raiders and had hurried with their flocks to Zubeir, the last Irak town on the edge of the desert.

Mr. Crane is personally acquainted with Ibn Saud, ruler of the Nejd, under whose sway the Wahabis are supposed to be held in check.

Charles Crane and Bilkerd were in a closed car in advance of the rest of their party. Although Mr. Crane said he did not see any of the raiders, the younger Mr. Crane, who was in an open car, said he saw about twelve armed Wahabis on horseback.

Occupants of the second car said that mounted Arabs gave chase when the machines turned around after being fired upon, but were soon distanced. Opinion here is that the attack is bound to have political effects and that it may bring about a settlement of the disputes over the frontier between Ibn Saud and the directorate government of Irak.

(Associated Press)

State Department records show that the Reverend Henry A. Bilkerd, a missionary of the Reformed Church of America, had registered at the American consulate at Bagdad, in September, 1927.

He gave his birthplace as Kalamazoo, Michigan. He left the United States in September, 1924, and has been assigned at Basra since October of that year.

The State Department had received no official advices of the killing of the minister, but it received news of his death from the office of Charles R. Crane of New York, former minister to China, whose secretary telephoned that Mr. Crane, who is in Iraq en route to the Far East on a pleasure trip, and his son, John Crane, and a valet, were members of the party but were not injured.

The State Department has cabled to American Consul John Randolph at Bagdad for information.

Senate Votes Confirmation Of West, 54-27, in Secret

(United Press.)

The nomination of Roy O. West, Chicago attorney, for Secretary of Interior in the Coolidge Cabinet to succeed Dr. Hubert Work, was confirmed yesterday afternoon by the Senate after a long and bitter fight.

The vote was 54 to 27.

It was taken in secret and efforts of West's opponents to make the roll call public were twice defeated. Extraordinary precautions were taken to prevent publicity either as to the vote itself or the three-day debate it concluded.

Independents in both the Republican and Democratic parties opposed West's confirmation on the ground he was too closely associated in private life with Samuel Insull, Chicago public utilities magnate. As Secretary of Interior, they argued, West would be a member of the Federal Power Commission which is considering several Insull applications for power sites.

Administration Republicans led by, two Illinois senators, Deneen and Glenn, denied West's previous connections with Insull would prejudice his judg-

West's friends had the advantage of a favorable report on his nomination by the lands committee, which held

EFFORT TO GAIN CONTROL IN GAS BRINGS INQUIRY

LAW LIMITS TOTAL HOLDING OF SHARES

Midwest and New York Men Battle for Rule Over Capital Company.

Efforts of out-of-town interests to get control of the stock of the Washington Gas Light Co., which owns the Georgetown Gas Light Co., are to be investigated by the Public Utilities Commission, it was learned authoritatively yesterday.

That "foreign" control of the local gas company is being sought has been admitted publicly by two stock-buying agents, both of whom have refused to disclose the identity of the persons or groups for whom they have been purchasing.

The battle for possession of controlling interest in the gas company, the financial history of which puts to shame fiction stories of gold mines, has been progressing for months and has boosted the price of the stock more than six times its par value. The par value of the stock is $20 a share. Dane A. Pearson, of New York, one of the buying agents, last week got the approval of the District Supreme Court to acquire 7,000 shares, belonging to the Leiter estate, at $125 a share. G. Bowie Chipman, another buying agent, is said to have offered a similar price to other stockholders, although the quotations on the local exchange are several dollars below that figure.

Admit Buying for Others.

Both Pearson and Chipman have admitted they are buying the stock for others. Pearson said he is representing a group of New York men. Chipman is reported to be representing a Midwest utility interest. Whether there is a battle between opposing "foreign" interests has not been developed in the admissions of the buyers.

How much of the stock of the gas company has been acquired by these "foreign" interests is problematical. There is no one who will admit knowing. There are outstanding 130,000 shares of gas stock. These are divided, according to the last report of the company to Congress, among more than 2,000 stockholders.

The interest of the Public Utilities Commission in the activities of "foreign" buyers to acquire stock to control the gas company is derived from the antimerger act, proposed by the elder Senator La Follette and enacted by Congress in 1913.

This law declares it "unlawful" for any "foreign" or "local" utility corporation or holding company "directly or indirectly" to "own, control, or hold or vote" stocks or bonds of local utilities, except such transactions are specifically authorized by Congress. Contracts and agreements along this line are specifically voided by the antimerger law. Jurisdiction to set aside such agreement, contracts, or purchases, is reposed in the District Supreme Court.

Limited to 20 Per Cent.

There is a proviso, however, which would seem to limit the unlawfulness of acquirement to 20 per cent of outstanding stock. In other words did "foreign" corporation own 19 per cent of the stock or bonds of a "local" utility, the court would not be empowered to set the acquirement aside.

The law defines "foreign" as meaning "foreign to the District of Columbia" and "local" as meaning "local in the District of Columbia."

Members of the utilities commission have been watching the developments, as published in the press, in the campaign for acquirement of control of the gas company, and Col. William B. Ladue, Engineer Commissioner of the District and member of the utilities commission, is prepared to bring the question of the propriety of the proceedings before the commission at its next meeting.

When he does he will find active support from Harrison Brand, jr., vice chairman of the commission, who also has been keeping tab on published accounts of the control battle.

Doubts Authority in Case.

John W. Childress, chairman of the commission, however, is not especially inclined to take any action in the matter. He is dubious about the authority of the commission to do so, in the first place, and equally dubious about the advantage to be gained if the commission does take a hand and makes it good in the second place.

Corporation Counsel William W Bride, who is general counsel for the Utilities Commission, refused to discuss the question. The matter, Bride said, had not been referred to him nor had he heard any question about the subject. None the less, it is understood, Bride, if asked, will tell the Utilities Commission that it has, under existing law, ample justification for inquiring into the whole question.

How far the commission inquiry will go and how effective it will be, if and when launched, is a question about which commission officials themselves are not certain. Regardless of that phase of the subject, however, the battle for control of the gas company, which has been seeking increased rates through valuation proceedings recently, is to be looked into by the commission.

BLAINE HITS DRY LAW; CANNON STIRS MELLON; PROHIBITIONISTS SPLIT

Wisconsin Senator Talks Three Hours, Reviewing History.

ASSAILS TYRANNY UNDER PURITANS

Attacks Present Statute as Being Worse Than Any of Czar's Day.

DENIES LEGISLATURES CAN MAKE SIN BY ACTS

Doubts That Mellon or Any Other Official Can Enforce Provisions.

(Associated Press.)

Tales of the stringent laws of Puritan days in New England and racy stories of "dry voting" legislators who were intoxicated when they voted for prohibition bills filled the record of the Senate yesterday as Senator Blaine (Republican) Wisconsin, talked for nearly three hours while the advocates of the naval cruiser bill stood by impatiently.

As the Wisconsin senator continued Senator Harris (Democrat) Georgia, author of the proposal to boost prohibition enforcement funds by $25,000,000 abandoned hope for a vote on this question, but expressed the conviction that the Senate would approve it today. The Georgia Senator, however, was of the opinion that the vote would be close.

To vote on the Harris proposal, however, the Senate first would have to defeat a substitute by Senator Jones (Republican) Washington, to provide $1,250,000 for dissemination of information regarding law observance and to increase the force of prohibition field workers. A favorable vote on this proposal would automatically kill the Harris amendment.

Attacks Invasion of Rights.

In event that both the Harris and Jones proposals are rejected the Senate then would have an opportunity to vote on the amendment of Senator Glass (Democrat) Virginia, to provide $250,000 for the President to carry out a searching investigation of prohibition conditions. It is the opinion of some senators that the Glass amendment ultimately will be accepted as a compromise.

Senator Blaine made an extended attack upon laws which he said invaded a person's right to liberty. He declared it was impossible to make sinful and criminal certain acts of the individual by legislating them to be so.

During his discussion he told a story of a prohibition enforcement official in Wisconsin who, when a member of the State legislature, was taken home in a taxicab after voting for a prohibition bill because, Blaine declared, "he was not able to get home any other way."

Cites Puritan Practices.

Assailing the laws against personal liberty invoked by the Puritans, Senator Blaine declared that "no one liked his liquor so much, his tobacco so much, or hated his neighbor who belonged to a different church so much as the Puritan.

"Every device of which human mind was capable was originated to destroy individual liberty of every human being and reduce them to a standard where the best could be no better than the

SENATOR JOHN J. BLAINE.

Row on New Fund Splits Dry League

(United Press.)

The question of whether the Prohibition Bureau shall spend an additional $25,000,000 for law enforcement next year has created a crisis in the leadership of the Antisaloon League, and divided dry organizations.

Introduced as a simple amendment to the first deficiency appropriation bill by Senator Harris, Georgia Democrat, the $25,000,000 is causing one of the greatest fights in prohibition history.

Its effects are being felt far and wide. The Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, one of the leading dry organizations in the Nation, yesterday declared its support to Secretary of Treasury Mellon in opposition to the additional appropriation at this time, whereas the Antisaloon League criticizes Mellon.

The league, itself shaken by intercouncil rows over statements and counterstatements on the $25,000,000 appropriation, is in controversy over the legislative leadership of F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the league.

He also holds the title of legislative representative and one group in the league high council wishes to withdraw him from this phase of the organization's work, the United Press was told by one of the inside officials yesterday.

Upon the outcome of the appropriation amendment may depend the future dry leadership among the various organizations with the Antisaloon League seriously threatened, the official said.

A movement is under way to restrict McBride's activities to the administrative duties of general superintendent and appoint a league legislative superintendent, the key position left vacant with the death of Wayne B. Wheeler, the United Press was told.

When Harris first offered his amendment, McBride was quoted as favoring the additional appropriation. Later, on January 15, the league superintendent issued a statement lauding Mellon's stand in opposing the appropriation until it could be assigned to some specific purpose.

Then, on January 19, Bishop Thomas Nicholson, president of the league, and Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the execu-

Declares Turning Such Sum Over to One Official Is Danger to System.

(Associated Press.)

Emphasizing that the Federal courts are unable to try all the cases prepared under the national prohibition law, Secretary Mellon yesterday wrote Bishop James Cannon, jr., that it would be unwise to place $25,000,000 in the hands of any executive officer to use with "unlimited discretion," to enforce the prohibition law.

The Secretary's letter was in reply to a telegram from Bishop Cannon, Bishop Thomas Nicholson, president of the Antisaloon League, and Eugene L. Crawford, secretary of the Board of Temperance and Social Service of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. They had urged Secretary Mellon to reconsider his action of declining at the present time an additional appropriation of $25,000,000 for dry law enforcement.

Secretary Mellon said that in his opinion it would be unwise to place so much money at the disposal of any executive official because the safeguards which should surround the expenditure of public money could not be provided under such circumstances. He added that it would tend to break down the safeguards of the budget system and said it would violate a fundamental principle of government.

Would Help Bureau Only.

The Secretary declared he believed that more would be lost than gained if a fundamental principle was violated for the purpose of accomplishing immediately some improvement in the prohibition or any other field.

He also said that the Harris amendment would make the money available only for the Prohibition Bureau and that the Customs and Coast Guard services would need strengthening to accomplish the purpose desired. He added that there are now pending 21,000 prohibition cases in Federal courts, with no relief in sight.

The Secretary's letter read:

"I beg to acknowledge receipt of your telegram of January 18, in which you suggest that the appropriation of $25,000,000 for the Prohibition Bureau as contained in the so-called Harris amendment to the first deficiency bill be made available so as to be expended as the Secretary of the Treasury may determine, and in which you also suggest that the zeal on the part of the Secretary of the Treasury to secure adequate enforcement may well be questioned if he refuses the opportunity offered by the Harris amendment.

"As I pointed out in my letter of January 12 to Senator Warren, prohibition enforcement does not rest solely upon the Bureau of Prohibition, but its success depends largely on the cooperation afforded by the Coast Guard, the Customs Service, and the Border Patrol, and, what is even of more vital importance, on the possibility of bringing to trial cases prepared by the Prohibition Bureau and ready for trial.

Points Out Other Needs.

"What I endeavored to point out in my letter to Senator Warren is that the Harris amendment makes the additional funds available to the Prohibition Bureau only, and restricts the uses by the bureau, with no discretion in the Secretary of the Treasury.

"There are now 21,000 liquor cases pending in the Federal courts and caus-

Gilbert Would Jail Guilty In Parkway Building Loss

"Somebody Ought to Be Sent to Penitentiary" Kentucky Representative Says at Hearing; Summons Builders for Another Hearing Wednesday Night.

"Somebody ought to be sent to the penitentiary" for the financial tangle at the Parkway Apartments, Inc., Representative Ralph Gilbert (Democrat), of Kentucky, said last night at a second hearing in connection with the case.

Gilbert, acting chairman of the Gibson subcommittee of the House District committee, ended the hearing by issuing summons for those who built and financed the Parkway, a cooperative enterprise, to appear Wednesday night at a third hearing to explain why the tenants "lost their money."

The District committee room was crowded with tenants of the Parkway and other cooperative apartments and the builders of such enterprises. As the Parkway tenants, who are facing ejection, unfolded their troubles others advocated a law that would regulate the activities of cooperative house builders.

Gilbert, however, gave them no hope that any such law would be enacted, or even reported to the District committee as needful. "I do not see any necessity for any additional law," he declared. "I may be wrong—if I am I am open to correction—but," he continued, "it looks to me that these people here need protection of the court.

"If they would send somebody to the penitentiary for this it would deter others in the future; but this is what ought to be done—somebody ought to be sent to the penitentiary for this."

Fearful hat the recent publicity given the Parkway troubles would hurt the cooperative apartment business, the builders of these homes and the tenants of such came forward last night to vindicate the plan.

Gilbert quickly allayed their fears by saying that "I do not see that they (the Parkway cooperative purchasers) necessarily lost their money by reason of any failure of the plan. It was by reason of dishonest individuals rather ing congestion, with no relief in sight.

"The Customs Service needs additional guards in the principal ports and the Border Patrol needs strengthening, while in so far as the Coast Guard is converned, Admiral Billard is at present undertaking a survey as to the ships needed to replace a number of destroyers whose usefulness has been pretty nearly exhausted, and is prepared to recommend an increase in the commissioned personnel of the Coast Guard.

"The Harris amendment would not make funds available for any of these purposes, nor could the additional money provided for be used for the educational purposes which you emphasize in your telegram.

"Under these circumstances, can it be fairly said that an appropriation of $25,000,000, made with these restrictions, would of itself constitute an intelligent and effective means of promoting prohibition enforcement?

"I note that in your telegram you suggest that the restrictions be removed and that $25,000,000 be made available to the Secretary of the Treasury to spend as he sees fit.

Blow Seen at System.

"This, of course, is not the Harris amendment now pending in Congress, and aside from the fact that it would make no provision whatsoever for relieving the congestion in the courts, which today constitutes one of the major problems in the field of prohibition enforcement, I want to suggest whether you consider it good practice to place so vast a sum in the hands of a public official with unlimited discretion as to its use?

"It makes no difference whether that official be the Secretary of the Treasury or some other chief of an executive department of government, I do not believe that adequate protection of the public interests and the proper safeguards that should always surround the expenditures of public funds can fairly be said to have been provided for if an appropriation of this character is made

"Such a program would break down the safeguards of the budget system, and the effective and proper control which Congress exercises over the expenditure of the public funds I think that upon second consideration you will realize that this is not a minor question, but a fundamental one, and that in the long run whether in the prohibition field or in any other field of government, infinitely more is lost than gained if for the sake of accomplishing immediately a purpose, no matter how desirable a fundamental principle of good government and sound practice is violated."

Marines in China Never Fired Shot

Gen. Lejeune Tells Capital Detachment of League Orient Is Quiet.

Not a shot was fired by United States Marines during the recent disorder in China, said Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, commandant of the Marine Corps, speaking last night before the National Capital Detachment of the Marine Corps League, meeting at Woodman's Hall, in Grant place. Conditions in China, Gen. Lejeune added, have resulted in the return to the United States of all but two battalions of Marines, comprising a temporary regiment at Shanghai.

Conditions in Nicaragua, he said, are most favorable, and the rebellious element is composed of less than one-half of 1 per cent of the native population. Most of the malcontents, he declared, are outlaws from neighboring Central American countries.

After his address Gen. Lejeune presented the past commander's jewel to Willard M. Hart, first lieutenant, Marine Corps Reserve, past commander of the detachment. The present commander is Capt. William G. Stott, of the Third Police Precinct, who presided last night.

High Sugar Tariff Urged and Decried

U. S. Growers Request House to Raise Rate; Philippine Agents Dissent.

(Associated Press.)

A six-sided controversy over the American sugar tariff was aired yesterday before the House ways and means committee and through the maze of technical and economic discussion emerged proposals for both increases and decreases in existing duties and requests for and against limitation of duty-free imports from the Philippines.

This discussion revived a dispute that has been dormant ever since the tariff commission proposed a reduction in the levy more than four years ago and upon which no executive action ever has been taken. The testimony was of such technical nature that at times even the witnesses were stumped. Once the hearing turned from the direct subject of sugar duties to that of Philippine independence.

Using the present full rate of 2.2 cents a pound on raw sugar and the 1.76 cents Cuba pays under an allowance of 20 per cent granted by treaty, American cane and beet sugar producers asked for various increases and the limiting of Philippine imports to 800,000 tons, which is slightly under her present production.

Christian Herald Gives Prize to Bishop Cannon

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, has been selected by the Christian Herald Association of New York City as the American citizen who during 1928 made the most significant contribution to religious progress.

This award, of which Bishop Cannon is the first recipient, according to Stanley High, editor of the Christian Herald, will henceforth be an annual event. The award itself will be formally made at a dinner in New York City, the date of which is yet to be arranged.

HOOVER GOES SOUTH ON PALATIAL TRAIN

Crowds at Stations Greet President-Elect Bound for Lengthy Rest.

RAILROAD GUARDS GUEST

By CARLISLE BARGERON
(Staff Corresponent of The Post.)

Rocky Mount, N. C., Jan. 21—Aboard President-elect's Special Train en route to Florida—Fleeing from the concentrated bother that is Washington, President-elect Hoover late tonight was fairly deep in the Southland and still going. By daylight he will have crossed two States that went for him last November and two that did not, and entered another that did, where he is to spend a few weeks before taking up the duties of his office.

They all looked the same, Virginia, North and South Carolina and Georgia, and apparently the folks down here have forgotten the strife of two months ago. It was a panorama of pines, progressive and somnolent towns, ox carts and mule drawn teams, a crazy design of dirt roads with an asphalt highway occasionally streaking it, darkies working in the fields, and late cotton bulging in bags, and again dotting the countryside like a white haired assembly of slave masters to greet the train.

It was an overcast sky all the way but after Richmond there was no doubt that it was the South. There was no ice on the ground and the flowers gave no evidence of knowing any.

Hoover Greets Virginians

At Emporia, Va., Mr. Hoover shook hands with a score or more of townspeople and at Rocky Mount, N. C., there was quite a to-do, but otherwise the people turned lazily from the fields to wave at a passing train. And it was a palatial one, eight cars of the Atlantic Coast line's luxury, with Chairman Work of the Republican National Committee, riding with Mr. and Mrs. Hoover in the private car of the Vice President of the railroad, and other members of the party scattered over the train with every accomodation at their disposal.

The dining car was designed to make you think you had been suddenly plunged into the tropical surf of Miami, a symphony of all the shades of the orchid. At first it dazzled the eyes, but then one experienced a soothing sensation that eventuated in a contentment of the soul. A pudding was served to match.

In the absence of anything to do, members of the party contemplated the enterprise that is required to move such a train, the same in the case of Mr Hoover as if he were already President of the United States. In addition to the heavy secret service detail aboard, in charge of W. H. Macswain, the Coast Line had a carload of private detectives and rigid instructions on many things.

Pilot Train Goes Ahead.

A pilot train preceded the Hoover train by 30 minutes, and another followed it by 30 minutes. Each train was equipped with full wrecking outfit, portable telephones and electric markers. Freight trains were prohibited from the main line for three hours before the pilot train. All northbound trains were required to come to a stop at the approach of the pilot train, and remain standing until the follow-up train passed. Switches were spiked all along the route. Telegraph operators were held on duty throughout the night at all stations through which the procession passed. Wrecking crews were assembled at every operating point, and emergency engines were also held steamed up and in readiness.

At points where the Coast Line crossed other railroads, the trains of the other roads were held off the interlocking plant for an hour before the arrival of the pilot train. A derailment, in fact, is about the only conceivable accident. But railway officials explain that the precautions are also to prevent any possible delay.

Signs Amuse Travelers.

Despite all the precautions there were posters along the right of way south of Petersburg, Va., that were calculated to minimize one's security—"Eternity Is Just Around the Corner," "Prepare to Meet Your Maker," "Death Awaits You Around the Curve," they ran the work of a religious cult.

The party will arrive at Miami at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, where an elaborate reception participated in by the governor Republican and Democratic officials from throughout the State, will be held.

It seems strange to hear people at what were rock-ribbed Democratic stops, when Harding made the trip eight years ago, proudly telling Mr. Hoover how they voted for him. At Rocky Mount one said he had voted for him twice, once as a voter and once as an elector. Inspired by the gracious reply that Mr. Hoover gave this man, another said he, too, had voted for the President-elect whereupon a quiet, expressionless fellow in the crowd, who had apparently remained Democratic, muttered: "I reckon he did, he's the postmaster." When pressed as to whether Hoover had not carried Rocky Mount this fellow begrudgingly admitted that he "did carry a lot of precincts."

Hoover Grins at Crowds.

In his two or three appearances on his observation platform Mr. Hoover revealed that he has not yet acquired the easy, vacant stare which Mr. Coolidge assumes when he is letting the crowd look at him and does not want to say anything. The President-elect grins and some of these station stops are rather long for that.

There was considerable speculation aboard the train as to whether Dwight P. Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico, now visiting in the Bahamas, will visit Mr. Hoover at Miami. It was learned authoritatively that he has not been invited but it is reasonable to assume that he may be. It would not follow, though, that the invitation would be for the purpose of extending the State portfolio to him.

OKLAHOMA'S SENATE SUSPENDS GOVERNOR

JANUARY 28 SET AS DATE

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Sweeping aside comparatively feeble opposition, the Oklahoma Senate late today suspended from office Gov. Henry S. Johnston in less than a half hour after it had received five articles of impeachment, voted last week by the house of representatives.

In the swift moving succession of events W. J. Holloway, lieutenant governor, notified Johnston that he was assuming the duties of the gubernatorial office during the period of suspension; the senate resolved itself into a court of impeachment and organized for the trial of the governor, and the house investigation committee, which returned the charges, resumed its inquiry into the affairs of the State departments. The senate set January 28 as the day for Johnston's appearance before the court.

The suspended go ernor asserted that while he felt the suspension had not been carried out in a legal manner, he would not resist it. He received the news of his temporary removal quietly.

It was Mr. Johnston's contention that the senate should not have received the impeachment charges until after it had resolved itself into a court and that his suspension by the senate as such had no force. He said he would make no attmept to retain his office, however, as it would create a situation of dual government which he wished to avoid.

Although Gov. Johnston is a Democrat, opposition to his suspension was led in the senate by a Republican, W. T. Clark, of Medford. A resolution which would have pledged the senate against suspension was introduced by Clark and Fletcher Johnson, Democrat, of Bristow before the impeachment charges reached the senate.

The vote was on a resolution of Senator Paul Stewart, Democratic leader, to notify the governor of his suspension, was 38 to 5. Clark was the only Republican voting against the resolution.

The senate court of impeachment was organized soon after the suspension was ordered. Chief Justice C. W. Mason of the State supreme court, who, under the constitution, is presiding officer of the impeachment court, administered the oaths of office to members.

Mellon Bank Clerk Missing Four Days

Youth Leaves Note Addressed to Pittsburgh Girl, Saying "Good-by."

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Harold Graham, 20, son of a prominent Bolivar, Pa., family and an employe of the Mellon National Bank here, disappeared last Thursday night and has not been seen since, it was learned today when the missing persons bureau was asked to search for him.

Young Graham, who obtained employment as messenger at the bank a year and a half ago through an official who took an interest in him but who lately was promoted to a departmental post, left his affairs at the bank in excellent condition, it was said.

The youth worked as usual Thursday and accompanied a girl friend, said to be a member of a prominent Pittsburgh family to the theater Thursday night. When leaving her home about midnight he was said to have complained of being ill. Police learned a young man answering Graham's description alighted from a taxicab on the Sharpsburg Bridge early Friday morning, leaving this note: "Peggy—I love you. Good-by Harold."

Miriam F. Ryan Married In Montreal January 4

Announcement of the marriage January 4 in Montreal of Miss Miriam Fortune Ryan, daughter of Alan A. Ryan and granddaughter of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan, to Jacques R. Herbert, of Montreal, was made yesterday.

Miss Ryan is the sister of Alan A. Ryan, jr., who is to marry Miss Janet Newbold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fleming Newbold, of 1720 Massachusetts avenue northwest, on February 5. Mrs. Herbert is scheduled to be one of the bridesmaids at the local nuptials.

Juror of Capital Under Indictment

Hearing on Driving While Drunk Charge Is Set for February 6.

Edwin C. Crouch, member of the special grand jury from the District of Columbia which investigated conditions at the Occoquan Workhouse on December 6 and who while returning to the city that night was arrested by Fairfax County police on a charge of operating an automobile under the influence of liquor, was indicted by a special grand jury at Fairfax yesterday.

Hearing on the case has been set for February 6 before Judge Howard W. Smith in the circuit court at Fairfax. Thomas R. Keith, of Fairfax, will be his counsel.

3,394 TAKEN IN RAIDS PARADED IN CHICAGO

Crime Victims Review Long Line of Prisoners Made in Wide Cleanup.

UNDERWORLD IS SWEPT

Chicago, Jan. 21 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The 3,394 prisoners seized over the week-end in Chicago's greatest hoodlum round-up were being paraded before crime victims in a gigantic show-up this afternoon at central police headquarters.

A crowd of robbery victims packed the show-up room on the eleventh floor of the detective bureau as the first of the battalion of prisoners started passing in review. Those with known criminal records led the procession, and it was estimated that it would be close to midnight before the last of the 3,394 had been "shown up."

There was a noticeable lack of the names of "big shots" of gangland in the list of those seized. Virtually all of the prisoners were regarded as being "small fry" in the underworld. Raiding squads explained this by stating the more notorious of the gangsters evidently heard of the raids in progress and went into hiding.

Saltis Gangsters Taken.

Lieut. John Tracey arrested five alleged members of Joe Saltis' gang when they found them riding in a limousine. Joseph Kluczyicki, proprietor of the Nineteenth Hole, a roadhouse, who was driving with the others, was taken to the detective bureau. Two of the others, according to the police, are Edward Skelenan, of Cicero, said to be a driver for Saltis, and James Joyce, alleged to be a business partner of John ("Dingbat") Oberta, in a floral shop.

Police say the discovery of a long list of names in a book captured from Joe Saltis was not responsible for the big raids, but was of great benefit to them. It is explained the raids were the answer of the police department to the defiance flung down last week by the crime trust in numerous bank and pay roll robberies and four murders.

Seventy-five shotguns, revolvers and pistols were seized in the raids, in some of which the officers used axes to batter down doors. Last night's raids netted 2,694 prisoners. Seven hundred others were taken in custody Saturday night and early Sunday.

Ellers Bailiwick Invaded.

Poolrooms, soft drink parlors, beer flats and vice dens in the "valley" district on the West Side were productive of hundreds of suspects. At nearly every place visited from five to a dozen prisoners were taken. In the Maxwell street district, in the heart of the political bailiwick of City Collector Morris Eller, czar of the "Bloody Twentieth" ward, scores of pool rooms, disorderly houses and other known gathering places of underworld characters were raided. Sixty-seven prisoners were carted away during the first hour of the raiding.

One of the most spectacular raids made was that early this morning at the Minerva Club, alleged gambling resort of Lawrence Mangana, where detectives under the personal command of Deputy Commissioner Stege and Chief of Detectives Egan smashed their way into the place with axes.

Rush Begins for Writs.

The expected rush for writs of habeas corpus got under way this morning with the opening of the criminal court, but it struck a snag when Judge Frank D. Comeford, acting chief justice for Judge John J. Sullivan, said he would grant no writs without a hearing of the police side of the case.

One important development of the police investigation of the men held was the discovery this morning that one of the men in custody, John Hawkins, had been sought since last February in connection with the murder of Betty Chambers, who was mysteriously slain in a North Side apartment.

"We have struck a blow at the crooks with all the might at our command," said Commissioner Russell, "but it is only the beginning. This job will be finished when we have put every criminal in Chicago behind bars or have chased them out of the city for good. We'll repeat the offensive every week, and keep it up until we've got the criminals whipped."

Chicago, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Patrol wagon service in Chicago is nothing less than rotten, William Taber complained today.

Deciding that the weather was too cold to be out of doors, Mr. Taber called the police station.

"Send the wagon," he ordered, "there's a drunk in the street over here."

Then he sat down on the curb and waited. An hour passed, and there was no "wagon." He called again; still nothing happened, and Mr. Taber, very indignant, hoofed it several blocks to the police station.

"Whatsa matter?" he demanded. "No wagon to haul you to the station. This is a cheap town."

The police explained that the wagons were being used to haul 3,400 suspects taken in week-end raids—and put Mr. Taber with them.

Vanderbilt-Gould Silence Broken in Divorce Court

Reno Judge Introduces Mrs. Gloria Gould Bishop to Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr.; Then Grants Former Her Freedom and Custody of Minor Child.

Reno, Nev., Jan. 21 (A.P.).—The wall of social silence which has existed between the Vanderbilts and the Goulds for more than 75 years was slightly cracked here today when District Judge George A. Bartlett introduced Mrs. Gloria Gould Bishop to Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., a few minutes before granting the former a divorce from Henry A. Bishop, jr., of New York City.

Young Vanderbilt and the daughter of George Jay Gould smiled and chatted for a few moments, and then Mrs. Bishop was escorted into the judge's chambers, where the divorce took place.

The Vanderbilt-Gould split is said to have started over railroad difficulties between the paternal heads some two generations ago and has continued since. Vanderbilt was merely a visitor to the courtroom and the meeting was accidental.

Mrs. Bishop, in her divorce complaint, charged the son of the New York industrialist with extreme cruelty. She alleged she feared for the safety of her life on occasions, citing an incident at their Greenwich, Conn., home September 18, 1925, their second wedding anniversary, when Bishop rushed from the house, where he had been sleeping during the afternoon, to the veranda and, grabbing her by the neck during the presence of friends, shook her violently.

While she had planned to leave him the next day, Mrs. Bishop said that her husband left her after the incident and the two have not lived together since.

She also accused him of using obscene and violent language in the presence of friends and of referring to members of her family, including her mother, in opprobrious terms.

Mrs. Bishop was awarded sole custody of the minor daughter, Gioia, aged 4, and at her request was granted sole obligation for the child's support. The father may visit the child at reasonable periods, the court decreed. She asked that no alimony be granted.

SENATE FILIBUSTER OPENS ON CRUISERS

PREDICT BILL'S PASSAGE

By ALBERT W. FOX.

A filibuster against America's National defense program, as contained in the cruiser bill, has openly burst forth in the Senate, with Senator Blaine, of Wisconsin, initiating the time-wasting campaign by a word-marathon to empty benches on the subject of prohibition. No effort to disguise the filibuster is being indulged in.

Meanwhile, however, the supporters of adequate naval defense have abruptly ended the period of inaction and have organized their forces in such manner as to promise real results to the country.

Agreement has been reached by the leaders to give the cruiser bill right of way over all other matters, including appropriation bills, after the present filibuster on the deficiency bill is snuffed out.

This apparently means that the cruiser bill will be enacted into law despite the desperate efforts of the pacifists and internationalists whose propaganda is being so anxiously followed in London and Geneva, as well as in certain organized quarters in the United States.

Developments yesterday were all in favor of the national defense advocates. Senate leaders were admittedly alarmed when the Senate convened yesterday morning.

Accordingly there were conferences held, including an important conference in the office of Senator Moses. Senator Hale, in charge of the cruiser bill, has been working quietly for some time to prepare for effective action at the proper moment.

Hale's Methods Vindicated.

The fact that the senator from Maine has been keeping his own counsel gave the impression that he was not alive to the grave dangers threatening the bill. Results yesterday vindicated the quiet methods which he has been following.

It was first agreed that a filibuster against the bill was not only in the course of preparation, but scheduled to start at once with the deficiency bill serving as the first excuse for time-wasting talk.

Under these circumstances, agreement of an informal but nevertheless binding character was reached to clear the decks and guarantee a vote on the cruiser bill.

Appropriation conference reports are to yield priority to the needs of national defense, it being admitted that no serious hardship would come to the country even if appropriation bills remained unacted upon until the close of the short session or remained in some cases to be disposed of at the coming extra session.

The deficiency bill conference report now before the Senate is an exception in the sense that appropriations contained in this bill are required for the inauguration on March 4.

Lid to Be Clamped Down.

The filibuster against the cruisers is utilizing this deficiency bill as an excuse for protracted debate so that the immediate task confronting the national defense advocates is to break this filibuster. After that the lid is to be clapped on tight and other legislation will be held in abeyance until an agreement for a vote on the Navy bill has been reached.

Night sessions and cloture both were discussed yesterday by the leaders. It is generally hoped, however, that cloture will not be necessary. Some of the staunchest supporters of national defense are opposed in principle to limiting debate by cloture. But these senators frankly admit that no individual views of senators on matters of procedure can compare in importance to the requirements of the Nation to have the insurance of an adequate naval defense.

Thus if it is necessary these senators will vote for cloture despite their personal dislikes for this method of breaking down organized delay.

Just when the night sessions begin has not yet been determined, but there is talk of starting this week if the filibuster continues.

Senator Blaine began the filibuster shortly after 3 o'clock, the Senate having previously disposed of the West nomination by confirming the Secretary of the Interior in secret executive session.

Pacifists are counting on Senator Blaine to be one of their mainstays in the fight against the Navy. He gave every indication yesterday of being an effective long-distance talker and showed no signs of fatigue after talking to empty benches for more than two hours.

At one period Senator Phipps represented the Republican membership, while Senators Ashurst and Sheppard represented the Democratic membership.

Blaine's speech was interrupted when the Senate recessed at 6:20 until noon today.

Veterans Indorse Measure.

Immediate passage of the cruiser bill was urged by the United Spanish War Veterans yesterday. A resolution advocating the measure was adopted by the national legislative committee, meeting with Commander in Chief William L. Grayson, of Savannah, Ga., at the Hamilton Hotel.

"The United Spanish War Veterans are vitally interested in the cruiser bill now pending in Congress," Grayson said. "At the very beginning of our organization, immediately after the Spanish War, we set forth as the outstanding purpose, and embodied it in our constitution, 'constantly to exert an influence to the end that our Government at all times shall provide an adequate national defense.' We believe that adequate defense is at present endangered by our long delayed failure to provide for replacements in our Navy. Today representatives of our organization from every section of the country unanimously adopted resolutions urging the Senate to pass the cruiser bill. The committee was enthusiastic in its determination to do everything possible to bring about an affirmative vote on this important measure."

HUNTRESS ADMITTED SHOOTING, IS CLAIM

REPORTED CALM AT TIME

New York, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Goldie Honig, a stenographer for Dallett H. Wilson, lawyer politician, testified today that Mrs. Esther Wilson, society matron and big game huntress, told her on March 29 last, "I have just shot Mr Wilson," or "I have just killed Mr. Wilson."

Wilson was shot while in his private office, while his wife was there, and was in a hospital for several months. She is on trial for the shooting. Last week Wilson testified that he believed Mrs. Wilson had shot him accidentally during an argument over financial matters they were discussing in connection with their separation.

Called at Office.

Miss Honig said that Mrs. Wilson called at the office on March 29 when Wilson was out, and went into the file room. She emerged with two folders marked respectively "Alien property custodian against the Pennsylvania Railroad" and "Alien property custodian against the Southern Railroad," which she had the stenographer wrap up.

Later in the day, Miss Honig said, Mrs. Wilson went into the private office with her husband and while they were there two shots were heard.

The stenographer and Leon Wagman, a lawyer employed in the Wilson offices, went to the street to get a policeman, and when they returned Miss Honig said she found Mrs. Wilson in the telephone operator's room. Mrs. Wilson, she said, told her she had shot her husband, but the stenographer could not be sure whether the word used was "shot" or "killed."

Called Police Headquarters.

Mary Ann Jahner, telephone operator in Wilson's office, testified that while Mr and Mrs. Wilson were in conference she heard Wilson telephone police headquarters.

On cross-examination the witness declared that she did not think Mrs Wilson was excited after the shooting.

"She came out," said Miss Jahner, "and threw her arms around my neck saying: "I am sure I killed Mr. Wilson. Will I kill myself?"

A traffic policeman testified that both Wilson and his wife told him that bullet wounds suffered by Wilson were inflicted by Mrs. Wilson.

The policeman, Dominick Scallafini, said that he was called from his post at Fifty-seventh street and Fifth avenue by Wagman and taken to the Wilson offices, where he found Wilson, wounded, sitting in a chair.

"I asked Wilson who shot him," he said, "and he told me——."

Counsel for Mrs. Wilson, on trial for the shooting, was sustained in his objection and the sentence was not finished.

Policeman Tells Story.

"I walked into another room," the policeman continued under questioning by the prosecutor, "and saw Mrs. Wilson. A revolver was lying on the desk near her. I took the revolver and asked: 'Is this yours?' She said it was. I took her into the other room and asked Wilson: 'Is this the woman who shot you?' He replied: 'Yes, that's my wife.' I asked her if she shot him and she said 'yes.'"

Wilson, who spent two months in a hospital after the shooting, testified when the trial opened last Friday that the shooting occurred during an argument over financial matters and he believed it accidental.

Mrs Wilson, at liberty under $10,000 bail, was an apparently interested spectator during the court testimony.

The prosecution rested its case late this afternoon and adjournment was taken until Wednesday because State Senator Elmer Quinn, her lawyer, is a member of a senate committee meeting at Albany tomorrow. Senator Quinn told reporters that he might call on Mrs. Wilson to take the stand in her own defense, but that no other defense witnesses would testify.

New York, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Sophie Irene Loeb, social service worker and author, left more than $100,000, largely in real estate, when she died January 18, the filing of her will today showed.

Her mother, Mrs. Mary Simon, of Miami, Fla., is the principal beneficiary receiving the life use of the residuary estate. Mrs. Mary Flynn, housekeeper who receives $500, and three relatives, are the only other legatees. The principal is to go to six nephews and nieces at Mrs. Simon's death.

'BOO-BOO' HOFF AIDS TAKEN IN NEW YORK

Two Held to Be "Pay-Off Men" in Philadelphia Graft Inquiry Arrested.

WILL FIGHT EXTRADITION

New York, Jan. 21 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Charles Schwartz, 38, of Philadelphia, and Samuel Lazer, 32, of this city, long sought in connection with the special grand jury's investigation of the Philadelphia bootleg ring, were arrested here today in the office of a brokerage concern. They were held as fugitives from justice.

Schwartz and Lazer, alleged by police to have acted as "pay-off" men for "Boo-Boo Hoff" in the latter's activities in Philadelphia, were arrested by Detective Sergt. Brown and Detective McNulty, following the receipt of a telegram from police of Philadelphia advising police here that warrants had been issued for their arrest and the place where they might be found.

The prisoners asserted at police headquarters that they would fight extradition even if they had to take the case to the Supreme Court, and they could get bail up to $1,000,000.

Philadelphia, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Resuming active participation in the special grand jury investigation of bootlegging and police corruption today, District Attorney John Monaghan declared that the inquiry had revealed that jobs on the old police liquor raiding squad, known as Unit No. 1, were "worth from $6,500 to $25,000 a year on the side."

Members of the unit, which was disbanded when Mayor Harry A. Mackey assumed office a year ago, received $5.50 a day from the city. The prosecutor said that the affairs of every member of the unit had been examined and with this work about ended, the grand jury would renew its investigation of the liquor traffic and gang murders.

"We have checked up closely on the members of Unit No. 1," the district attorney said, "because we looked upon that body as a cross-section of the police department and fully representative.

"We unearthed a number of amazing things which we will act upon later. There was a saying that some members of the unit paid as high as $1,000 for the privilege of getting on the squad."

British Ship Reported In Distress in Atlantic

Halifax, N. C., Jan. 21 (A.P.).—The British steamer Teesbridge, which sailed from Cowey, England, on January 9 for Philadelphia, is in need of immediate assistance at latitude 46.31 north and longitude 45.00 west, according to a wireless message from Cape Race received by C. H. Harvey, marine and fisheries agent here this morning.

The position places the steamer about 450 miles east of Cape Race.

JAPAN HOPES U. S. WILL END ALIEN BAN

TALKS ON MANCHURIA

Tokyo, Tuesday, Jan. 22 (A.P.).—American exclusion of Japanese immigrants was held up before the Japanese Diet today by Foreign Minister Tanaka as a problem still requiring settlement between the two governments, but one which should not interfere with friendly relations.

Baron Tanaka also said it was Japan's intention to be on the friendliest terms with the new Chinese government, but warned that his country's "vital" interests in Manchuria made Japan "fully determined" to intervene there should "a state of affairs arise in Manchuria which would disturb the local tranquillity."

"It is a source for congratulation," the foreign minister said, "that the bond of friendship, economic and political, with the United States is being more than ever strengthened. Only I wish to add that the matter of the immigration law which has been pending for the past few years has not yet been composed.

Depends on Good Understanding.

"A satisfactory solution of a problem like this must after all depend upon mutual good understanding which, I am fully confident, is growing year after year."

Baron Tanaka expressed gratification at the progress of pacification in China after so many years of strife and proclaimed Japan's willingness to cooperate with "other nations having close relations with China, to lend them assistance as far as possible in their task of reconstruction."

China, however, he said, "should more than ever be guided by the counsel of self-restraint and moderation" to achieve her unification.

Japanese sentiment regarding Manchuria, Baron Tanaka continued, is keener and entirely different than toward any other part of China on account of the large interests and widespread rights she holds there besides the million Japanese residents in that province.

Will Respect Sovereignty.

"The interest and concern with which the Japanese people have come to regard the affairs of Manchuria should therefore not cause the least wonder," the foreign minister said.

"It goes without saying that the Japanese government will respect the sovereignty of China over Manchuria, and will do all in their power for the preservation of the principles of the open door and equal opportunity, and desire that the region be made a safe abode for both natives and foreigners.

"They are at the same time fully determined to take appropriate steps should a state of affairs arise in Manchuria which would disturb the local tranquillity and thus put their vital interests in jeopardy. The government has always followed this policy in all their dealings with Manchuria."

Parliament Session Tense.

Japan's tensest parliamentary battle in a decade opened when Premier Tanaka, in his capacities as head of the government and foreign minister, addressed both houses of the first diet whose lower house was elected by universal manhood suffrage.

Special interest has been focused on Premier Tanaka's references to his much-assailed China policies. Dramatics on this point are likely to be introduced by the opposition's evoking the ghost of Chang Tso-lin, one-time head of the Northern government, who died from injuries he received last June when a special train in which he had fled from his capital at Peking was blown up in Manchuria.

For a fortnight deep mystery has shrouded the plans of the opposition, the newspapers obeying a police prohibition never to mention the assassinated Northern dictator specifically. The papers have referred to the matter only as a "certain grave Manchurian affair."

It is understood, however, that the government will be assailed for failure to clear up the mystery of Chang's death, alleging that as long as the facts are not known a cloud rests upon Japan's international reputation.

Not Guilty Plea Filed In Double Murder Case

Canton, Ohio, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Edward Kaltenbaugh, 21, pleaded not guilty to the murder of Mr. and Mrs. John Oser, jr., of Canal Fulton, on January 5, when arraigned on a first-degree murder indictment here today. Trial was set for February 18. Insanity will be his defense, his attorneys said.

partment, $1,140,430; Health Department, $427,590; courts and prisons, $842,340; public welfare, $4,466,580.

Also public buildings and public parks, $1,139,400; National Capital Park and Planning Commission, $1,000,000; National Zoological Park, $423,000; water services, $1,495,330; miscellaneous, $232,900.

New Projects Considered.

In a report accompanying the bill, the subcommittee revealed that it had given serious consideration to two projects, the purchase of land for the proposed municipal center and the proposed new $300,000 Police Court Building. While the subcommittee failed to provide for either of these projects in the appropriation bill, it expressed the hope that something could be done later in the session.

The bill carries the usual proviso that the Federal Government shall contribute a lump sum of $9,000,000 as its share of the cost of running the city. Also the present tax rate of $1.70 is continued.

The report accompanying the bill declares that the study made of the fiscal relations of the Federal and District governments by the Bureau of Efficiency showed that the Federal Government has been fair and generous, and says that the tax burden here is comparatively light.

Representative Griffin, Democrat, of New York, a member of the subcommittee, announced yesterday that he would protest against an absolute limit of $9,000,000.

School Plans Explained.

In explaining the reduction in the school appropriation, the subcommittee said that this merely represents a postponement of several school projects until certain elements incident to their construction are worked out.

The subcommittee inserted an item of $5,000 for the appointment of what is to be known as a business manager for the school department. It will be this official's job to supervise the business administration of the school system. Thus, Superintendent Ballou will be relieved of many matters of a business nature that now conflict with his purely pedagogic duties.

The bill carries $1,835,000 for erection of school additions and new school buildings. The largest sum—$300,000—is for a new $1,500,000 Business High School on a site adjoining the Macfarland Junior High School.

Other construction projects provided for follow:

Gymnasium and assembly hall for the John Eaton School, $50,000; junior high school building in the Reno section, $200,000; for completion of E. A. Paul Junior High School in Brightwood, $250,000.

To Finish Elementary School.

For completion of elementary school and gymnasium and assembly hall at Nineteenth street and Columbia road, $225,000; junior high school in the vicinity of Kingsman School, $200,000; colored health school, location undetermined, $150,000; addition to Park View School, $265,000, and four-room addition, including gymnasium and assembly hall, for the Buchanan School, $120,000.

Among the supplemental items carried in the bill are $35,000 for a free branch library for the Northeast section, $150,000 for a nurses' home at Gallinger Hospital, $400,000 for park and playground sites, and $220,000 for a reptile house at the Zoo.

In justifying the exclusion of the $165,000 that had been promised the District employes, Chairman Simmons said that when the two-year program was laid down the Welch act raising the salaries of all employes had not yet been passed and was not taken into consideration.

Says Pledge Is Nullified.

As a result of the passage of the Welch act, he said, $557,802 was added to the District pay roll over and above the $175,000 added by the committee. The Bureau of the Budget, he continued, eliminated the $165,000 asked for 1930, and the committee sustained the bureau's action.

Simmons said that data and testimony showed that, in comparison with the Federal departments, the average salary rates of the District employes are favorable.

But Representative Casey feels that a real injustice has been done because half of the employes received a raise in addition to the Welch act raise, and the other half has only a broken promise.

BLAINE IN SENATE DENOUNCES DRY LAW

worst," the Wisconsin senator declared. "So there was created this category of sins and crimes made by man and sanctioned by law until moral stamina of colonies was threatened.

"The difference between those days and these days is not very great. The colonists soon made up their minds that half of the people could not put the rest in jail.

"There is no legislative body now that can make a thing a crime and sin which is in fact not a crime and sin. Any law which finds no sanction in man's conscience will be ignored."

Tyranny of history was reviewed by the senator in a comparison with American enforcement of prohibitnon. He termed the prohibition law "the most vicious system of tyranny" and declared that the Cossacks under the Russian Czar, and the black and tan English troops in Ireland were "no more to be detested than the spies and agents ingrated upon the American system."

"Rome in her balmiest days," said the senator, "was infested with 10,000 spies and became a decadent nation for a thousand years. Spy government that must depend on force is a weak government."

Senator Blaine declared he did not agree with all the criticism of Secretary Mellon's enforcement of the law.

"I don't believe Mr. Mellow has impartially enforced the law," he said; "I don't believe he can enforce it."

GUATEMALA REVOLT ENDED, REBELS FLEE

Two Leaders of Insurgents Executed as Federals Reoccupy Cities.

AIR ATTACK SUCCESSFUL

Guatemala City, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—The government today announced that the revolt which blazed forth briefly in two Pacific provinces had been completely ended. The cities of Quetzaltenango and Retalhuleu, which had been the chief conquest of the rebels, were reoccupied today without a fight, although the federal forces previously had launched a severe atack with airplanes and artillery.

Leadership of the revolt was attributed to Juan F. Rivas. Planting of a bomb at a point where President Lazaro Chacon was to pass was believed to be part of the plot. The war broke out on last Thursday night and by the following day the government had its forces in the field and was regaining the ground taken in the surprise attacks of the insurgents.

[Dispatches to Mexico City papers last night said that Col. Leonardo and another revolutionary leader had been executed summarily after the federal troops took Mazatenango yesterday. The rebel Col. Baudilio Santos, who commanded the city after its capture by the rebels, was reported to have fled with 20 men.]

(Associated Press.)

Additional dispatches from Guatemala to its legation here today said Col. Marciano Casado and other military chiefs of the revolt fled from Quetzaltenango this morning toward the Mexican border.

Detachments of government troops immediately set out in pursuit of them. Reinforcements for the government's forces also are proceeding from Totonicapan to Quetzaltenango to take possession of that city.

The dispatches said that President Chacon's energetic measures had put an almost complete end to the revolution, the only thing remaining being the mopping up of a few scattered groups of rebels.

Finding of Mummy Branded Fiction

Story Merely Creation of Writer on Palestine Weekly Paper.

Jerusalem, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—A story published by the Cairo newspaper Al Mokattam and the London Daily Mail telling of the finding here of the mummy of King Solomon's favorite wife and of a scroll giving details of her tragic death turned out today to be pure fiction.

The story appeared as a piece of fiction in a Palestine weekly some weeks ago and described the sensation which arose when the Jerusalem government received a report that a golden coffin containing the mummy had been found at Mount Ophel where the ruins of the old City of David have in fact been discovered.

Arab journalists apparently took the faction story seriously and Al Mokattam published it yesterday, although it was then some weeks old.

"Speeding" Pedestrian Kills Noted Photographer

Chicago, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—A "speeding pedestrian" was blamed today for the death of A. W. Monfort, 70, a photographer who had won prizes at the Chicago World's Fair and the Paris International Exposition.

Monfort was knocked down by a man in a hurry last October. Injuries suffered then resulted in his death yesterday.

SENATE CONFIRMS NOMINATION OF WEST

lengthly hearings on the Chicagoan's qualifications for public office. These hearings were climaxed by the testimony of West himself.

Senators Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, Walsh (Democrat), Montana, and Norris (Republican), Nebraska, all independents, occupied most of the time devoted to the West discussion yesterday. All asked the Senate to reject the nomination.

Blaine, who supported Gov. Smith in the presidential campaign, told Democratic senators they would "break faith" with the "happy warrior" in his fight against the "power trust" if they supported West.

Roll Call Kept Secret.

After the vote on West's nomination, independents moved for publication of the roll call, but lost. Then they entered a motion for publication of the vote against publication and again lost. Finally they were defeated in an attempt to publish the minority report against confirmation submitted by Chairman Nye, of the public lands committee.

West was selected by President Coolidge to take the Interior portfolio shortly after Work resigned last fall to become campaign manager for Herbert Hoover and chairman of the Republican national committee, a post he still holds.

Immediately there were grumbles of protes' from legislative factions which had inaugurated a fight against the "power trust," in which Insull was called a moving spirit at the previous session of Congress.

Norris Led Committee Fight.

When the Senate convened for the short session, West's appointment was one of the first submitted. It was referred to the public lands committee where the fight was carried into the open with Senator Norris, Nebraska Republican, leading the opposition.

Summoned as the last witness in his own behalf, West was told by Nye that his previous experience as attorney for Insull made it impossible for the chairman to support his confirmation. Nevertheless the committee subsequently voted 9 to 4 for a favorable report.

West told the committee at that time he would be willing to refrain from participation as a member of the power commission in any decision affecting an Insull interest. Whether this will be done during the remainder of his term is not known. West's term will expire on March 4, with the rest of the Coolidge administration and it is understood he is not a candidate for reappointment.

NORTHCOTT REFUSES TO QUIZ SCIENTISTS

TOOTH IS CHILD'S, CLAIM

Riverside, Calif., Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Gordon Stewart Northcott, charged with the murder of three boys, declined to cross-examine witnesses in his trial here today "in my present physical condition." The 22-year-old defendant-counsel, who dismissed his lawyers to take over his own case, had conducted cross-examination until today in the case through a knowledge of law gained from correspondence courses. Northcott's failure to question witnesses came at the time Dr. I. D. Nokes, dental anatomist, of the University of Southern California, took the stand and identified as human a tooth found at the defendant's Wineville chicken ranch.

Northcott took little interest in the proceedings. Earlier in the court session he had failed to obtain a continuance on the ground of illness when physicians examined him in court and found him "not physically incapacitated."

Tooth Human, Dentist Says.

Dr. Nokes took the stand today, after J. Clark Sellers, technical investigator, had concluded identification of physical evidence produced from the Northcot ranch.

The dental anatomist was shown a tooth sealed in a glass container. He said, "It is an incompletely developed tooth, probably from a person between the ages of 10 and 11 years."

Nelson Winslow one of the boys Northcott is accused of slaying, was 10 years old. His brother, Lewis, also believed slain, was 12.

Sellers, in his testimony, told of a scientific examination made by him of the stationery upon which letters received by Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Winslow of Pomona, after their son's disappearance, were written. The envelopes used for a letter mailed in Pomona on May 10, 1928, and for a second letter mailed in Corona on May 28, were declared by Sellers to be of the same size, construction, texture and watermark as envelopes found at the Northcott ranch.

Says Paper Is Identical.

The paper on which the letter of May 28 was written, Sellers testified he found identical with the paper of the dedication page of a book from the Pasadena library. Previous testimony had developed that Lewis Winslow had taken a similar book from the Pomona library two days before he disappeared and Sanford Clark, Northcott's 15-year-old nephew, last week told of burning the book at the Northcott ranch.

Northcott today asked that Dr. L. D. Whiting, biochemist, of Los Angeles, and Dr. Newton Evans, pathologist, of Loma Linda, appointed by the court as disinterested experts be called to advise with him with regard to his cross-examination of the State's experts.

Quake Believed Cause Of Mine Blast; 12 Hurt

Wilkes-Barre, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Twelve men, members of a repair crew working in a mine of Baltimore No. 5 Colliery of Hudson Coal Co. at East End, were injured today when an explosion of gas followed a squeeze.

All were taken to the Wilkes-Barre General Hospital where their injuries were found to consist mainly of slight burns and shock.

Officials of the company, while not issuing any statement, are said to believe that an "earthquake" which shook Wyoming Valley last night was caused by subsidences in the region where today's explosion occurred.

PRIMARY CAMPAIGN COST IS ANNOUNCED

Senate Committee's Report Calls All Candidates' Funds Legitimate.

LOWDEN'S EXPENSE THIRD

(Associated Press)

The Presidential primary campaign cost the fifteen candidates in the two major parties $894,096 and it was money legitimately spent in the opinion of the Senate campaign funds investigation committee.

Chairman Steiwar, of the committee, submitted the report yesterday to the Senate dealing only with the pre-convention campaign and he included a recommendation from the committee for legislation to "safeguard against possible future abuses in primary campaigns and in convention contests."

Herbert Hoover reported the largest amount, with preconvention expenditures placed at $395,254.18. Alfred E. Smith was next largest spender in the primaries, the committee putting his expenditures at $152,622.53.

Lowden Made Hard Fight

Frank O. Lowden, who made a determined fight for the Republican nomination, was third in line in expenditures with $87,415.97 and the late Senator Frank Willis, of Ohio, was fourth with expenditures of $66,534.52.

The committee reported $75,428.51 was spent in the primaries which it was unable to allot to any single candidate.

"The committee finds," said the report, "almost uniformly that all those persons engaged in handling campaign funds strictly complied with the corrupt practices act of the several states and abstained from any ascertainable impropriety."

"The committee recommends the enactment of adequate legislation regulating the conduct of conventions and primary elections for the nomination of presidential candidates. Such an act would safeguard against possible future abuses in primary campaigns and in convention contests."

The inquiry of the committee into the campaign expenses of the presidential campaign, has not yet been completed. No hearings whatever have been held on this and it is its present intention to rely on the campaign reports submitted by the national committees of the various political parties.

The reports of the candidates in the primary campaign, with the receipts listed first and then the expenditures, follow:

Republicans—Herbert Hoover, $380,151.93, $395,254.18; Charles Curtis, $12,255, $11,539.67; Charles G. Dawes, $579.50, $579.50; George G. Norris, nothing, $6,262; James G. Watson, $35,831, $36,472.76; Frank O. Lowden, $100,462.34, $87,415.97; Frank Willis, $62,987.77, $66,534.52, and Guy D. Goff, nothing, $2,979.66.

Democrats—Alfred E. Smith $142,248.96, $152,622.53; Frank Hitchcock, $105, $1,744.85; Walter F. George, nothing, $115; Cordell Hull, $1,845, $1,845; Thomas J. Walsh, $1,257, $2,199.95; James A. Reed, $51,481.64, $52,982.66, Atlee Pomerene, nothing, $100.

Land Bank Officials Indicted in Conspiracy

St. Paul, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Paul A. Preus and Thomas O. Ofsthun, former treasurer and assistant treasurer, respectively, of the Federal Land Bank here, have been indicted by a Federal grand jury on charges of criminally conspiring to misappropriate more than $50,000 of the bank's funds.

The indictments returned secretly Saturday were revealed today when Preus, a brother of former Gov. J. A. O. Preus, surrendered and Ofsthun informed Federal officials he would give himself up later.

DOCTORS SAY BOOTH GAINING IN HEALTH

Salvation Army Reformers See Hope Fade in Move for New General.

INJUNCTION STILL HOLDS

London, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Gen. Bramwell Booth has gained physical strength in the last 10 days, which will aid him in prosecution of the fight which he seems determined to continue for retention of control of the Salvation Army. The international headquarters of the army tonight issued a bulletin signed by two physicians and stating that the general has steadily improved in health.

All possibility of electing a new general this week disappeared today when the chancery court granted an adjournment until Friday to permit the defendants to prepare their case. While the injunction was directed against the high council, only Chief of Staff Higgins and the seven commissioners who signed the call for the council meeting were served as individual defendants.

There has been no sign that Bramwell Booth has any intention of withdrawing the suit.

The medical bulletin was issued over the signatures of Doctors John Weir and Ernest Wardlaw Milne, who signed a similar bulletin issued about ten days ago and in which they say that the general would be ready to resume his work within a few months. Today's announcement said:

"We have examined Gen. Booth today The result of our examination has justified our previous report. His progress has been more than maintained and this, in existing circumstances, must be considered encouraging."

Mexicans Fight at Election.

Mexico City, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—A dispatch to El Universal from Apam, state of Hidalgo, today said six persons had been killed in a political clash during a governorship election. The fighting lasted for an hour. There were clashes reported from several other towns, but no casualties.

POLLUTION OF MILK MARKS DAIRY STRIKE

Chicagoans Act to Prevent Waste Fearing Shortage of Necessary Fluid.

FARMERS UNDER GUARD

Chicago, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Wanton waste of milk, with the attendant possibility of a shortage of the precious fluid, brought residents of Chicago together today in an effort to end the strike of Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana dairymen.

Following discovery of kerosene in some of the milk shipped into the city, inspectors were assigned by Health Commissioner Arnold H. Kegal to guard against further pollution.

Highway patrolmen were assigned to guard receiving plants of the larger producers to prevent further violence to farmers attempting to deliver milk, and the Lake County Circuit Court at Waukegan issued a temporary injunction against the strikers.

Federal action seemed imminent, inasmuch as the interstate shipments of milk were involved. George E. Q. Johnson, United States district attorney, announced he was ready to act if any complaints were made to him.

Mayor Thompson came to the fore with the information that he opposed the increase of 35 cents per hundredweight, asked by the farmers, members of the Pure Milk Association. He said it would cost Chicago residents $5,475,000 additional each year.

More than 1,000,000 pounds of milk have been destroyed since the strike started three weeks ago when the larger distributors, such as the Bowman Dairy Co. and the Borden Co., refused to meet the new price asked, $22.85. It was the Bowman Co. which filed the petition for injunction at Waukegan.

It appeared likely that the Indiana farmers and dealers would get together, many of the dealers having signed an agreement to the increase today. Their action was inspired by the 300 members of the Pure Milk Association who stopped their daily delivery of 125,000 pounds of milk to the Calumet district dealers.

W. C. McQueen, president of the association, said the increase of 35 cents a hundredweight would mean approximately three-fourths of a cent a quart to the distributor. If the consumer were to pay 1 cent more a quart and this passed on to the farmer the producer would get $2.96 a hundred pounds, or more than asked, he explained.

Chicago's milk supply yesterday was 400,000 quarts under normal, although distributors said they had been able to supply all demands. A greater shortage for today and tomorrow was predicted.

JAWORSKI, SLAYER OF 7, DIES IN CHAIR

Bandit Chief's Arrogant Attitude Vanishes as Life's End Nears.

ANOTHER ALSO EXECUTED

Rockview Prison, Bellefonte, Pa., Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Paul Jaworski, notorious bandit chieftain and killer, today paid with his life for the part he admitted playing in the death of seven men. He died as he had lived, a man without religion, going to the electric chair here unattended except by two guards.

Directly after Jaworski had been pronounced dead, Calvin D. James, of Upper Darby, was strapped in the chair and paid the toll for having killed a Doylestown druggist and tire salesman.

Jaworski was given his first shock at 7:02 and was declared dead at 7:06. James took his first shock at 7:10 and was officially dead at 7:14. Robert Elliot, official executioner for several States, threw the switch that sent both men into eternity.

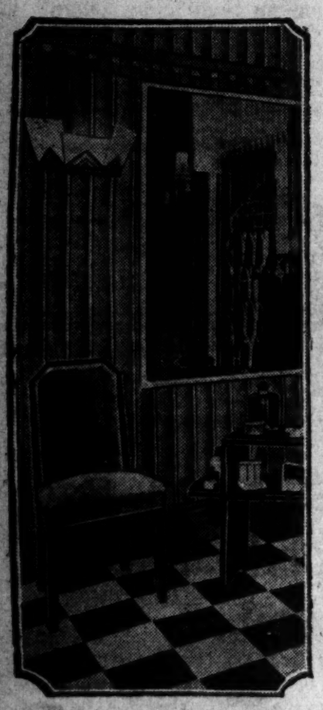
Jaworski, supported by two guards, entered the death chamber at 7 o'clock. He appeared to be in a daze. The arrogant attitude he had steadfastly maintained was gone. His faltering step, produced by a paralyzed leg, the result of police bullets, caused him to be supported

As he stepped up to the chair he stumbled on the foot electrode. The guards prevented his falling and he was seated in the chair. Three men, including the executioner, strapped him in. Then Elliot stepped directly behind the chair, took a last glance at the killer and threw the switch.

James had spiritual guidance as he entered the death house. He was hastily bound to the chair, the executioner again stepped back, and after the first shock James was pronounced dead.

In Paris . . . Mme. Payot world-famous beauty specialist advises this 2-minute beauty method

Renowned Parisian specialist tells of a home treatment to keep complexions fresh and youthful; palm and olive oils essential.



The Payot Salon in Paris, beauty shrine of Europeans and Americans alike, with its chaste elegance of mirrored walls and angular beveling, is an interesting example of the increasing use of modernist decoration

"Recently I discovered a way in which the success of my work as beauty specialist could be increased. I recommend to my clients the soap of palm and olive oils which, separately, have great cosmetic value—and which, in the blending of Palmolive Soap, are doubly effective. It supplements excellently the effects of my Creme No. 1 and Lotion No. 1."

Dr. N. G. Payot
12 rue Richepause
Paris

Madam Payot in her artfully decorated Paris salon, where every phase of beauty culture is carefully studied by this beauty dictator. Many of the loveliest women of the continent come to consult the eminent Madame Payot on problems of skin care.

FOR many years the elite of Paris have listened to the beauty advice of Mme. Payot, teacher of many famous beauty specialists who now carry the great Payot methods to cosmopolitan centers throughout the world.

Today, Mme. Payot advises the daily use of palm and olive oils in soap, in a simple 2-minute treatment, and warns against the harsh effects of the wrong kind of soap. Here is beauty news, indeed!

Mme. Payot's discovery

Madame Payot, in her appropriately modern background on the rue Richepause, Paris, tells of this discovery on complexion care:

"I found," she says, "that some women habitually use soaps that harm the skin, that some of my treatments in consequence seemed to have no permanent effect . . that I am constantly working to overcome the bad results of improper home cleansing.

"So, I commenced to recommend to my patients the soap made of palm and olive oils—which, separately, have great cosmetic value, and which, in the Palmolive blending, are doubly efficacious in the case of blackheads, open pores, greasy skin, etc."

"The difference was immediately apparent," says this distinguished exponent of beauty culture. "This home cleansing rule gives the correct foundation for the use of my Creme No. 1 and Lotion No. 1."

In the leading beauty salons of every American city this very same treatment has long been recommended. Lovely Americans travel all over the world to hear over and over again the merits of this most popular of home facial treatments. They go to Jacobson, of London, to Pessl, of Vienna; to Elise Bock, of Berlin, they visit the salon of the exquisite Lina Cavalieri, in Paris—and everywhere, everywhere they are given this same advice: wash for beauty with Palmolive Soap.

Her 2-minute treatment

Here is the famous Palmolive treatment, recommended all over the world, as Madame Payot would advise it: make a creamy lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water. With both hands massage this well into the skin two minutes, allowing it to penetrate the pores. Then rinse, first with warm water, gradually with colder. A final rinse with ice water is a refreshing astringent.

For a dry skin, a touch of cold cream before adding powder and rouge; for oily skin, an astringent lotion.

A simple treatment, yet it undoubtedly explains why Palmolive is one of the two largest selling soaps in France—known the world over as home of exquisite cosmetics. Here in America, and in forty-eight other countries, it is more generally used than any other soap.

A luxurious formula embodying the precious oils of palm and olive, famous since the days of Cleopatra for bestowing health and beauty

DEAREST GENEVIEVE:

What are you going "as" to the Ball Boheme? Wherever you go, and whomever you meet, you hear nothing but plans for this colorful, wonderful, exotic ball which the Arts Club gives once a year at the Willard Hotel.

I hear that the pageant is to be simply marvelous, even lovelier than last year, if such a thing could be possible. If you want help in securing the right accessories for your costumes, you will find that many shops around town are featuring exhibits and displays, authentic reproductions of Egyptian habiliments and so forth, of great interest.

Literally every one in town is to be present. It's a dreadful jam, and no end of fun! Haven't decided yet what I will wear. It's a grand chance to disguise one's self as the Sultan's Favorite . . . so maybe!

You Might Be Slightly Conscious

—of the fact that you do not look exactly as you did at 17. The photographs of yourself taken at that time show a face so big-eyed and ingenuous and altogether appealing . . . almost pitiful Well, you will never look like that again! What of it? You have a different charm now, and portraits made at Underwood & Underwood's reveal it so subtly.

That is one clever thing about the photographers in this studio, which the layman can scarcely understand, that is the art of promoting all your best characteristics without taking away any of the points which are distinctly "you."

I am told that much of this result is achieved in the re-touching, or rather I might say, the restraint in re-touching. Whatever it is, Underwood & Underwood have the art down to a fine science.

The care in selecting and maintaining a staff of experts in every department is sure to mean perfection.

The Swimming Pool at Marjorie Webster's —School of Expression and Physical Education has only just opened. The new school is out on Kalmia road and Sixteenth street facing Rock Creek Park. The main building is of Spanish design set in ten acres of wooded knolls, really the highest point in Rock Creek Park.

I had not seen it until one day last week when I hopped on a Sixteenth street bus and went out. You change to a Rock Creek Estates bus at Kennedy street, which takes you to the door.

You do not have to be a student in the school to enjoy the privileges of the swimming pool. You may want to form your own little swimming club, and go out regularly on certain days. It's a marvelous pool, the largest in town, inclosed, of course, 70 feet long and 30 feet wide, with a filtration system which absolutely guarantees its sanitation.

A balcony with a seating capacity of about 100 accommodates guests for tournaments. Telephone Georgia 1700.

The Next Best Thing to Going —away for a midwinter holiday is to go into Pasternak's and see the delectable new spring things which are coming in every day. There are so many travelers to Southern resorts that, needless to say, the prettiest models are selected almost as soon as they are unpacked.

I might say that the fact of your remaining at home is no reason why you shouldn't indulge yourself in one of the lovely ensembles to wear now. Good for your morale to buy new clothes, you know! Nothing like it to set you up! To step out in a complete new costume is almost as good for you as a trip away.

There's no use trying to describe individual models in the doezns of charming things Pasternak's are showing. I took away ecstatic impressions of wonderful colorings, divine fabrics, new and appealing lines.

Don't fail to have a look at the racks of marked down models. Ensembles, winter coats, hats and gowns for both day and evening have been marked so low in price that surely some prices must be way below the original cost. Gowns are as low as $35. Hats are $5. Dress coats (beauties) are down to $89.

The Junksnuppers at 1338 Nineteenth Street

—show in their windows a little hint of what you may find inside. You must give them a visit, however, to really appreciate this unusual antique shop. When I dropped in yesterday I did not have time to see everything new which had arrived, but in a quick glance around I saw innumerable articles which will bear close inspection and a brief study of their histories.

If You Are Bent on Dancing

—and want to have a nice party without a great big expenditure let me remind you of the nightly supper dances at Wardman Park Hotel. The entertainers this week are even more amusing than they have been heretofore. Edith Sheldon, late of "The New Moon," and Ralph Kennedy, from "The Little Club," New York, are a team you can't afford to miss. Kennedy is a tap-dancer (has that always been one of your ambitions too?) and Sheldon has a big repertoire of novelty dances including toe performances, which are dainty and alluring.

The Meyer Davis Orchestra simply could not be better, and since the surroundings are what they are, the food as it is, and your party properly planned, what more could you ask?

When a Shop Like This One —of which I am about to tell you, offers reduced prices, you may rest assured that you have a real opportunity to buy. Mrs. Gaither and Miss Williams, 1621 Connecticut avenue, have reduced their gowns remaining from the winter exhibits even lower than they have been all month. Before February 1 everything must be cleared away to make room for the Southern wear and early spring models.

There is a charming green satin evening gown which is just the thing for spring and which, luckily for you, may be had now at so much less than its original price, I would be afraid to name it for fear the shop would be mobbed.

A grayish blue evening gown, with a bloused bodice embroidered in sequins, has long panels at the sides and a tight hipline. On second thought I am not sure that this is in the reduced price lot. It is a new gown, and worth seeing.

Affectionately,

MURDER IS CHARGED TO CRASH SURVIVOR

C. N. Whalley Visited by Kin in Arlington Jail; Lawyer Denies 2 Were Slain.

YOUTH ATTENDED DANCE

A charge of murder was placed yesterday against Charles N. Whalley, 18 years old, of 429 M street northwest, only survivor of the crash in which Daniel Weston, 20 years old, of 407 Fourth street northwest, and Francis Hill Slaughter, 19 years old, of 930 Sixteenth street northwest, were killed at Arlington, Va., Saturday night.

Whalley has been held at Arlington County Jail since the death of his companions in a car reported stolen. The charge entered against him was "unlawfully and feloniously killing Daniel Weston and Francis Slaughter."

He will be give a preliminary hearing Saturday morning.

Attorney Issues Statement.

Capt. Crandal Mackey, his counsel, former Commonwealth attorney of Arlington County; Mrs. Edna Whalley, his mother, and Charles Bourne, his uncle, visited him yesterday at jail. Mackey issued the following statement:

"Whalley denies that he was in any way responsible for the accident or at any time drove the car. He says he never saw the car until Friday. Slaughter told him at Ninth and I streets northwest, in Washington, about 8 o'clock on the night of the accident, that he had borrowed the automobile.

"He states further that at no time either he or the other boy, whose name is Daniel Weston, and who was killed, ever operated the car. He says neither he nor Weston had a cent of money; that Slaughter always had the money and knew people who owned automobiles.

"Did Not Want to Go."

"He states that Francis Slaughter drove them to Virginia Saturday night, saying he was going to get some girls; and they both, he and Weston, did not want to go to Virginia. They were talking about being carried out to Virginia when the crash came."

Whalley is reported to have left the scene of the crash, Wilson boulevard and Rucker street, Clarendon, and was found in an automobile parked near the courthouse by boys who were attending a party.

The boys noted Whalley's cuts about the face, and after first aid treatment took him to Georgetown Hospital. Hospital authorities notified police and he was lodged in Arlington County jail without charges.

Another Secretary Is Provided Hoover

Budget Bureau Adds $10,000 Job to White House Staff, Making Four.

(Associated Press.)

Herbert Hoover will have two $10,000 a year private secretaries when he becomes President, if Congress approves.

In reporting the independent offices appropriation bill yesterday, the Senate appropriations committee added $10,000 for the salary of an additional private secretary. This was done after a special recommendation was received from the Budget Bureau.

The present White House staff consists of Everett Sanders, private secretary, with a salary of $10,000 a year, and Edward T. Clark and Stuart Crawford, assistants, with smaller salaries.

Woman, 80, Seriously Injured by Big Truck

Struck down by a 5-ton truck as she crossed Massachusetts avenue and Fifth street northwest late yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Ethel Spector, 80 years old, of 449 G street northwest, was seriously injured. She was taken to Casualty Hospital, where she was treated for shock, bruises on the head and lacerations about the body and limbs. Surgeons described her condition as serious because of her advanced age.

Abraham Wilson, colored, 40 years old, of 61 M street southwest, said by the police to be the driver of the truck, was arrested on a charge of driving without a permit.

tive committee, took matters out of McBride's hands and issued a statement condemning Mellon's stand.

Senator Harris in a follow-up statement praised the two Antisaloon League leaders for their support of his amendment and termed their statement a "repudiation" of McBride.

McBride, in South Bend, Ind., informed of the bishops' action, issued a new statement favoring the increased prohibition appropriation, but retaining his support of the budgeting made by the Treasury Department.

Critics of McBride.

Critics of McBride's legislative activities say he spends insufficient time in Washington.

"With McBride absent most of the time, Congress doesn't know where we stand, or what our policies are on legislative matters," a league official said.

The official termed Nicholson's and Cannon's statement in opposition to McBride's stand as one of the most drastic steps taken by the league since Wayne B Wheeler was censured in 1927 by Cannon and Dr. A. J. Barton, of Atlanta, for suggesting a third party in case Gov. Smith of New York was nominated for the Presidency by the Democrats. Wheeler faced retirement from the league at the time of his death because of this, the official said.

Two other organized dry associations, the Committee of 1,000, headed by Fred B. Smith, of New York, and the New National Conference of Organizations Supporting the Eighteenth Amendment, are seeking to gain the dry leadership held by the league for many years, the official said.

The National Conference, developed by Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, a league official and a candidate for the league superintendency against McBride at the last league conference, gave out as its program that which has here before been regarded as the work of the league.

"Unless something is done quickly, the league will lose its leadership and become just one out of twenty or more organizations cooperating with the National Conference," the official predicted.

Charlottesville, Va., Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Led by John Burnley, of Nelson County, Va., police today found the body of Jack Cunningham, 30, of Wingina, Va., whom Burnley said he shot to death yesterday following a quarrel.

PASSENGERS AWAIT FLOATING OF LINER

SHIP'S CARGO LIGHTENED

Nassau, Bahamas, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—(By Radio)—The Munson liner Pan-America arrived here this afternoon with the passengers taken from the Dollar Line steamer, President Garfield, stranded since yesterday morning on Mantanilla Reef north of here.

New York, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Ninety men and women idled away the hours today at a hotel in Nassau, Bahama Islands, waiting for their ship to be freed from a coral reef so that they could continue their journey part or all the way around the world.

The ship is the Dollar liner President Garfield, which left here on a world cruise last Thursday and which yesterday morning drove its prow up onto the Matanilla Reefs, hidden beneath the blue waters of th South Atlantic at the northern tip of the Baka Islands.

An S O S call sent out at the time of the grounding brought aid from the Munson liner Pan America, which left New York on the same day as the President Garfield and which was 200 miles away. Twelve hours after the grounding the Pan America lay alongside in smooth water and passengers were transferred with all their baggage in lifeboats.

The officers and crew of 150 stayed aboard the President Ga ield as the Pan America steamed away to Nassau with the passengers, who were lodged at the Colonial hotel as guests of the Dollar Line.

A salvage tug reached the scene today and found that the President Garfield was still fast but apparently unharmed. The ballast tanks had been pumped out to lighten her and it had been determined that the ship was taking no water. Anchors were lowered to keep her from rolling in the swell.

On the passenger list as announced yesterday were the names of Miss E. M Hand and W. H. McAninay, both of Washington.

Dr. Little Resigns Post at University

Head of Michigan, Storm Center for Several Years, Out of Office.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 21 (A.P.).—The resignation of Dr. Clarence Cook Little, for three years president of the University of Michigan, was accepted unanimously tonight by the board of regents of the university.

In asking to be relieved of his duties at the university June 1 or sooner, Dr. Little requested that educational innovations which he originated and which have caused much division of opinion on the campus, be dropped unless the regents and his successor could give them wholehearted support.

Since coming to the university in the fall of 1925, President Little has been a storm center. He hardly had arrived in Ann Arbor before published interviews in which he favored birth control brought censure from the Michigan League of Catholic Women.

He repeatedly has attacked various religious groups as hypocritical and has assailed the Daughters of the American Revolution and other patriotic organizations as un-American.

She is the first woman ever appointed a member.

The new commissioner is widely known in activities of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and in local civic work. Her husband was at one time a member of the Senate from North Carolina, and also served as a justice of the Fourth Circuit Court of North Carolina, of which he was chief justice at the time of his death in 1921.

Immediately upon her appointment, Mrs. Pritchard tendered her resignation as a member of the present grand jury. She resides at 1317 M street northwest.

VARE PHONE CALLS ARE BEING STUDIED

Reed Committee Calls 3 to Determine His Ability to Discuss Politics.

VERY ILL, WAS REPORT

Philadelphia, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—An investigation into the telephone calls alleged to have been made last week by Senator-elect William S. Vare from his invalid chair in Florida to Philadelphia, in an effort to prevent the election of Charles L. Brown as president judge of the municipal court, was started today by the Reed Senate committee.

John J. McGrain, deputy sergeant-at-arms of the Senate, arrived here late today with subpenas for Judge John E. Walsh secretary of the board of judges of the municipal court; Sheriff Thomas W. Cunningham and James M. Hazlett recorder of deeds. The subpenas call for the appearance of the three men in Washington at 10 a. m. Thursday.

The Reed committee has been told by Dr. Elwood R Kirby, the senator-elect's chief physician, and Francis Shunk Brown, his counsel, that Vare is in a serious condition at St. Lucie, Fla., and is unable to take part in political discussions or conferences.

Members of the committee desire to question Mr. Vare concerning the charges of fraud lodged with the committee by William B. Wilson, his Democratic opponent, and some of them were understood to feel that if he was able to telephone from Florida regarding the municipal court contest, he should make every effort to appear in Washington in the fight for his seat in the Senate.

(Associated Press.)

Detailed specification alleging fraud in the Pennsylvania primary of 1926 w filed with the Senate privileges and elections committee yesterday by William B. Wilson, who is contesting the Senate seat to which William S. Vare was declared elected.

The report protests the entire vote of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh and asks that the votes cast in those cities be rejected.

Thirty-nine specifications of fraud were listed by Wilson, who was the Democratic candidate, in the case of the Philadelphia votes. They included charges that excessive expenditures were made for printing official ballots, that large number of "extra" ballots were illegally distributed at various polling places and that persons not properly authorized by law to receive them were given ballots.

Toxic War Gas Used On Pineapple Pests

Honolulu, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Chloropicrin, a toxic gas used by the United States Army during the World War, is to be used in experiments seeking to increase Hawaiian pineapple production by parasite control.

Tests already indicate that toxic war gas destroys the nematodes which stunt pineapple growth by attacking roots of the young plants and at the same time stimulates the plant themselves, acting as a fertilizer. Nematodes nest in the soil and reproduce some 500 times a month.

avoid "dosing"

CHILDREN

for Colds and Flu

A peculiarity of influenza is that its toxins upset the digestive system and too much "dosing" still further disturbs the digestion just when the child needs all his reserve strength to fight off the flu.

Internal medication should be avoided, therefore, except on the advice of a physician. As Vicks VapoRub is applied externally, it can be used freely, even on the youngest child, with no fear of upsetting the most delicate stomach.

A Safe External Treatment

When flu is around, don't let children keep a cold overnight. At the very first sign, put the child to bed. Apply hot wet towels on the throat and chest until the skin is thoroughly reddened. Then rub vigorously with Vicks. Spread on thickly and cover with warm flannel.

Leave the bed-covering loose around the neck so that Vicks medicated vapors, released by the body warmth, can be freely inhaled. They are breathed in direct to the inflamed air-passages, loosening the phlegm and clearing the head.

At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice, "drawing out" tightness and soreness.

After a Flu-Attack

Don't let the children get up too soon; rest in bed helps nature to build up the vitality. Don't let them work or play too hard, and be careful to avoid sudden chills.

Above all, stop every cold at the start. At this time, more than ever, colds attacking the weakened system may lead to bronchitis, abscess of the ear, sinus-trouble, or pneumonia.

Equally good for adults. Of course, Vicks 2-way action is just as effective for adults' cold-troubles as it is for children's.

"We know our Luckies

That's how we stay slender"

EVERY woman who fears overweight finds keen interest in new-day and common-sense ways to keep a slender, fashionable figure. Overweight must be avoided. "Better to light a Lucky whenever you crave fattening sweets."

Toasting does it. Toasting develops and improves the flavor of the world's finest tobaccos. Lucky Strike satisfies the longing for things that make you fat, without interfering with a normal appetite for healthful foods. That's why Luckies are good to smoke. Toasting makes Lucky Strike the healthy cigarette for you to smoke.

Many men who carefully watch their health discovered this years ago. They know that Luckies steady their nerves and do not slow up their physical vigor—prominent athletes have gone on record that this is so. They know that 20,679 physicians have stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many such are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say:—

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD OF A SWEET."

STOP THE FILIBUSTER.

Mr. Blaine, senator from Wisconsin, is not content with being the only opponent of the Kellogg treaty in the Senate. He now begins a one-man filibuster against the cruiser bill. The people of his State are sending out notice that his stand on the Kellogg treaty does not reflect their opinion, and no doubt they will repudiate his stand against the cruiser bill.

The Senate can put a stop to a filibuster at this stage, even if it should be conducted by senators more competent than Mr. Blaine. The cruiser bill is entitled to the right of way. Senator Hale, in charge of the bill, has been more than generous in yielding to other matters, but the time has arrived when he has no right to yield further. It is his duty to press the cruiser bill to a vote. If the Senate does not approve of the bill, all it has to do is to vote it down.

Too much time has been wasted in the Senate during this session. The appropriation bills are behind. Some of them require moderate discussion. They relate to the Government's business. The reapportionment bill awaits action, and the Senate will encounter merited criticism if it fails to make the readjustment that is required to give the States their just representation in the House of Representatives and the Electoral College. Some action must be taken on the "national origins" clause of the immigration act if the Government is not to be embarrassed by another unworkable law. Other important legislation is on the calendar.

Supporters of the cruiser bill will not only insure the enactment of that measure but will promote the public business generally if they put an end to dilatory tactics in the Senate.

IS DRUNKENNESS INCREASING?

From time to time individuals and organizations opposed to prohibition produce statistics purporting to show that drinking and drunkenness is on the increase. Drys have a stock reply to such statistics. They rarely challenge the figures themselves, but they assert that the figures prove only that enforcement authorities and police are more active against drinkers. There is no increase in drinking, say the drys, but more inebriates are being picked up by police.

A decade ago the Keely Institute was a nationally known institution. Confirmed drunkards looked to the Keely cure as a last resort. With the advent of prohibition the Keely Institute, located at Dwight, Ill., did not close its doors, but the name gradually passed from the public vocabulary. Now, however, the Keely Institute announces a program of enlargement, made necessary by the promise of an attendance larger than ever before in its 40 years' history.

In 1900, it is divulged, the Keely Institute admitted 795 patients. In 1905, 805 drunkards underwent the cure. In 1910 and 1915 the figures had shrunk to 731 and 660, respectively, and in 1920, immediately following the dawn of the prohibition era, the figure dropped to 186. Then the attendance began to increase. In 1925 it reached 407; and in 1928, 753 patients took the cure.

The records show that there has been a shift in the mental and moral status of Keely patients. More bankers, merchants, salesmen and contractors attend the institute today, and fewer clerks, farmers, laborers and mechanics. But the figures apparently indicate that there has been an increase in drinking and drunkenness.

CHILD PSYCHOLOGY.

Parents are beginning to realize that child training involves more than commands to "do this" or "don't do that." Children have been allowed to develop largely without guidance. Psychology, and its lesser division, behaviorism, are still infant sciences, although several leaders have made remarkable progress in applying science to the training of children.

One such is Dr. Alfred Adler, Viennese psychologist, founder of 30 child-behavior clinics in conjunction with the public school system of Vienna. Dr. Adler has just arrived in the United States for a lecture tour. Upon landing he issued a statement to the effect that crime may be diminished, marital troubles ironed out, financial failure mitigated, the inferior complex routed, and conditions of mental maladjustment prevented or cured by the application of individual psychology.

There are three general types of problem children, according to Dr. Adler, into which all children who are not completely adjusted, and excepting the feebleminded and insane, fall. The first type is the child born with imperfect organs; the second is the spoiled child, and the third is the unwanted. To escape these maladjustments the child becomes, perhaps, the rabbit type, a shrinker from life, one who avoids human contacts, or who becomes a fox, bear or lion—to speak in the language of fable. Children falling into one of these three types unless trained become adults of the same sort—neurotic, perverted, or criminal.

Dr. Adler believes that the earlier corrective treatment is undertaken the better it is for the child. The child's "style of life," he says, is already well established by the time he reaches his fourth or fifth birthday, and it is then as difficult to change his mental habits as it is to change those of an adult. The first day of a child's life is the proper time to begin its psychological treatment.

Dr. Adler is one of the pioneers in child psychology. The effect of his researches and experiments will be watched with interest by parents.

CHEAP POLITICS.

After Secretary Mellon had informed the Senate that he did not know how he could properly expend $25,000,000 which dry senators are trying to force upon him, an outburst of protest has been heard from volunteer directors of prohibition policy, such as Bishop Cannon, Bishop Nicholson, and others. They express "amazement" that Secretary Mellon should reject an offer of $25,000,000 to be expended upon prohibition enforcement.

Mr. Mellon has now had the patience to give a courteous reply, stating that the squandering of public money is a violation of the fundamental principles of good government, even if the money is spent in prohibition enforcement. He points out that the $25,000,000 proposal places no restriction upon the unlimited discretion of the official to whom it would be given.

The politicians who are trying to make personal capital as champions of the prohibition law are helping to make the law offensive to fair-minded citizens. Common sense revolts against making one law the favorite of the law-enforcing department of the Government. The Secretary of the Treasury has asked for and obtained a budget estimate of the amount that can be usefully expended in prohibition enforcement. Any sum exceeding the estimate would be a waste and would encourage graft. The attempt to thrust $25,000,000 upon Secretary Mellon, with the implied instruction that he must use it to make prohibition effective, is obviously a cheap political trick designed to make it appear that the authors of the plan are the only simon-pure drys in the country. They are willing to bleed the Treasury if thereby they can pose as special champions of prohibition.

SURVEY OF THE CAPITAL.

Plans for a survey of Washington which will serve as a basis for future development for many years were outlined to a group of more than 600 business men at the Willard Hotel Thursday night. The survey, to be undertaken by the Board of Trade, will be the most extensive study of its kind ever made of the Capital and should prove invaluable as an index of municipal growth.

Washington was originally a carefully planned city. For many years its growth was steady and slow and there was little occasion for changing the original design or adding to it. But within the last 30 years the population has more than doubled. During the last nine years the number of inhabitants has increased from 437,571 to 600,000. Such rapid growth means hasty development of the city along lines which could not possibly have been foreseen. The city is now face to face with the fact that its expansion is going on without any centralized plan or any idea as to what its future needs will be. There are various plans for Government buildings and beautification in general, but these do not provide a comprehensive basis for development of the city as a whole.

Statistics will be gathered from every angle bearing on the business, industrial and civic growth of the Capital. The data will be assembled by experts in such a way that it will be available to private concerns as well as public officials. The result should be to make the community conscious of the trend of its expansion, so that intelligent plans for the future may be laid. The survey should prove especially valuable to business men, who will be able to discover the needs of the District and the best opportunities for new business.

Washington is a city in a class by itself. Because it is the National Capital the country can not afford to allow the city to grow without plan or regulation. While the survey will point out the commercial aspects of the city's growth it will also tend to show the peculiar obligations incurred by the District because of its national character. Congress would do well to profit by this undertaking and make the survey a guide to action rather than just another collection of data to be read and pigeonholed. To obtain the best results cooperation should be forthcoming from every agency which is interested in the future of the Capital.

CORPORATIONS AND COMMUNITIES.

The relationship of large corporations to community welfare work is to be studied by a committee of capitalists and corporation authorities under the auspices of the National Bureau of Research. The survey will be extended to all parts of the Nation in an effort to discover the effects of increasing business concentration and industrial control on cities and towns of all sizes. It is hoped that the report will give some basis for determination of the extent to which corporations are responsible for social welfare in communities they dominate.

If the survey be thoroughly made and the report impartial, it should be of much benefit in bringing about a proper attitude on the part of large business concerns toward the communities from which they take their wealth. Should it prove to be an indictment of big business, which is unlikely, or should it minimize the social obligation of industry, it would, of course, be worthless. The American public is thoroughly converted to the principle of business on a large scale. Many adjustments to the new economic scheme are needed, but mass production has brought so many benefits to the public that there is not a chance of reverting to small-scale business. The problem for the country to solve is adjustment to the new order.

Industrial expansion has been so rapid in America that no general policy dealing with social obligations has yet been established. There is still much confusion as to the proper relation of employer and employe. Nor is the relationship of chain stores, subsidiary utilities, and factory systems to governmental units a matter of settled policy. This field is full of interesting questions which must be solved before any final theory can be worked out.

It is certain, however, that large commercial organizations will in the future incur a much greater responsibility for community welfare than they have assumed up to this time. Many corporations, including the railroads, have already interested themselves in such problems as unemployment, and are making progress toward stabilization.

The present trend of industrial development is beneficial to workers as well as to capital. It is inevitable that some should suffer undue burdens during the period of transition, but when the responsibility of huge business concerns is finally established benefits will be more equitably distributed. The present survey should be of material aid in formulating such a policy, as well as in pointing out ways in which corporations can discharge their community obligations.

The trouble about making hotels homelike is that they are made to resemble modern homes.

It's only a matter of time until some crooked dry agent uses containers shaped like padlocks.

People used to knock the poor old mother-in-law, but at her worst she never demanded alimony.

Washington policemen recently extinguished a fire with a bucketful of pickled pigs' feet and brine. That answers the question as to what pickled pigs' feet are good for.

A mouth organ trust has been formed by German companies that have a total annual output of 55,000,000 instruments. If this is a combination to curtail output, may it enjoy heaven's blessing!

Representative Simmons accuses Washington police of loafing, and from the District Building comes a report showing that one out of every five Washingtonians fell afoul of the law in 1928. Heaven help the rest of us if the police buckle down to serious work!

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

TROUBLES OF KING AMANULLAH.

King Amanullah of Afghanistan has abdicated and taken it on the run. Amanullah was forced from the throne because of his attempts to modernize Afghanistan along lines of Western civilization.

He had introduced bobbed hair, ordered his women subjects to discard their veils, indorsed short skirts, silk stockings and insisted that the men should shave, wear three-piece suits, and even considered going over to the derby hat.

He also ordered that his subjects do away with the custom of squatting on the floor and begin to use modernistic furniture. That was probably the last straw.

His subjects looked into Western civilization and knew that ultimately it would mean:

Traffic lights.
Mate slayings.
Uniformed doormen.
Influenza.
Loud speakers.
Market forecasts.
Alarm clocks.
Wooden tees at ten for a quarter.
Electric cigarette lighters.
Waltz marathons.
Witch trials.
Bunion derbies.
Near beer.
Synthetic gin.
Outboard motors.
Belgian hare-raising at home.
Talking pictures.
Indoor putting.
Beauty contests.
Senator Heflin.
Electric vibrators.
Weight-reduction pills.
Upper berths.
Six-day bicycle racing.
Father's Day.
Apple week.
Orange fritters.
Broccoli.
"Old Man River."
Arlington time signals.
Motorcycle policemen.
The New England boiled dinner.
Installment buying.
Stagger plans.
Frankfurters and rolls.
Income taxes.
Prohibition.
Sewer pipe scandals.
Musical automobile horns.
Kitchenettes.
Contract bridge.

On the level, folks, can you blame his people for driving him out?

Mr. Hoover is to name a commission to investigate prohibition. This is the first indication given by the President-elect that he doesn't expect anything to be done about the noble experiment for the first four years in office.

Mr. Hoover is to spend six weeks on the island estate of J. C. Penney at Miami. This shows a pleasing leaning toward the masses. He could have had a vacation on the Robert Dollar line.

If They Had Their Way.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Guatemalan Revolution Collapses.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The prediction contained in an article of yesterday's Post about the "Guatemalan revolution," has been fulfilled. A cable from President Chacon, which was sent from Guatemala this afternoon, announces that "order is now reestablished in the whole country."

To those who know of conditions in Guatemala the crushing of this revolutionary attempt was never in doubt. Guatemala, which has suffered from terrible tyrannies in the past, had at last come under a government in which the rights of each, be he a foreigner or a native, were respected. Order was being brought in the public finances; the currency of gold was maintained and affirmed. Not a political prisoner was in jail. • • • The country, under this administration, presided over by Gen. Chacon, was already reaching an era of riches and prosperity.

But, three or four officers in command at some of the northwestern towns, probably dissatisfied under a regime in which no pilfering of public funds is allowed and in which order and law predominate, chose, a few days ago, to start a "revolution." • • • They did not think of the innocent lives to be sacrificed, of the ruins and losses which their act might bring to their country; they did not stop at treason and disloyalty to the government under which they were serving.

And, of course, the whole country, the army, the merchants, the people, placed themselves at once on the side of the legal government. The so-called "revolution" was crushed.

This is, in two words, what has happened in Guatemala. Out of the incident the government comes out stronger and Gen. Chacon, the president, more popular than ever.

JOSE TIBLE MACHADO.

Origin of Man.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: So we have a new theory of evolution. We are no longer to believe that man sprang first from the tadpole to frog, from frog to monkey, from monkey to baboon, from baboon to the "missing link," and from the missing link to man. This was a slow process, each evolute requiring millions of years. Now we are told that all this was done by jumps, and that when the last jump was made man came as he is now. I am not much of a believer in jumps, but getting here by that process is much more desirable than by the slow, tedious, and uncertain tadpole theory.

It has always bothered me to find out just where the original tadpole came into existence. Once, in old slavery days, a darkey preacher was holding forth to his congregation on the creation of man. He told them how God had made the first man out of the dust and leaned him against the fence to dry. At this, one of his listeners broke in with. "You say dat was de fustest man?" "Yes," replied the preacher, "dat was de fusted man on dis yere earth." "If dat was de fustest man," broke in the interrupter, "where dat fence come from?" "Hush," said the preacher, "anudder question like dat last one would spoil all de theology in de world." So, if you go to asking questions about the origin of things you upset all science.

RICHAR OLMSTEAD.

Monument to L'Enfant.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is quite fitting that among the many monuments which adorn the National Capital there should be added a statue to the man who is, more than any other, responsible for the plan on which this city has been built. Now that fourteen patriotic societies of America have jointly indorsed the project and the matter has been placed before both the Senate and House there is no need for further delay in erecting a memorial to Maj. Pierre Charles L'Enfant.

The memorial will be an expression in marble and bronze of what the Nation thinks of the man who designed its Capital City. It is the consensus of opinion of all who have visited Washington and understood the comprehensive plan for the city's development that the chief designer did a good job. He not only planned the city with its broad streets and beautiful avenues, its parks and circles, and many public buildings, but his plan became the basis of improvements and beautification which could not have been contemplated before the city had begun to grow.

Much remains to be accomplished to complete Maj. L'Enfant's vision of the Capital. But the Government is carrying out an extensive building program which will add much to the attractiveness of the city. When the plan of beautification is completed and Washington has realized its destiny as the most beautiful capital in the world, it would be unthinkable that the engineer responsible for the original design should be left with no memorial to mark his achievement.

No Argument Against War Can Be as Eloquent as a Crutch.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE normal child has more intelligence than it is supposed to have. It reasons instinctively and clearly. And if it does not accept the teachings of parents or professional instructors it is because nobody troubles to make them seem reasonable.

"Twelve inches," the child is told, "make a foot." It is required to accept the fact without explanation and to respect it as a natural law.

But the child's mind, eager for knowledge and thirsting for explanations, can not accept or respect a statement so arbitrary.

"Why do twelve inches make a foot?" it asks. "Who said so? How did he find out? Who started the thing?"

Because no explanation is given the fact is accepted under protest and without conviction.

And every other arbitrary teaching that follows is accepted in the same way—without understanding or belief.

The true teacher will say to the child: "There is no reason why a foot should contain twelve inches instead of six. It is just a rule men made. They needed some common standard to measure by and agreed on this. The foot was divided into twelve inches just as a matter of convenience, but any other division would do as well if everybody agreed on it. It is like the rule in baseball that calls the batter out after three strikes—just a common way to play the game."

Thus, and thus only, can a child's reasonable mind be persuaded to respect a rule and recognize its saneness.

Why is it wrong to steal? to disobey? to lie? to cheat? to break a law? to counterfeit money? to mate without benefit of law or clergy?

"Because," the stupid answer, "it is wicked. And you musn't answer back or argue."

Thus we make lukewarm supporters of law—citizens who are rebels at heart because law is thrust upon them without an effort to convince them of its reasonableness.

We have laws and moral standards because men found rules essential to the game of life. They conceived and agreed upon such rules as were suggested by discretion, common sense and common decency.

To break the laws is to break the accepted rules of the game and is precisely the same as cheating at cards.

But you need not expect the child to realize that if you thrust rules upon him by reason of superior strength—much as you hold his nose to dose him with oil.

You can conquer a brute by means of fear, but the only way to win a reasonable and reasoning creature is to convince his reason.

AN AID TO BEAUTY.

In other days nothing short of a fairy godmother could bring a maiden charms which she lacked, observes the New York Times. Nowadays every magazine page and poster brings suggestions of methods for acquiring beauty. Beauty experts promise that everything from a glowing complexion to a tip-tilted nose may be achieved by their arts.

A long-cherished wish for beautiful teeth has been attained by a Pittsburgh girl whose own teeth were so unsightly that she never permitted herself to laugh. A dancer by profession, she would cover her teeth with a temporary wax composition when on the stage. Tired of this expedient, she invented for herself a set of pearly teeth.

They are actually made of shell, cut to the shape of each particular tooth, only a little larger. The inside is hollowed out so that the pearl shell fits like a jacket over the real tooth. Six hours' work with cement and gold leaf to back the new teeth provided the dancer with a set of pearly teeth that made it a pleasure for her to smile.

If the pearly teeth stand the test of time, they may be adopted by other girls who yearn for a more attractive smile. At any rate, their inventor is prepared for that, since she has patented her device.

PRESS COMMENT.

Rename Her.

Don't Worry.

Boston Transcript: Don't worry about Senator Borah. He'll come out against something yet.

Can It Be So?

Louisville Courier-Journal: Discovery of a new sacred elephant in Siam is described as having political significance. Have the Republicans captured Siam, too?

He's in Favor.

Milwaukee Journal: About everybody but the bootleggers has adversely criticized the plan which won the $25,000 prize for a "solution" of the nonenforcement of prohibition.

Leave It to Roy.

Houston Post Dispatch: The missing link may as well come in and give himself up. Roy Chapman Andrews is returning to Mongolia to again get on his trail.

The Trying Task.

Ohio State Journal: Probably a loyal but still conscientious Republican editor's most trying task in this grave crisis is to find compelling reasons why the tariff should be revised upward in the interest of the toiling masses.

Evening Up.

Philadelphia Record: Concerning the unemployment problem an optimistic note is struck by Senator Harris, of Georgia. He says that for every bartender there used to be there are now 100 bootleggers.

Battle of the Century.

Minneapolis Journal: The little go in Standard Oil of Indiana between John D. Rockefeller, jr., and Col. Robert W. Stewart will be pulled off in March. Eight ounce gloves (with horseshoes in them) will be used.

No Hope.

Springfield Republican: Mr. Hoover has been in many a grim famine relief campaign, but never in one so hopeless as this one to satisfy Republican office seekers.

Evening Up.

Houston Post-Dispatch: Scientists may be right in their deduction that the earth is slowing up in its rotation, but it is our opinion that the sheiks and shebas are going around so much faster than they used to that the rotation of the earth merely seems slow by comparison.

Come Again, Ben.

Philadelphia Inquirer: It was old Ben Franklin who, arguing the policy of letting others talk as "the wit of conversation," said, "He who goes out of your company pleased with his own facetiousness and ingenuity will the sooner come into it again." And that's one point on which we never agree with Franklin. When any one monopolizes conversation we don't want him to come back into our company again.

Bring 'Em On.

Topeka Daily Capital: The old proverb that there is no rest for the wicked is recalled by the perpetual problems this country is forever called upon to contend against. No sooner getting rid of one than another bobs up. Now one eminent economist gloomily reports that the country is face to face with a new horror. It is "the perils of prosperity."

Foch Recovering; King Progresses

French Marshal Passes Crisis; Royal Patient Gains Strength.

Paris, Jan. 21 (U.P.).—Field Marshal Foch has passed the most critical stage of his illness, his physicians announced tonight. Foch sat up for a few minutes today during the consultation. The doctors were satisfied with his condition, and permitted his cousin to visit the sickroom.

The marshal probably will go to the family home at Tarbes, in the Pyrenees, to convalesce.

London, Jan. 21 (U.P.).—King George's progress continued satisfactory tonight it was announced at Buckingham Palace, but the start of the third month of the king's illness does not find him out of danger. If the present progress continues, his physicians indicate, they expect the great anxiety to be removed by the end of the week. There still remains the danger of a relapse if his majesty is exerted in attempting to use his regained strength.

Stolen Hamilton Bust Back in Hall of Fame

New York, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—The bust of Alexander Hamilton, which was taken from its place in the Hall of Fame at New York University last Tuesday night, was returned to its pedestal today.

The bust was found buried in a vacant lot near the university campus by a newspaper reporter who had received a letter signed "Homo" directing him where to dig for it.

The reporter returned the bust to university authorities who said they had no suspicion as to who took it or why. Campus gossip said it was taken as a prank by university students.

6-Year Term and $30,000 Fine Imposed on Webster

Pleads Guilty to Charge of Getting $60,000 From Couple.

A nation-wide investigation by Postal inspectors was climaxed yesterday when Robert B. Webster, 31 years old, pleaded guilty in a Federal District court at Wilmington, Del., to an indictment charging misuse of the mails and was sentenced to serve six years in the United States Penitentiary at Atlanta Ga., and to pay a fine of $30,000.

The indictment to which Webster pleaded guilty charged a stock swindle of $60,000. The money, the indictment recited, was obtained from Prof Albert E. Rand, of Brown University and his wife, both of Providence, R. I.

The indictment contained four counts. Webster was sentenced to serve two years on the first count, two on the second and two on the third and fourth, the six years to run consecutively.

Webster was arrested January 10 at St. Louis, while using the name of George Nixon. According to record in the office of the chief postal inspector, has operated extensively, mostly with confederates. He is jointly indicted with G. A. Sprague in connection with an alleged fraud involving the Singer Sewing Machine Company in New York City. He is under indictment in Boston for misuse of the mails.

The postoffice inspection service announced last night that he would be tried in New York and Boston upon completion of his sentence.

Sprague, who was arrested in Chicago, will be tried in New York on the Singer Sewing Machine indictment, and will be taken to Wilmington after the New York trial to face an indictment against him in the Rand case.

In the Rand case, according to postal inspectors, Webster and Sprague obtained 400 shares of preferred stock of the Hercules Powder Co. from the professor and 200 shares of stock in the same company from Mrs. Rand, which they negotiated in New York.

The swindle, the inspectors said, was thoroughly planned, Webster and his confederate carrying on correspondence with Mr. and Mrs. Rand in which they represented that there was to be a new issue of common stock by the Hercules company, and that this new stock would be traded to the holders of preferred stock. The correspondence was carried on stationery bearing the printed name of the company.

than faulty plans. It is my tendency to report that back to the committee."

The difficulties of the Parkway tenants began some time ago, when Roy L. Neuhauser and Sol Lansburgh, who held second mortgages on the building, foreclosed, forcing Frank Russell White, the builder, into bankruptcy. L. E. Breuninger held a first mortgage against the building.

Because of the foreclosure proceedings the tenants are now about to be ejected from their homes. "We want to have another hearing of the committee, at which we will have these particular parties (the builders and financiers) present for the purpose of finding out why these people lost their money.

"It does look to me," he continued, "as if these other people are still solvent, and we may get this money back. I can not see why they can just turn over everything and say, 'Suit stole the money, and therefore you lose.' They undoubtedly associated with Suit in a great many ways."

M. & R. B. Warren advocated a law that would require the "scrutiny of stock sales before issued to the public" or an act "licensing all concerns that sell stock or securities and requiring the registration of any issue of stock not listed with the New York Stock Exchange, the Washington Exchange or the New York Curb.

Paul Wooton, president of 3016 Tilden Street Incorporated, told of the desirability of cooperative apartments, while T. N. Charles stated that the "principle of cooperative buildings is sound and that the success of such concerns depend upon the business ability of the owners."

QUESTION MARK NEAR CRASH ON WAY HOME

TAKEOFF PLANNED TODAY

Midland, Tex., Jan. 21 (A.P.).—The record-breaking Army endurance airplane Question Mark came within 5 feet of crashing into a fence when low hanging fogs forced it to land 3 miles from the Midland Airport this afternoon on its flight to the Atlantic Coast.

As soon as the Question Mark landed, Capt. Ira Eaker, chief pilot, started for San Angelo by automobile to visit his father, who is ill there. His mother was buried today at Eden while the Question Mark was battling fog near Midland. She died yesterday from pneumonia. He will return tomorrow morning, when the Fokker, weather permitting, will take off for the trip to Shreveport, La., by way of Dallas. No stops will be made for fuel. From Shreveport the plane will go to Washington by way of Montgomery, Ala.

The clear skies and high visibility that had favored the ship on its 540-mile hop from Tucson, Ariz., this morning gave way to low hanging clouds with fringes of fog about 90 miles west of Midland and the plane was forced lower and lower. Finally, in order to see the pipeline it was following, the famed craft skimmed from 50 to 75 feet above the ground.

As the cloud masses pressed closer and closer Capt. Eaker decided to play safe and utilize a natural landing field which he saw through a rift in the fog.

The Fokker touched the ground perfectly and taxied forward through the mist with Eaker tugging at the brakes with all his might. The plane finally came to rest 5 feet to the left of a tall gate, the top of which was just cleared by one wing of the ship.

ROOSEVELT SCORED FOR PARTY SURVEY

Resolution Asks Governor to Produce Letters in "Theft" Comparison.

STATEMENT IS QUOTED

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Assemblyman Richard B. Smith, Republican, of Onondaga, introduced in the legislature tonight a resolution inviting Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt to produce for the legislature the correspondence upon which he based his conclusion, recently announced, that the sentiment after the recent presidential election was similar to that which followed upon the "theft of the Presidency in the case of Tilden."

The governor would also be requested to produce any other documents he may have to support his contention.

Under the rules, there could be no action on the resolution tonight and it went over until a later date.

The Smith resolution declared that Gov. Roosevelt's statement challenged both the honesty of Herbert Hoover and his right to assume the Presidency, and that the legislature ought to have the information requested of Gov. Roosevelt in order that it might be in a position to take whatever action should be deemed necessary. It is the duty of the legislature, the resolution set forth, in order "to correct such conditions and prohibit the recurrence of such acts."

The governor was criticized in the resolution for giving the influence of his office to a statement of this kind, based on the governor's declaration that it represented the sentiments expressed in the letters he had received.

The statement, which was issued from the executive offices a week ago, was an analysis of the answers received frem more than 3,000 Democratic leaders in all sections of the country to whom Mr. Roosevelt had sent a questionnaire asking for their opinion regarding the needs and the future of the Democratic party.

In its preamble, the resolution carries the following quotation from the Roosevelt statement:

"This clearly expresed feeling can only be compared to that which followed theft of the Presidency in the Tilden case. Bigotry, ignorance of Democratic principles, the spread by unspeakable and un-American methods of the most atrocious falsehoods; unfair and improper pressure brought to bear upon workers in specially favored Republican industries; false claims for the prosperity of the country and kindred propaganda, cheated, so my correspondents feel, our party of the Presidency."

Grover Alexander Sued For Divorce in Lincoln

Lincoln, Nebr., Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Grover Cleveland Alexander, veteran major league pitching star, was named in a divorce complaint filed by his wife, Aimee Marie Alexander, in court here today.

Mrs. Alexander, who charged cruelty, asked for attorney's fees and "suitable alimony," but did not name the amount sought. Likewise, Alexander's income was not listed. The Alexanders were married May 31, 1918. Their home is in St. Paul, Nebr., near here.

Death-Pit in Ur Yields 45 Bodies and Amazing Wealth

Archeological Expedition Reports Remarkable Findings Which Reveal Sumerian Burial Sacrifices; Expect to Discover Actual Tomb.

Philadelphia, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—A mammoth death-pit in which the bodies of 45 victims, sacrificed in accordance with ancient Sumerian burial rites, were found amid an amazing wealth of gold, silver and semi-precious stones, has been discovered in Ur of the Chaldees, home of Abraham, by the joint archeological expedition of the University of Pennsylvania Museum and the British Museum, it was announced today.

The death-pit is larger than any found heretofore in the 5000-year-old cemetery at Ur, and although it has been partly cleared it already has yielded 34 gold headdresses, inlaid pendants, wreaths and hair ribbons, many silver "combs" and other ornaments, according to a report from C. Leonard Woolley, director of the expedition.

Three harps of unusual design, and a pair of statues of rams which are made of gold, silver, white shell and lapis lazuli also were found. These statues were described as "two of the most remarkable objects of antiquity that Sumeria has yet produced."

In reporting the discovery of the death-pit, Mr. Woolley said that the pit should be the introduction to an actual tomb and that the workers now were digging down from the modern surface in the hope of finding a tomb beneath it.

"The rim of a very large copper vessel was the first thing to be found," said the report. "Another vessel appeared next to it, and then came the black stain of decayed wood. Very careful clearing here laid bare the perfect impression of the wheels of a wagon although the wagon itself had long since disappeared.

"In front of the impression lay the skeletons of two asses and a groom, and among the bones could be seen the line of silver and lapis lazuli beads which had decorated the reins. It was just such a wagon as we found in the grave of a King of Ur last season.

"After penetrating further we found the skeletons of other animals, including sheep, a collection of copper vases and weapons, and the bones of a man.

"Here was a novel feature. The bodies of the victim and the offerings had been placed in the grave-pit, earth had been heaped above them and stamped down, and mats laid over the top. Following that the wagon had been driven in and the slaughter of beasts and grooms had been a later act in the burial tragedy.

"For more than a week we have been at work clearing the last 9 inches or more of soil that covered the floor of the shaft, and a third of the space still remains to be examined, but already we have listed 45 bodies, of which at least 39 are of women. The riches found with them are astonishing.

"In the king's grave last year we found nine court ladies wearing headdresses of gold and semiprecious stones. Here there are already 34 such, and, for the most part, they are far more splendid, for the best are only less remarkable than the headdresses of Queen Shub-ad herself."

"In a corner of the pit were found a pair of statues of rampant rams. The heads and legs of the beasts are of gold," says the report. "The horns and the long hair over the shoulders are lapis lazuli, and the fleece over the rest of the body is of white shell, each tuft carved separately. The bellies are of silver.

"Each animal is reared upon its hind legs and stands 20 inches in height. On either side are tall plants whose stems, leaves and large rosettelike flowers are of gold, and to the stems of these plants the front legs of the rams are connected by silver bands. There is no doubt that the statues are two of the most remarkable objects of antiquity that this country has yet produced."

engagement to Martin Marshall Marston was announced and Washington society was all set for the wedding.

Then came the announcement that she had eloped with a Club Chantecler dancer, who was billed under the name of Prince Rouffat Bei Halioff. After the marriage in a nearby city the couple returned to Washington and lived with Maj. and Mrs. Arnold.

Shortly afterward the couple left Washington, the prince having several dancing engagements. However, the bride returned alone to Washington in July of that year and shortly afterward the marriage bond was legally severed.

The parting came after deportation officials had threatened to deport the prince and had exposed his declaration on entrance into the United States, which brought about a question as to his right to the title. The prince was ignored by President Coolidge, even after his friends had requested an audience.

Miss Arnold's annulment was obtained in the court at Rockville, Md., and since that time she has picked up the threads of her social relations damaged somewhat by her unfortunate marriage venture.

Maj. Arnold, her father, is associate counselor for the Veterans' Bureau.

Autopsy Clears Novelist's Death

New York, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Leonard Kline, novelist, who was released from jail last July after serving a jail term for manslaughter and whose body was found in his Greenwich Village, studio yesterday, died of heart trouble, an autopsy disclosed today. There were no suspicious circumstances surrounding the death which occurred five days ago, said Dr. Thomas A. Gonzales, who performed the autopsy.

Cline was last seen alive Tuesday night at a party where he was host. At that time, said Helen Todd, agent for the building where the novelist lived, he had complained of pain about his heart.

He came to New York a month ago from his farm near Willimantic, Conn., where in the spring of 1927 he shot and killed his friend, Wilfred Irwin, advertising man, after a party. Cline maintained the shooting was accidental, but he was indicted for first degree murder. During his trial he pleaded guilty to manslaughter and was sentenced to a year in jail. He was released after serving ten months.

Announcing

The Future Market Center of the District of Columbia

MANY months ago Congress pronounced the doom of the old Center Market to make way for Government buildings of a greater National Capital, and Washington was faced with the necessity of establishing a new market center for the handling of food consumed by the populace of the city.

The undersigned merchants, who handle 85% of the perishable produce consumed in the District, at that time set about a careful study of local conditions, and with a keen realization that the new location must be acceptable to the citizens of Washington as well as to the merchants and farmers, considered carefully all the sites available.

The Citizens' Associations of the city almost unanimously expressed favor of a central location. The Bureau of Efficiency, the Federation of Citizens' Associations, and the Women's Clubs recommended a site north of Pennsylvania Avenue. The Park and Planning Commission and the Farmers' Committees went even further and specifically indorsed the Eckington area.

Meanwhile this Eckington area was developing into the natural distributing center of Washington, quite of its own accord. The Sanitary Grocery Company, the Atlantic and Pacific Stores, the Piggly Wiggly Stores, Swift and Company, the Southern Dairies, Barber and Ross, and other great enterprises had located there, and two others—Sears Roebuck and the International Harvester Co.—started work on large retail stores in the vicinity.

For transportation facilities the tract is adjacent to the Baltimore and Ohio and the Pennsylvania Railroads; it is close to the Washington express terminal; and it lies at the intersection of two of the main trucking highways from Washington into nearby Maryland, Florida and New York Avenues.

These facts were considered, together with the report of the Technical Advisory Corporation of New York, experts in locating industries, and the merchants here represented found the Patterson Tract (Camp Meigs) the only location close to the center of population, easily accessible to all consumers and producers, adjacent to both railroads, and of sufficient size to accommodate all units of a modern market community and allow for future expansion.

They, therefore, purchased sites for their businesses, received title, and have had the area laid out for market purposes by those experts. Construction work on modern plants will start in the very near future and the first large group of buildings will be completed and occupied by the end of this year.

Pending legislation in Congress contemplates the Government operation of a farmers' market in the District. For this purpose a large section has been reserved which is at the disposal of Congress. If, of course, that body should see fit to build a mart for farmers elsewhere, a modern farmers' market will be built and privately operated, on the Patterson Tract site.

Thus, by December 31, 1929, the Patterson tract site will succeed the present area as

REV. W. BROOKS, 65, DIES UNEXPECTEDLY

St. Aloysius' First Assistant Pastor Was Ill Month of Heart Disease.

RECOVERY WAS FORECAST

The Rev. William Brooks, 65 years old, firs assistant pastor of St. Aloysius' Church, North Capitol and I streets, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at Georgetown Hospital from a hemmorhage which followed a month of illness from heart disease.

Father Brooks was stricken suddenly at 3:35 o'clock as he lay in his bed at the hospital. The attack came as a surprise to friends and physicians, who had granted his request to be allowed to sit erect today. The physicians had expected his return to church duties within a week.

A nurse, a sister and the Rev. Paul McNally, director of the Georgetown University Observatory, were with him at the end. Father Brooks had been at the hospital since a severe heart attack one month ago.

Survived by Three Sisters.

He is survived by three sisters, Barnadette, Lorreto and Mary Brooks, all members of religious orders, and a brother, H. A Brooks of 16 Franklin street. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock from St. Aloysius' Church. He will be buried at Georgetown University Cemetery.

The recitation of the office of the dead will precede the funeral services at 9 o'clock, and will be attended by over 100 priests from nearby parishes. Among them will be priests from Loyola College and St. Ignacius College, Baltimore; Woodstock College, Maryland; Fordham University, New York; St. Joseph's College, Jersey City, N. J., and Georgetown University.

Father Brooks had served as priest at St. Aloysius' Church for over 18 years.

Eulogized by Pastor.

The Rev. Michael F. Fitzpatrick, pastor of St. Aloysius' Church, said yesterday:

"The death of Father Brooks is a great loss to St. Aloysius' Church and to the people of the parish, as well as to thousands of people who have come in contact with him during the last eighteen years, while he was serving at St. Aloysius."

A native of Washington, Father Brooks began studies for the priesthood in 1891 and was ordained a priest in 1906. He held parishes at Frederick and Woodstock, Md., and later taught in Fordham University, New York; St. Francis Xavier College, New York, and St. Peter's College, Jersey City, N. J.

He was president of the Aloysian Club, a society of church women, and director for the past six years of the League of the Sacred Heart church services, held at the church every Friday.

Mrs. Maas' Rites To Be at St. Paul

Body of Representative's Wife Is Sent West; Died at Hospital Here.

Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine Bole Maas, wife of Representative Melvin J. Maas (Republican), of the Fourth Minnesota District, who died yesterday afternoon at Providence Hospital after giving birth to a baby girl, will be held at St. Paul, Minn. The body left Washington last night, accompanied by Representative Maas, Mrs. Maas' father, Dr. Robert Bole, distinguished St. Paul obstetrician, and her sister, Mrs. Willard S. Howard, also of St. Paul.

In addition to her husband, father, sister and baby, Mrs. Maas is survived by two other children, Mary Ann, 7 years old, and Patricia, 3 years old, and her mother.

Mrs. Maas was a native of St. Paul and a graduate of the University of Minnesota.

MRS. LILLIAN BAKER RITES.

Services to Be Held Tomorrow Afternoon for Wife of Detroit Man.

Funeral services for Mrs. Lillian May Baker, 21 years old, wife of Charles H. Baker, of Detroit, who died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Ball, of 626 Park road, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the residence. Burial will be in Union Cemetery, Alexandria, Va.

Mrs. Baker was married several months ago and moved to Detroit. She returned to the home of her parents after she became ill.

Besides her husband and parents, Mrs. Baker is survived by five sisters, Mrs. James Kent, Mrs. Malcolm Miller, Miss Ethel Ball, Miss Mabel Ball and Miss Edith Ball, all of this city.

Chest Director to Speak.

Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest, will speak today to the Washington Round Table at a luncheon at the University Club. He will outline the objects of the campaign

A Series of Brief Articles Prepared Under the Direction of Superintendent Frank W. Ballou.

II. KINDERGARTEN.

Its Aims and Purposes.

The kindergarten, as organized today, forms an integral part of the public school system in all of our large cities. It constitutes the beginning grade in a little child's education, preserving the atmosphere of the ideal home and at the same time introducing him into a larger, richer environment. The transfer from home to school through the doorway of the kindergarten is made so easily and so happily that it seems but a natural forward step in growth. The kindergarten aims to insure this growth by providing a selected environment in which physical, mental and emotional health are primary considerations and in which social adjustments are made through actual life situations and experiences. The child is made the active agent in his own education; what he grows to be is fundamental. Hence character training and development has ever been one of the foremost objectives of the kindergarten.

Methods of Instruction.

Methods in the kindergarten grow naturally out of and are in harmony with its fundamental principles. They seek to preserve the individuality of each child; to stimulate and encourage the spontaneous expression of his own ideas, interests and purposes, at the same time keeping clearly in view the worth-while values of life. A rich variety of play material is provided with which the child experiments, represents and creates. Excursions and other experiences on the child plane motivate activity, widen and enrich the outlook and lead on to fuller, worthier expressions. The place of the teacher is that of expert guide and companion—supplying help in technique, ideas and problems whenever the need arises, information, encouragement and constructive criticism.

Curriculum.

The kindergarten curriculum conducts the child across the threshold of his heritage, beginning many of the school subjects which will be progressively unfolded as he grows older. These subjects are sometimes unrecognized because education in the kindergarten is without books. They include oral English, literature, number, music, art and the simple beginnings of history, geography and science. They are presented through conversation, story, dramatization, song, picture, excursion, manual activity, games and plays.

Results.

In accord with the aims and purposes of the kindergarten, results may be generally stated in terms of "desirable changes in thought, feeling and conduct." Since each subject, activity and experience is a contributing factor in these changes, it is difficult to list results specifically apart from the curriculum. Broadly speaking, however, they may be classified as right habits, social and personal, right attitudes and appreciations, increased manual dexterity, greater ability to organize experience, a readiness to attack and solve problems and a fund of information concerning the outdoor world and the activities of home and neighborhood. The development of the social spirit is possibly one of the most far-reaching results of kindergarten training, making for happy cooperation in work and play and laying the foundation for true democratic citizenship.

Col. J. Elverson, Jr. Dies in Quaker City

Publisher of the Inquirer, 60, Succumbs to Attack of Heart Disease.

Philadelphia, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Col. James Elverson, jr., publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer, died today from a heart attack. Elverson, who would have been 60 years old in February, had complained of a slight illness a day or two ago, but was feeling well yesterday. His death occurred in his apartments in the tower of the Elverson Building at Broad and Callowhill streets.

Col. Elverson is survived by his widow, who was Eleanor Mayo, daughter of Frank Mayo, the well-known actor of years ago, and a sister, who is Mme. Eleanor Louise Patenotre, of Paris, widow of Jules Patenotre, former French Ambassador to the United States.

A few years ago Col. Elverson erected on North Broad street the Elverson Building, the home of the Inquirer and one of the show structures of Philadelphia. He maintained his residence in the tall tower of the building. He received his military title through appointment to the staff of Gov. Daniel H. Hastings. He was an enthusiastic yachtsman and was the owner of several fine pleasure craft.

Better Than Whiskey For Colds and Flu

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk 60c for a bottle of Aspironal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonsful. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold fading away like a dream, within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrual croup and children's choking up at night.—Adv.

CHEST NOW HELPING SOCIAL UNITS HERE

Director Says Advance Gifts Have Enabled Organization to Give Assistance.

CLUBS HEAR ADVOCATES

Although the community chest is new, in so far as its general appeal is concerned, it has been functioning for some time as a benevolent agency, according to a statement made public yesterday by Elwood Street, director of the chest.

Through a number of advance gifts, Street said, the chest has already made payments totaling almost $3,500 for the January needs of affiliated charities. These are Travelers' Aid, $670.83; Associated Charities, $1,260; Boys' Club, $1,136.81; Twelfth Street Branch, Y. M. C. A., $400.

Bank Loan Paid Off.

It has paid back, he said, the $15,000 borrowed from banks for current expenses and does not expect to have to borrow additional funds authorized by the board of trustees to meet current expenses of its member organizations.

The present chief concern of the Chest, he said, is not to secure a large number of individual subscribers, but to impress on the minds of contributer that their gifts should be larger than in the past. "Many people apparently do not realize," he said, "that the Chest is not just another appeal for funds, but that it is a combined appeal by 57 agencies and that the budget of these agencies, based on their insufficient work of last year, reaches a total of $1,343,348.93. We are quite sure that this total will be reached if people will just remember that they are giving on a 57-fold basis."

Many Speak for Chest

The city was blanketed with Community Chest speakers last night at meetings of a number of organizations. Included among these were J. E. Jones, at the Lincoln Park Citizens Association; Harold March, at the Wes' End Citizens Association; Elwood Street, at the Joshua Evans Group of Workers; Helen Story, at the Zion Baptist Church; Randolph G. Bishop, at the Neighborhood House; and Mrs. Fred Wright, at the Cleveland Park branch, Y. W. C. A.

Appeals were also broadcast by radio. C. Melvin Sharpe spoke over WRC. Mrs. J. Garfield Smith addressed the audience of WOL and Mrs. Lester Pollock spoke over WJSV.

Half Fare Proposed For Car Straphangers

Should a street car passenger who has to stand up and hang on to a strap be forced to pay the same fare as the passenger who has a comfortable seat?

Representative Hastings (Democrat), of Oklahoma, does not think so. In his opinion, a ride standing up is only worth half as much as one sitting down, and yesterday he backed that up by introducing a bill to provide half fares for those who are forced to stand.

The bill would apply not only to street cars, but to buses and other public conveyances as well.

Policewoman Says Force Graft-Free

Lieut. Van Winkle Speaks at Meeting of Lincoln Park Citizens.

No graft exists in the Washington Police Department, Lieut. Mina Van Winkle, director of the Woman's Bureau, told members of the Lincoln Park Citizens Association, meeting last night at Bryan School, Thirteenth and B streets southeast.

Lieut. Van Winkle added that she hoped the House of Detention would not be "driven out of the city limits," and stated that the Woman's Bureau is a necessary part of the Metropolitan Police Department, in that men are unable to cope with the women who are cared for in that institution.

J. E. Jones, of the Community Chest, explained the chest's aims and methods, and asked the cooperation of the association. The position of Washington firemen in requesting a wage increase was explained by H. A. Chapman, president of the Firefighters Association of the District of Columbia. No action was taken on any of the matters presented.

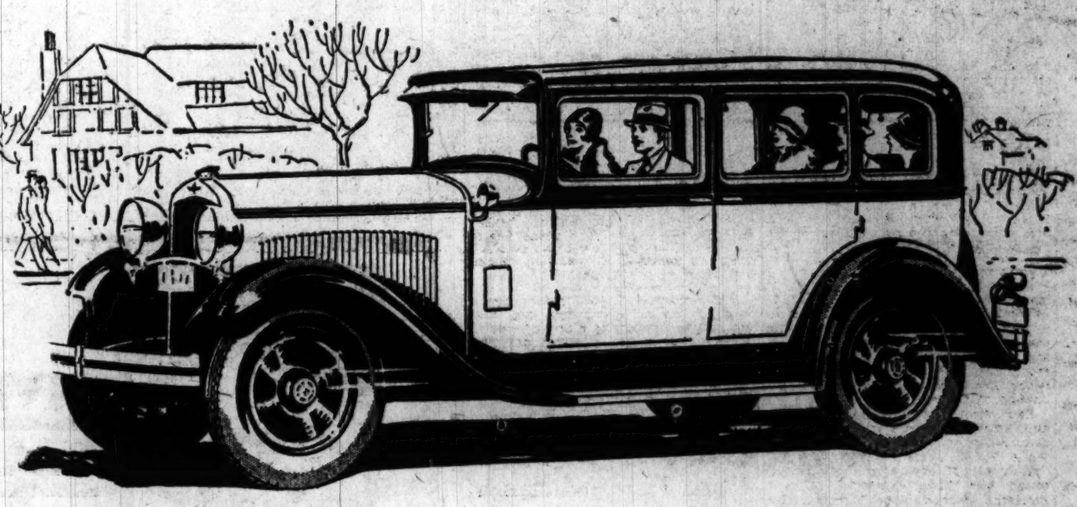
The Greatest Value In Dodge Brothers History



NEW DODGE BROTHERS SIX

inspired by* WALTER P. CHRYSLER

THE NEW Dodge Brothers Six marks the farthest advance of Dodge dependability, just as it represents a new and greater attainment of Walter P. Chrysler's genius.

Here in one car are combined all the qualities, distinctions and characteristics so long associated with these two eminent names—Chrysler—and Dodge Brothers.

Here in one car is offered more prestige, more ability, and greater dollar-for-dollar value than has ever before been available at or near the price.

Much might be written of this car's new Mono-piece Body, its new beauty, new luxury, and new power, as well as the score or more of important engineering betterments it introduces.

But the marrow and substance of it all is summed up in a single sentence:

Walter P. Chrysler inspired the new Dodge Brothers Six; the Great Dodge Brothers organization built it.

In that lies the explanation of this remarkable new car.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau.
Washington, Monday, Jan. 21—8 p. m.

Forecast for the District of Columbia and Maryland—Mostly cloudy with slowly rising temperature Tuesday, followed by rain late Tuesday afternoon or night and on Wednesday; colder Wednesday afternoon or night; moderate northeast, shifting to southeast or south winds and increasing Tuesday night.

For Virginia—Mostly cloudy, followed by rain Tuesday afternoon or night and on Wednesday; slowly rising temperature in north portion Tuesday; colder Wednesday afternoon or night; moderate shifting winds, becoming southeast or south and increasing Tuesday night.

The Newfoundland storm has increased further in intensity, Belle Isle, 28.06 inches, and it is attended by westerly gales over the Canadian maritime provinces. Port aux Basques reporting a wind velocity of 72 an hour. The far southwestern disturbance is advancing east-northeastward with increasing intensity, Pueblo, Colo., 29.66 inches, and pressure is falling rapidly as far east as Iowa and Missouri. The minor disturbance that was centered over western Tennessee Monday morning has moved rapidly eastward to the North Carolina coast, Hatteras, 30.04 inches. Pressure is high over California and portions of the plateau region and from Ontario southward to the east Gulf Coast, Toledo, Ohio, 30.28 inches, and Fresno, Calif., 30.20 inches, while the extensive area of high pressure from the Arctic Ocean is advancing southeastward over the British Northwest Territory, Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Montana. Aklavik, B. N. T., 30.66 inches. There have been light rains within the last 24 hours in the Appalachian region, Tennessee, the interior of the Gulf States, Arkansas, southern California, and southern Arizona, while snow has fallen in the plateau and northern Rocky Mountain regions. The temperature has risen in the lake region, the great central valleys, the interior of the west Gulf States, and the southern Rocky Mountain region, but much colder weather has overspread Alberta and Saskatchewan.

The Colorado disturbance will move eastno theastward during the next two days, and it will be attended by general precipitation, mostly in the form of rain, east of the Mississippi River. The weather will remain generally fair Tuesday, however, in the Northeastern States. The temperature will rise in the Ohio and middle Mississippi Valleys, the lower lake region, and the northern portion of the Middle Atlantic States Tuesday and Tuesday night, and in the North Atlantic States Tuesday night and Wednesday morning. Following the passage of the disturbance, much colder weather will overspread the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, and the lower lake region Wednesday afternoon and night, and the Atlantic States Wednesday night and Thursday.

Diabetes?

The endless misery—"the utter exhaustion" of Diabetes means that there is unoxidized sugar in your system. Your blood may be loaded—your kidneys staggering under the burden. Your condition may get worse if the sugar accumulation continues unchecked. Mountain Valley Mineral Water from Hot Springs, Arkansas, helps the body cells use up the sugar more thoroughly—it also allays the intense thirst and combats the dangerous acid condition in the system. Call our office and learn more about this famous, natural alkaline water, used by hundreds of local people fighting Diabetes.

CONSTIPATION IS PLAGUE OF RACE
Eat Fruits and Vegetables—Properly Flavored

The papers are full of statements and theories about constipation—one of the plagues of civilized people. What are the facts? A famous food biologist was asked to state the case and he summed it up in these few words: "At least 90% of constipation is due to a lack of roughage in the diet. Eat bran, cereals, and fruits and vegetables both raw and cooked."

He went on to emphasize how much more pleasant it is to eat these healthful foods provided their delightful tastes and flavors are developed by the use of sugar. He spoke of how hard it is to get children to eat cereals, so beneficial in their diet, unless they are properly sweetened. He asked us to remember how many healthful fruits would be unpleasant to the taste without softening the fruit acids and developing their remarkable flavors with sugar.

We should put it down as a safe rule of health that all human beings living in the civilized world today need plenty of fruit and vegetable fiber in their daily diet. Sugar, by making nearly all such diets pleasant to taste and easy to eat, is the one dependable aid to the eating of roughage.

There is no substitute for sugar in the normal diet. Sugar is Nature's ideal flavor for healthful foods. Eat the things you need and enjoy them. The Sugar Institute.

CAPITAL AUTO SHOW TO EXHIBIT 150 CARS

Many Accessories Also to Be Placed on View for Opening Saturday Night.

DISPLAYS ARE ANNOUNCED

The list of exhibitors at the ninth annual show of the Washington Automotive Trade Association, which will be opened formally at the Washington Auditorium at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening, was made public last night by Rudolph Jose, director of the show. More than 150 models, the product of 30 manufacturers, will be on display, in addition to numerous accessories and other exhibits, and Mr. Jose said that "with such a complete list of motor cars on view in such a way as to make full inspection possible, there can be no doubt of this year's show's completeness and appeal to all interested in motoring."

Following are the cars to be displayed and the Washington dealers exhibiting them:

Exhibition hall floor—Ford, Bartram Motors Co., Inc., and Hill & Tibbitts; Oakland and Pontiac, L. P. Steuart, Inc.; Peerless, Bruce Motor Corp; Gardner, Irving T. Donohoe Motor Co.; Durant, Durant Motor Co. of Virginia, Inc.; Hudson and Essex, Lambert-Hudson Motor Co., Saunders Motor Car and Neumeyer Motor Co.; Franklin, Franklin Motor Car Co.; Chevrolet, Barry-Pate Motor Co., Ourisman Chevrolet Sales Co., R. L. Taylor Motor Co. and Owens Motor Co.; Hupmobile and Chandler, Mott Motors Co.; Auburn, Warrington Motor Car Co.; Reo, Trew Motor Car Co.; Graham-Paige, Graham-Paige Co. of Washington; Marmon, Marmon Motors, Inc.; Studebaker, Joseph McReynolds, Inc.

Auditorium floor—Nash, Wallace Motor Co. and Hawkins Nash Motor Co.; Buick, Stanley H. Horner, Emerson & Orme, Dick Murphy, Inc., and Buick Motor Co.; De Soto, Mayflower Motors, Inc.; Willys-Knight, Whippet and Stearns-Knight, Sterrett & Fleming, Inc.; Chrysler and Plymouth, H. B. Leary, Jr., & Bros.; Oldsmobile, Olds Motor Works; Cadillac and La Salle, Washington Cadillac Co.; Dodge, Semmes Motor Co.; Pierce-Arrow, David S. Hendrick; Lincoln, Warfield Motor Co.; Jordan, Neumeyer Motor Co.; Moon and Windsor, District Motor Co.; Packard, Packard Washington Motor Car Co.

Miscellaneous exhibitors of accessories, &c., will be the following: Watson Stabilator Co., National Electrical Supply Co., L. S. Jullien, Inc.; Standard Automobile Supply Co., Safety Service Corporation, Ralph W. Lee & Co., American Automobile Association, Potomac Battery & Electric Co., Overhead Door Sales Co. and Frigidaire Corporation.

With every conceivable body type and style displayed by these exhibitors, Mr. Jose said, it is apparent that no phase of the industry's broad production will be missing. Excellent progress is being made in transforming the interior of the auditorium into a fitting background for the cars. Lights and colors are being used in profusion in a distinctive scheme of decoration, which will be completed in ample time to give the dealers full opportunity to install their exhibits in the most effective manner.

After the opening next Saturday evening the show will be closed Sunday. It will be open daily through the following week from 1:30 to 10:30 p. m.

COULD NOT SLEEP NIGHTS

Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fairhaven, Mass.—"I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during the Change of Life. When I feel nervous and run-down my husband gets me a bottle right away. It is a great help to me and I think that if other people would only take it when they feel all run-down and take it as the directions say, they would find it a great benefit. My worst symptoms were nervousness and tired feelings. I could not sleep nights and I was so nervous I would cry if anyone looked at me."—Mrs. Ada Besse, 196 Washington Street, Fairhaven, Mass.

2 Die, 10 Hurt in Fire At Minneapolis Hotel

Minneapolis, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Two persons were dead today, 10 were injured and 100 guests and employes were driven to the street by a fire which burned the National Hotel, in the downtown district, late Sunday.

Both victims were suffocated, though one body was partly burned when found. They were identified through names on the register as John J. Jones, 45, Williston, N. D., and Albin Scott, 26, Frederic, Wis.

Fall From Sickbed Fatal.

Killed when he fell to the floor from his sickbed, Isaac C. Berryman, colored, 25 years old, of 717½ Delaware avenue southwest, was pronounced dead at Emergency Hospital early yesterday morning after being removed to the hospital in an ambulance.

Woman Is Set Free In Death Mystery

Scotland Yard, However, Holds Her Male Companion in Messiter Case.

London, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Scotland Yard has released Lilly Hambleton, golden-haired woman, who was questioned at Southampton when her companion, a motor mechanic, was apprehended in connection with an investigation of the mysterious death of Vivian Messiter, New York tunnel engineer. She was allowed to go to her home at Stoke-on-Trent yesterday.

The motor mechanic, William Frank Thomas, is still in custody. He was taken to Manchester today handcuffed to a detective. He will be arraigned in the city court there tomorrow under the name of "Thomas Podmore" in connection with the disappearance of a motor car some weeks ago.

While investigation of the Messiter case has been unceasing and clews have been brought out in many parts of Great Britain, the authorities have made no definite charge against any individual in connection with the mystery.

Policeman Loses Suit By Wounded Bystander

Special to The Washington Post.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—Patrolman Daniel Healey, who shot and killed Vincent ("Schemer") Drucci, gangster, must pay $425 to John J. Goerres, a milkman, who got in range during the battle and received a bullet in his right arm.

Goerres was living away from home because his family was quarantined for scarlet fever. He had taken a supply of groceries to the rear door of his home and was departing through an alley when he stepped into the battle zone. He thought it was a hold-up and started to run, but the shot through the arm caused him to surrender. In his suit he asked for $10,000, but the jury awarded his hospital and doctor's bills only, added to his lost time from work.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

It will be of interest to his many friends in the Capital—not a few of them made during his four years as director of the National Theater Players sponsored by Mr. Cochran—that Clifford Brooke, one of the most capable of the stage directors now devoting their attention to American production, leaves New York on Thursday for Hollywood, Calif., where he will immediately enter upon the duties imposed by a one-year contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to direct talking pictures.

This information is vouchsafed me by my esteemed office-mate, Mr. Daly, who just received it in private—but not confidential—advices from the man himself, who seems not displeased to cast his lot with the newest of all the media of dramatic expression. Mr. Brooke was last in Washington, as I understand it, as director of "Fioretta," which, by the way, the Carroll clan, Earle and Jimmie and Norman, have rechristened "Marietta," probably after the town in Ohio, since the scene of the musical is Italy.

His first production under the new arrangement with M-G-M will be "The High Road," the noted stage success which will be converted, under his skillful auspices, into a 100 per cent dialogue picture on the West Coast. It was in all probability chosen as Mr. Brooke's first venture in the new field because that is what he seems to be traveling.

And speaking of sudden migrations, it might be mentioned that Rodney Collier, formerly house manager of the Rialto Theater, has been appointed to the managership of the Colony Theater in New York City. The standing of the Colony may perhaps best be determined from the information that this week it is playing "The Little Wildcat," a Warner Brothers Vitaphone subject featuring Audrey Ferris, supported by James Murray, remembered from "The Crowd," Robert Edeson and George Fawcett, with Paul Specht and his original orchestra occupying the stage. Estelle Fratus, the agile tap dancer recently at the Fox here and almost dropped into "Whoopee," is also among those present.

Mr. Collier ought to have little trouble.

When Gloria Swanson is heard singing a song or two in her next United Artists release, "Queen Kelly," directed by Erich von Stroheim, if her vocalization is at all impressive it will be due in large measure to the coaching of Mark Markoff, a distinguished operatic tenor and pedagogue, who, on January 13 married Miss Anna Frank, brilliant Washington pianiste and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Frank, of 795 Rock Creek Church road, this city.

Mr. Markoff, formerly leading tenor of the Imperial Opera Company of Tiflis and an instructor at the Imperial Conservatory of Music in Warsaw, Poland, left the Capital with his bride last week at the personal telegraphic behest of Miss Swanson, who would have no one else for a vocal instructor, having come briefly under Mr. Markoff's tutelage in New York. His engagement is on the basis of a year's contract with the Gloria Productions, of which the star whose name they bear is one-third owner.

Mr. Frank confides to me that his son-in-law confided to him that Miss Swanson is endowed with an excellent natural voice that is well worthy of cultivation and probably will prove a considerable surprise to those who know her only as a richly gifted luminary of silent drama.

Since I have every confidence of the manner in which you will accept "In Old Arizona," at the Fox next week, and am reasonably sure of the enthusiasm that will be felt for the fine performances contributed by Warner Baxter and Edmund Lowe, I feel that the average "fan" probably will be as curious as I was afte. the preview last Tuesday midnight to know the identity and past experience of Dorothy Burgess who appears in the really pivotal role of the play which Tom Barry has fashioned from the O. Henry short story of "The Cisco Kid."

Dorothy Burgess, brilliant young actress, will always consider her engagement with "The Squall," a stage production which enjoyed a long run at a Los Angeles theater, as the turning point in her professional career.

At the Fox studios in Hollywood production plans for the first feature-length drama to be made wholly by Fox Movietone out of doors, were halted because Raoul Walsh, director, could not find a girl with all the requirements to play the important feminine lead of Tonia Maria, the half-caste combination of Madonna and Carmen. Above all else the girl had to have a speaking voice of the right quality.

When the search seemed hopeless Walsh, from a seat in the theater where Miss Burgess was playing, found Tonia Maria.

The girl received a call the next day from the Fox studios for a test. She made several tests, exacting ones, and fulfilled every requirement.

Present indications are that the talking screen will be her branch of endeavor from now on. Edmund Lowe and Warner Baxter are featured with Miss Burgess and the supporting cast consists of more than a score of film brilliants. Every member of the cast is heard as well as seen in "In Old Arizona," a milestone in motion picture production for that very reason.

It is a matter of no little regret that there seems to be no time to write a tag line for the column today.

On second thought, perhaps this is it!

Now . . . no family need be without Frigidaire

New low prices . . savings as great as $100

TODAY Frigidaire's prices are so low that it is actually cheaper to own a Frigidaire than to be without one.

Frigidaire offers economies that no other system of refrigeration can give you. Its low current consumption; the elimination of ice bills; its constant correct refrigeration temperature that stops food spoilage and protects health; its marked simplicity and freedom from mechanical troubles; these things save money far beyond its cost.

See these Frigidaire features

But you get more than economy. You get incredible quietness of operation. You get a powerful compressor . . . powerful enough to freeze desserts and full-size ice cubes between meals. You get Frigidaire's exclusive self-sealing ice trays; removable, waist-high shelves; concealed mechanism; beautiful cabinets.

It's because of features like these that more than 750,000 Frigidaires have been sold . . . more than all other electric refrigerators combined . . . a tremendous demand that made possible quantity production. And the savings resulting from this quantity production are passed along to you in the lowest prices and the greatest values ever offered in Frigidaire history.

Come in and see the New Frigidaire. Ask us about the General Motors liberal deferred payment plan. Learn how easily you can have the benefits that only Frigidaire can give you. Come in today.

Consider these New Frigidaire features

1 So incredibly quiet you don't hear it start, stop or run.
2 Complete simplicity . . . plug it into a single electric outlet and forget it.
3 Easily portable . . . can be moved anywhere.
4 Mechanism completely concealed . . . out of sight . . . out of mind.
5 New low prices and easy terms.

Experts Will Play Bridge Over Radio

Two Teachers Will Contest With Work and Whitehead at 4:30 Today. Vaudeville Artists Heard 11 P. M.

The eleventh of a series of twenty radio auction bridge games will be broadcast from WRC at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. Each game of the series will feature Milton C. Work and Wilbur C. Whitehead, New York experts, in association with players from cities throughout America and Canada. The listeners-in are urged to have four players ready with cards and to follow the game bid by bid and play by play as broadcast over WRC.

The contestants in the eleventh bridge game are Mrs. Virginia Tubbs of Chicago, one of the most skillful teachers of auction and contract bridge in the country and player of great ability; F. E. Bruelheide, of Minneapolis, widely known lecturer and teacher on bridge, and Mr. Work and Mr. Whitehead.

Following are the advance hands for game eleven:

Milton C. Work, "south," the dealer, holds: Spades, A Q 10 9 5; hearts, K 4; diamonds, A 10 7 6 2; clubs, 3.

Wilbur C. Whitehead, "west," holds: Spades, K J 3; hearts, A J 7 6; diamonds, J 4; clubs, K 10 7 5.

Mrs. Virginia Tubbs, "north," holds: Spades, 7 6 4; hearts, Q 8; diamonds, K Q 9 5 3; clubs, A 9 4.

F. E. Bruelheide, "east," holds: Spades, 8 2; hearts, 10 9 5 3 2; diamonds, 8; clubs, Q J 8 6 2.

The Radio-Keith-Orpheum hour will be inaugurated over a coast-to-coast network of stations at 11 o'clock tonight. A varied program has been prepared, presenting Harry Santray and his orchestra from Boston; Will Fyfee, Mae Murray and her Marimba Orchestra; Hiram S. Brown, Belle Baker, Nick Luckas and Orchestra from Milwaukee, Glenn and Jenkins, colored team from Philadelphia, and Adela Berne, pianist, from Chicago. Station WRC is included in the hook-up.

"Evangeline" will be the subject of the Eveready Hour program at 9 o'clock this evening from WRC. Fashioned on the play based on Longfellow's poem, and written by Thomas W. Broadhurst, the Eveready Hour presentation will unfold the love of Evangeline, the young Acadian maiden, for Gabriel, their separation during the forced exile of the Acadians from Grand Pre, their wandering through the southern United States in search of Gabriel, and their final reunion in Philadelphia at the hour of Gabriel's death.

Rosaline Greene will enact the role of Evangeline, with Reginald Barlow, as narrator, reading Longfellow's verse between the four episodes, in explanation of the intervening action. Others in the cast will include Frederick Forrester, Ed Thompson, Richard Abbot, Jack McBryde and Marcella Shields.

United States Senator Walter E. Edge, Republican of New Jersey, who is chairman of the Senate committee on interoceanic canals, will be the guest speaker in the Voters' Service at 7 o'clock tonight through WRC. Senator Edge will discuss a resolution of which he is author, and which is pending in the Senate, to provide for a complete survey of the interoceanic canal route through Nicaragua.

A Community Chest talk by Mrs. Charles Goldsmith is one of the features from WOL at 6:25 o'clock this evening. Amos 'n Andy are scheduled for 7:11 o'clock, after which the station will sign off until 10 o'clock, when two hours of dance music will be presented.

"Waiting at the Church" will be the melodrama that Hank Simmons' Show Boat will present in their broadcast at 9 o'clock tonight, through Station WMAL.

Classical music of all nations will reach all portions of this Nation when the Voice of Columbia broadcasts its program over a coast-to-coast network at 10 o'clock tonight. Tschaikowsky's "1812 Overture" will introduce a Russian element, a selection from Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci" will add an Italian note, Wagner supplies the German atmosphere with a chorus from "Rienzi," and France will be represented by Debussy's "Golliwog's Cakewalk."

Lee Sims, pianist, will be the feature in the Royal Canadians program at 11 o'clock. Lombardo and his orchestra will contribute a snappy list of hits, including "Spell of the Blues," "She's Funny That Way," and "Sweethearts on Parade."

Fans Urged To Tune in On WAPI

Birmingham, Ala., Station Has Been Coming With Great Clarity and Volume—Public Health Forum to Begin Friday.

The suggestion is made to listeners if they haven't already done so to tune in on station WAPI, of Birmingham, Ala., which has been coming into the Capital very clear of late. Whether this is because the station has increased its power to 5,000 watts as it has been authorized to do, or whether it is the result of the new assignment of wave lengths is not known, but the volume and clarity with which it is being received is causing considerable delight among fans who have not been able to include this station among their regulars.

It is operated by the Alabama Polytechnic Institute on a frequency of 1,140 kilocycles, which on the dial is between WPG, Atlantic City, and WRVA, Richmond, on the one side, and WHAM, Rochester, and WCAU, Philadelphia, on the other. Station KVOO at Tulsa, Okla., which divides time with WAPI, that is broadcasts on the same frequency when the latter is not operating, is also heard in Washington, but not as clearly as WAPI.

A few nights ago WAPI was broadcasting by remote control the ceremonies attending the opening of the radio show at Montgomery. Gov. Bibb Graves, referring to the part radio might play in apprehending culprits in the new automobile "hit and run" law they have down there was heard to say, "You just let us know when anyone violates this law and we'll get him." The governor's voice came booming in here as if he were making an address over a local station.

During his program broadcast Saturday night, Walter Damrosch announced that the orchestra would play the "Turkish March," by Beethoven. At the conclusion of the selection there was an apology by the veteran conductor.

"I told you that we would play the Beethoven 'Turkish March,' but as many of you doubtless recognized, we were playing the Mozart 'Turkish March' instead," Mr. Damrosch said.

"To atone for this slip, I will play the Beethoven march for you at an early date."

Which very likely, was the first time that many listeners realized that there were two Turkish marches by such famous composers. Another time, when Mr. Damrosch was laying one of these compositions, he explained that when it was written, Turkish music was the vogue in Europe just as jazz is today, and a composer would write a Turkish march in those days to catch the popular fancy just as jazz is written now.

The first public health forum on the air, presenting some of the country's foremost health authorities, will be started on Friday night at 7:15 o'clock over WJZ's network. The speaker of the opening program will be Maj. Gen. Merritte W. Ireland, surgeon general of the United States Army, who will tell how medicine checks disease in war time.

Some of the speakers to be heard during the series are John Barton Payne, executive chairman, American Red Cross; W. H. Park, New York department of public health; John A. Kolmer, professor of bacteriology and pathology, University of Pennsylvania's Medical College; Roger H. Bennett, professor of pediatrics, New York Post-Graduate Medical College; Francis Carter Wood, managing director of the American Society for the Control of Cancer; Hubley Owen, chief police surgeon, Philadelphia; L. B. Mendel, professor of physiologic chemistry, Yale University; Ludwig Hektoen, professor of pathology, Rush Medical College; Arthur F. Coca, professor of immunology, Cornell Medical College; Dr. Bernard Fantus, associate clinical professor of medicine, Rush Medical College, and Dr. M. J. Rosenau, professor of preventive medicine and hygiene, Harvard Medical School.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Black tulle with black velvet dots irregularly applied, draped over a black satin foundation, makes up "Folie Amoureuse." The belt is of black velvet, and a red velvet ribbon with strass buckle encircles the throat. (Courtesy of the Maison Tollman, Paris.)

New York, Jan. 22, 1929.

THERE has long since ceased to be anything startling new about scarfs and kerchiefs, yet the Parisian couturiers continue to find new and attractive uses for them.

The Maison Lenief, to mention only one, gives them no little prominence in its current collection.

Sometimes these are used as a normal scarf about the throat. Others form an incrusted yoke, with the free ends tied in a knot over one shoulder. Still others are attached at one end or along part of one edge.

Especially effective is a dress of crepe de chine in a sort of powder blue, which has an unusually large and versatile scarf. This is attached at one side, near the shoulder, and can either be thrown about the shoulders in a sort of khawl effect, or can be hung down the back, forming a long, pointed jabot, which reaches about to the hem of the skirt.

So don't conclude too hastily that there is nothing new in the manner of wearing the scarf!

How is your lingerie box? Ours is inexhaustible. ("How interesting!" snorts Le Secretaire Gallant.)

Just the same, I do not believe any lovely lady ever had all the lingerie she wanted: so there! So just every now and then we dash down to the yard-sticks department of our favorite store, pick up assorted yards and yards of colors and lace and ribbon and things and then limp back to the studio and design lingerie from there on to the point of exhaustion.

Our last jaunt and ensuing efforts evolved three types of lingerie that we thought every lovely lady should have in her lingerie box: one for tailored wear, one for afternoon wear and for, oh, well, evening wear.

YOUR LINGERIE BOX.

And all you have to do is just send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for the detailed directions how to make these! Only you have to hurry because our lingerie leaflets are always so popular and we become increasingly timid when we have to think of approaching our wild Irish printer for a second printing.

Tiers—and thiasis—and thasses—oh what of it? You see, when you are tired reading about fashions you can stop—?!!?

• • • •

Fashion does not change these days, but there are some innovations that are typical of each season. This season, tulle sprinkled with velvet dots is being featured by several of the houses. Tollman, for example, makes a lovely black tulle evening dress over a satin foundation—with long sleeves of the tulle. A black velvet belt and a red velvet ribbon at the neck, fastened with a strass buckle, add to its general charm. And the black velvet dots are sewn on irregularly all over the tulle.

What Today Means to You

JANUARY 22

"AQUARIUS."

IF January 22 is your birthday, the most propitious hours for you today are from noon to 1:15 p. m., from 2:45 p. m. to 3:45 p. m., from 6:15 p. m. to 7:15 p. m., and from 9:45 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:15 a. m. to 11:15 a. m., and from 4:15 p. m. to 5:15 p. m.

The planetary aspects of today advise a certain amount conservatism in all thoughts about social or business affairs. It is well for one to remember that disappointment is the offspring of expectation, and hat to be conservative in your predictions avoids disappointment.

The child born today will be alert and intelligent in almost anything it attempts. It will shine in scholastic pursuits, and play all sports well. It will be rather difficult to determine what career it should take up, and this will not be learnt until it outgrows its adolescence.

You are unusually active, independent and persevering. Independence is a wonderful trait but it may be carried to extremes, especially when sharing your life or business with others. The aspects predict that the only road to success for you is constant work. You should try and work for yourself, as it seems doubtful whether you will be able to advance in the employ of others. People like yourself and of your nature wear themselves out without profit when tied to others. You should bear in mind that this requires unremitting hard work and courage, accompanied by many failures. This, however, is only to be expected, and always remember that "Experience is what you get when you are looking for something else," and that a mistake once committed and admitted only swells your knowledge to the betterment of your general ability.

You have a rather uncontrollable temper and should curb this as much as possible. A smile goes much further than a scowl, and is the passport to many friendships and happy times. Gain self-poise, as a man or woman without this in the life of today can be likened to a bird without wings!

You should be careful in the selection of your mate.

Successful people born on January 22:
Timothy Dexter, merchant.
John Delafield, banker.
Charles S. Todd, soldier and diplomat.
John Hiram Lathrop, educator.
Charles O'Connor, lawyer.
Walter Gay, artist.

Beach Pajamas.

It is indeed hard to think what the wild waves will say when they see upon the sand a figure clad in extremely wide red silk pajamas, a white silk sleeveless blouse cut in a deep V front and back, and wearing a bright blue scarf tied around the waist.

The All-White Coat.

Cheerful, at Least!

The most cheerful thing upon the southern beach will be a bathing suit that consists of black shorts, a white top with an animal embroidered in red, and a red cardigan lined with yellow turkish toweling.

Flowered Silk and Chiffon.

A frock of flowered silk has huge blue roses upon it. Around the skirt is a flounce of the same pattern, but of chiffon instead of silk.

AUCTION BRIDGE AND CONTRACT BRIDGE.

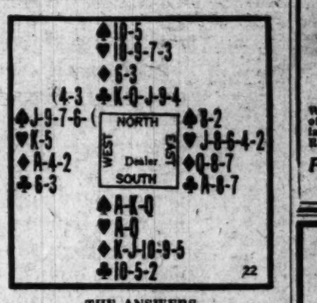
THIS week a deal will be given each day and the reader will be asked to determine what the bidding would be at Auction Bridge and also, if interested in the new game, at Contract Bridge. he further will be asked to name the play of the first few tricks.

The answers will be given each day but readers are urged not to examine them until they have reached their own conclusions. See how many of the question you can answer correctly.

THE QUESTIONS.

What should the bidding of this deal be at Auction and Contract?

What should the play be to the first three tricks?



THE ANSWERS.

At Auction South would obtain the contract with a bid of one No Trump. At Contract, South would bid one No Trump or two No Trumps, depending upon whether he was a bold or timid bidder. Many never bid two No Trumps unless they have four suits stopped. If South bid two No Trumps, North would bid three Clubs and South three No Trumps. If South bid one No Trumps, North would bid two Clubs, and South then would bid three No Trumps.

The play to the first three tricks:

Trick 1. West, Six of Spades; North, the Five; East, the Eight, and South the Queen.

Trick 2. South, Deuce of Clubs; West, the Trey; North, the Jack, and East, the Seven.

Trick 3. North, Trey of Diamonds; East, the Seven; South, the Jack, and West, the Ace.

The Declarer does not continue the Clubs after the first round because, if the adversary who has the Ace has three Clubs, Dummy's Clubs can not be run. In that case it is important to establish Diamonds, and Declarer may need two Diamond leads from Dummy.

Elephants, Wild and Tame.

ELEPHANTS in this country are seen at the circus or in the zoo—they do not run wild. Once there were wild elephants roaming over North America; but that day is long past. The only traces we find of them are their skeletons.

A "howdah" on the back of an elephant.

India today is the home of both wild and tame elephants. The big beasts live in the jungle, and are captured from time to time. To take them in traps is a hard piece of work, for the elephant is cunning as well as powerful. He keeps on the lookout for traps. It is an interesting fact that once elephants are caught and tamed, they seldom try to escape. The ones which break loose are supposed to be "mad," and they have at times done a great deal of damage. In general, however, they are peaceful while held captive.

Long ago the natives of India learned to make use of the elephant as a beast of burden. He is taught to carry persons on his back, to move logs with his trunk, and to push down trees.

In the Indian jungles there are long stretches of pampas grass, rising to a height of from 15 to 20 feet. Men would find it almost impossible to get through that grass on foot, but they manage to do so while riding on the backs of elephants.

Hunters in India ride on elephants while out to shoot tigers. The tigers do not care to argue with the elephant, as a general rule; so the hunters are fairly safe. Often there is a kind of pavilion—known as a "howdah"—on the back of the elephant. This gives comfort to the rider, and he is protected from the sun.

A native of Burma once told me some of the things elephants in his country do with their trunks. "They can pick up needles," he said. If you have watched an elephant pick up a peanut from the dust, it may not be so hard for you to believe that they know how to pick up needles. They know enough not to swallow the needles!

Young French Composer Will Visit America

Paris, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—One of France's young master composers, Arthur Honegger, has accepted an invitation to give a series of concerts in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington and San Francisco.

It will be Honegger's first visit to the United States, but his compositions already have been played there.

Prices realized on Swift & Co. sales of carcass beef in Washington, D. C., for the week ending Saturday, January 19, 1929, on shipments sold out ranged from 17.50 cents to 26.50 cents per pound, and averaged 21.63 cents per pound.—Adv.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS.

TO GAIN WEIGHT.

Miss Viola F. writes: I am 24 years of age, mother of two children, and am about ten pounds underweight. What should I do to gain weight?

REPLY.

Eat regular meals at regular hours. In addition, eat a bowl of sugared rice and milk at bedtime.

Take a nap after lunch.

Go to bed regularly, at an early hour, and sleep nine hours.

Do not worry or fret.

Cultivate calm and poise.

WANTS TO BE TALLER.

K. P. writes: Is there any way in which I can increase my height? Am 5 feet 7 inches and weigh 136 pounds. Age is 17. Will sports, such as running and basketball, increase my height or stop my growing?

REPLY.

Sports and exercise generally may help a little. Your growing time is about over, and that is about all there is to say.

PROPER HOME TEMPERATURE.

A. N. writes: I keep my home at 70 to 72 degrees Fahrenheit with a furnace and plenty of humidity, but I have two daughters who insist on 80 to 82 degrees because they are too cold at 70 to 72. Please advise whether 70 degrees should be kept and some ventilation, or a high temperature of 80 to 82 degrees.

REPLY.

Your house is too hot as it is. Do not allow it to be made hotter. I doubt whether there is enough humidity. When the humidity is high, the temperature may be lower without causing discomfort. As a rule (to which there are exceptions), the hotter the house the colder the floors and the more discomfort from drafts.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

WE asked a simple question in this column recently, and judging from the consequences, no one liked our question. Men and women for once seem united on an issue. They declare with one voice that we ought to go back to the hoopskirt and be done with it. Poor us! We are always saying or doing the wrong thing. Hear some of our punishment.

"You would like to know if there are any young women who look forward to marriage as an end instead of a means to some end? What do you mean by end? How can marriage be an 'end' in itself? What is marriage but a gesture? How could any mere gesture be an end in itself? Marriage was never designed to be an end in itself even back in the archaic days when it was first established, to which many of your published views seem to revert. Doest thou wear hoopskirt and bustle?"

Now, is that nice? Five foot two in hoopskirts! Well there was still worse letters than that one, for instance one from "Experience:"

"Marriage as an end in itself? An end to progress—individual and class progress? Yes, and that's all the end it is. Why do people, like you who do not feel in the least bound to devote themselves to marriage or its demands, preach it to others; ram it down unwilling throats? You preserve your own right to come and go as you please, marriage or not. Why argue it as an 'end in itself' for the rest of us?

"Then it will be the individual, and not his hit-or-miss offspring that the state will value. Far better a world without births than this world of crippled childhood, undernourished infancy, criminal maturity. When marriage is abolished, when all the tomfoolery and hokum with which it is surrounded has been obliterated, then you will have intelligence ruling the home rather than fear of the law and superstition. No intelligent human male or female looks forward to marriage as an 'end in itself,' because marriage is not worthy to be the end or goal of any intelligent thinking being.

"Marriage is at present a social necessity, due to the fact that humans in their concert insist upon reproducing themselves. Beyond that it is nothing."

Which, of course, completely crushes us, and makes us realize how pitifully provincial we have been all along without even suspecting it. Here we were thinking that marriage was something. And—now. Well, all we can say is that we are willing to learn and have a wide open mind.

JUST FOLKS

MIDDLE-WAY.

I met an old man by the way
Who shook his head at me,
And said: "Don't stop at middle-way
If at the top you'd be."

"What means this cryptic speech?" said I,
"What is it you advise?
Why do you stop me passing by
With warning in your eyes?"

"My son," said he, "beware the day
When naught you wish to learn,
Beware the task which seems to say
This is enough to earn.

"Beware the glitter of the gold
Which easily is gained,
Or you shall be when you are old
To bitter duties chained.

"Beware the dreary middle-way
Where pleasure seekers stop,
But keep on climbing, day by day,
Until you reach the top.

"Do well whatever life shall ask
And hear your praises said,
But always seek the harder task
And farther goal ahead.

"For if you stop at middle-way
As long ago did I,
At middle-way you'll have to stay

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

JANUARY 22.

ENID BENNETT, the motion picture star, was born this day in York, western Australia, 1896. She began her career as an actress on the stage in Sydney, Australia. After a long wait in Hollywood, she got her start under Thomas H. Ince. Her winsome personality, fine talent and indefatigable energy soon sent her rocketing to stardom.

Mrs. Beatrice Webb, English economist, was born this day, 1858. She married Sydney Webb and collaborated with him on several works on economics. She was the author of "The Cooperative Movement in England."

The famous English actress, Constance Collier, who has repeatedly toured Australia and the United States, was born this day, 1878. Among the stars with whom she appeared as leading lady was Beerbohm Tree. With Ivor Novello she wrote "The Rat," which was produced in 1924.

One of America's prominent women journalists, Florence O'Neill, was born this day, 1868. Beside acting as Paris correspondent for American newspapers she has composed songs and instrumental music.

MOST STOCKS MOVE TOWARD HIGH LEVEL

STEEL SHARES SUFFER

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Jan. 21.—Beginning the new week with little or no perceptible change in its general characteristics, the stock market presented a rather confusing picture today. Chief movements were in most instances toward higher levels, but the market as a whole again lacked any decisively defined trend, although dealings again were in large volume, approximating a 5,200,000-share total.

With new highs for a year or longer to the number of 25 established during the session and but two new lows for s welvemonth, the market closed with net gains ranging from 2 to nearly 8 points showing in some two score issues. Du Pont, on a stock split-up and dividend inauguration expectations and demand far exceeding supply, finished a new top, 540, 30 points net higher. While Commercial Investment Trust shares improved nearly half that amount.

Losses on the day, while in only a handful of issues extending beyond 3 points or so, and the maximum recession being 7 points in Industrial Rayon in a single transaction, included United States Steel common, which quit 5½ points to the bad, up fractionally from the day's low level. After its record-breaking performance of the last half of last week, Steel found not only its advance halted, but a stiff reaction developing from persistent realizing.

Outside Factors Little Changed.

In outside factors bearing on the stock market situation there was little change over the week-end or during the course of the session. So far as the money market was concerned, there was little to indicate any perceptible tendency for the better in speculative rates. Call funds ruled easy at 6 per cent, but there were further revisions in the various bill maturities, and time money was virtually unchanged, both as to rates and the relation of supply to demand.

Although once more the share list, broadly regarded, failed to make any truly noteworthy progress, there were groups like the coppers, and numerous individual issues besides DuPont, in which pronounced strength appeared. On the other hand, however, there was considerable selling evident in various departments. Yet little or no real weakness cropped out in stocks which apparently were under pressure of steady offerings.

The copper shares were early brought to the front, led by Anaconda and Chile, both of which rose to new record levels. The latter held near the top and finished 3¾ points net higher, while Anaconda closed 3½ points up, although 2 points under the best. Kennecott at one stage was up three points above Saturday's final quotation but ended the day but 1¼ net higher. Most of the others kept pace, but Calumet & Hecla, which performed sensationally Saturday—a movement explained to some extent by the directors' today ordering another $1 dividend on the shares—boomed up to 58, then fell to 53, recovered a major fraction from that level and finished ⅝ net lower.

Speculation Fairly Aggressive.

Speculation was fairly aggressive also in several other directions, particularly in some of the high-priced schedules, in various of the merchandising issues like Sears-Roebuck, Montgomery Ward and Best & Co., and Studebaker; which, on enormous dealings, rose to new record levels and held up to within a shade more than a point of the summit, closing 4⅛ net higher.

New York tractions were strong features and a number of the leading and speculative carrier issues worked substantially higher—presumably in anticipation of a good showing as the December statements make their appearance in greater numbers later in the week. Demand was fairly well distributed, embracing some of the non-dividend payers like Erie and Great Western, as well as the investment descriptions such as Canadian Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line and Great Northern. New York Central, however, turned downward after an early gain and wound up 3½ net lower, and Wabash preferred B lost 6½.

The independent steels took their cue from the group leader, and the rails also were neglected. Some of the tobaccos did fairly well, and likewise some of the amusement stocks, notably Warner Brothers Pictures, and a few of the packing issues.

Day's Sizable Net Gains.

Among the sizable net gains were Allis Chalmers, 6; Adams Express, 7; Commercial Investment Trust, 13¾; Warner Pictures, 7⅛; Motor Products, 7; Reis first preferred, 5½; Jones Brothers Tea, 4; Adolf Gobel, 4¼; Gotham Hosiery new, 4½; Snider Packing preferred, 3¼; Wilson preferred, 4; Porto Rican American Tobacco A, 3⅝; National Bellas Hess, 3; Freeport-Texas, 3¾; Great Western preferred, 4; Curtiss, 3; Loew's, 3¼; Pierce Arrow new, 3; Montgomery Ward, 3¼, and A. N. Byers, 2⅝.

Principal losers included Detroit Edison, 6; Park & Tilford, 3¾; Chrysler, 2¾; Van Raalte, 2¾; Radio, 3½; Johns-Manville, 3; Safe Way Stores, 3; Standard Milling, 4¼; Eisenlohr, 2⅝; Allied Chemical, 2½; American Steel Foundries, 2½; Pittsburgh & West Virginia, 2; A. G. W. I. preferred, 2¾; International Combustion, 2¾; National Distillers, 2½; Commonwealth Power, 3¼; Conde Nast, 3; Republic Iron & Steel, 2½; Ludlum, 2¼; Baldwin Locomotive, 2; Continental Baking A, 3¼; Goodyear, 2⅛, and Marmon Motor, 2½.

In moderately active trading, most foreign currencies developed reactionary tendencies. Sterling dropped back to 94.84 15-16 again, perilously close to the gold point. Continental currencies also developed heaviness, with Dutch and German yielding 1½ points, French and Italian a shade, and Swiss, Swedish and Danish a point. Canadian dollars held round their recent bottom. Yen developed weakness, losing 18 points, and rates on Bombay fell 6 points, while those on Shanghai improved 12 points. Argentine exchange improved moderately, but Uruguayan and Brazilian were lower.

COPPER BONDS LEAD FAIRLY GOOD UPTURN

Market's General Trend Is Irregular; Few Utilities Advance.

STRENGTH IN OIL GROUP

New York, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Under leadership of the coppers, more than a dozen issues surpassed or equalled their high records of the past year on today's bond market. The trend of the market, however, was irregular, with trading confined to the more speculative issues. The gains were mostly in securities that advanced in sympathy with stock. Total sales were $10,634,000 against $9,894,000 on Friday.

Anaconda Copper 7s got up to 204, a new record, and closed at 200¼ for a net gain of 3⅜ for the day. There was little trading in the 6s. Chile Copper, which is expected to consolidate with Anaconda 5s, equalled their previous peak of 95. Other industrials to establish new high included Anglo-Chilean Nitrate 7s, International Cement 5s, Truax Traer Coal 6½s and Wilson & Co. first 6s. Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s, U. S. Rubber 5s, Goodrich 6½s and Crown Cork & Seal 6s. U. S. Steel sinking fund 5s advanced fractionally. Inland Steel 4½s A sold fractionally lower. Weakness also was displayed by Kayser & Co. 5½s and Hudson Coal 5s.

International Telephone was again the active spot in the utilities list, advancing fractionally on a heavy turnover. Public Service of New Jersey 4½s also gained. Utilities Power & Light 5½s and Mutual Fuel Gas 5s established new high records at 94½ and 104, respectively. Brooklyn Union Gas convertible 5s after touching the previous record figure, closed fractionally lower.

Illinois Central collateral 4s moved up to a new high, with a net gain of more than one point for the day. Seaboard Air Line adjustment 5s, Union Pacific refunding 4s and Des Moines & Fort Dodge 4s, the latter establishing a new high at 39, improved. Among the issues to yield to selling pressure were Grand Trunk of Canada 6s, Missouri Pacific 5s F and St. Louis & San Francisco prior lien 5s B.

Oils were strong, with Associated Oil 6s and Colon Oil 6s climbing into new high ground.

All the U. S. Government obligations advanced, with Liberty fourth 4¼s selling above par again.

A.A.U. Probes "Orders" to Nurmi

Alleges Influence Was Used; K. C. Club to Welcome Inquiry.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—The Amateur Athletic Union tonight postponed until Wednesday its investigation into charges brought in connection with Paavo Nurmi's scheduled appearance at the Prout Memorial games in Boston next Saturday night.

Daniel J. Ferris, national secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U., announced it would be impossible to round up members of the registration committee of the Metropolitan Association A. A. U., before Wednesday. Originally the meeting had been called either for today or tomorrow.

The investigation was ordered after Jack Harris, secretary of the committee in charge of the Masonic meet here Saturday, declared Nurmi had been "influenced" to change his entry from the Masonic meet to the Prout games.

To Question Nurmi Concerning Virtual "Order" to Run.

The A. A. U. plans to question Nurmi in an effort to uncover all angles of the situation and learn, if possible, whether any undue influence or financial inducements were brought into play. Harris has asserted that Nurmi was given a virtual "order" to compete in the Prout games rather than in New York.

The Metropolitan association is making the investigation in view of the fact that Nurmi was registered as an amateur by that body.

Boston, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Denying any irregularities in obtaining Paavo Nurmi's consent to compete in next Saturday's Prout memorial meet, James J. Gaffney, manager of the Knights of Columbus track games, tonight said he had been informed by Hugo Quist, Nurmi's representative, that his invitation was the first the Finnish track star accepted when he arrived in this country several weeks ago.

Gaffney said Quist this afternoon assured him by telephone that he and Nurmi would come to Boston next Saturday.

Feelings Between Meet Officials Amicable Says K. of C. Head.

The Boston track official, after describing the amicable feelings which existed between the Boston Knights of Columbus and the officials directing the Masonic track meet in New York next Saturday night, said that he had been told by a member of the latter group that the New York organization did not plan on having Nurmi compete in its meet.

Informed that Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U., intended to investigate charges that Nurmi had been influenced to change his entry to the Boston meet, Gaffney said:

"The Knights of Columbus will welcome any investigation that Ferris or any other official, A. A. U., or otherwise, may care to make, regarding its transactions with Nurmi or any other athlete."

U. S. Girl Jump Champ Meets Olympic Winner

St. Louis, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Katherine Maguire, of St. Louis, national woman's high jump champion, today announced acceptance of an invitation to compete with Ethel Catherwood, of Canada, Olympic champion, and others in a special invitation meet of the Milrose A. C. at Madison Square Garden, New York City, February 9.

Miss Maguire holds the United States mark of 5 feet one-half inch, while Miss Catherwood holds the world's outdoor record of 5 feet 3 inches. Other competitors will be Mildred Wiley, of Boston; Jean Shiley, of Philadelphia, and a Miss Huber, of New York.

K. O. Christner Won Name In the Rubber Pits of Akron; Won Fame at Odds of 20 to 1

EDITOR'S NOTE—The fate of the Sharkey-Stribling bout at Miami Beach, February 27, rests upon the outcome of Friday night's bout between the Bostonian and K. O. Christner, of Akron, Ohio. Who Christner is and how he came into the picture and what he thinks of his chances are told in the following article, an exclusive close-up of the former rubber puddler.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Meyers W. Christner never knew he could fight until he crawled out of the pit in an Akron, Ohio, tire factory and shattered an opponent's jaw in three places with one swing of his iron right. "What a K. O.!" his fellow tire workers said.

He got his nickname that day and his first fight shortly afterwards in July, 1927, at a club smoker. He knocked out his opponent, Arvine Spence, in two rounds. Previous to that fight he had seen only two rounds of boxing in his life.

Until the big Akron rubber puddler knocked out the highly-touted Knute Hansen in Cleveland recently he was not known outside his own region, where little was thought of him by any one but his own handlers.

Now, when most fighters have passed their peak or quit the ring, Christner is getting his first big chance at 34. Jack Dempsey is the same age and Gene Tunney three years younger. Both have retired.

"I Ain't No Fancy Boxer, But I Sure Can Sock."

While Dempsey and Madison Square Garden are pushing ahead with elaborate plans for the Sharkey-Stribling bout at Miami Beach, Fla., February 27, Christner is confident he can blast all their good work with his murderous right fist.

"If Sharkey will fight, I'll do the same thing to him I did to Hansen," Christner said. "I ain't no fancy boxer, but I sure can sock."

Christner's confidence in himself is not radiated in fistic circles, where Sharkey is a prohibitive favorite to show up Christner as a lucky fighter who catapulted into prominence on one fight.

"They didn't think I was any good in Cleveland before I stopped Hansen," Christner said when told New York fight fans regarded him as a "set-up" for Sharkey.

The betting odds were 20 to 1 on Hansen, according to Christner, who advised a pal on the police force to bet his only $25 at those odds. There is no record of any one else betting on Christner.

Hansen Out for 20 Minutes After Knockout in Seventh.

"It's a shame to lead that poor fellow to slaughter," Christner said he heard one fan remark when he went down the aisle to fight Hansen.

Hansen turned his back on Christner as they waited in their corners for the opening bell, catering to the audience's applause for him.

"Pack up and we'll catch the 10:30 back to New York tonight," Hansen told Lou Brix and Billy Gibson, his handlers.

Hansen was not out of shape, according to Brix, who said the Dane had trained faithfully three months before the fight.

"He went after Christner just like

Sharkey Shuns Foe, Quitting Ring in Hurry

New York, Jan. 21 (United Press). Jack Sharkey, of Boston, had his first workout here for Friday night's bout with K. O. Christner, boxing three rounds at Stillman's Gymnasium this afternoon with Italian Jack Herman and punching the bag.

Christner followed Sharkey on the gym floor, sparring three rounds with Tiny Herman and going through labored calisthenics.

The fighters did not meet.

"I don't want to see the big gorilla until I climb into the ring," was Sharkey's explanation of his hurried exit before the Akron boxer's arrival.

Fugazy Seeks Dempsey as Partner

Rickard's Rival Offers Post to Jack; Ex-Champion Silent.

Miami Bout Is Shifted to Rent-Free Arena Seating 60,000.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 21 (A.P.). Heretofore in the front rank of rivals of the late Tex Rickard in fight promoting, Humbert Fugazy today announced himself a candidate for Rickard's niche in the sporting world, and asked Jack Dempsey to be his partner.

Declaring that Dempsey's success as a promoter appeared assured, the New York promoter arrived here to talk over partnership plans. After a conference, Dempsey said he had declined to consider such a project until after his temporary job of putting on the Sharkey-Stribling bout here February 12. He is acting for Madison Square Garden Corporation, whose head Rickard was until his death early this month.

"It is impossible for me to discuss such a project now," Dempsey said in speaking of Fugazy's plan. After the fight I may have the time to do it, but until that time I can say nothing.

Fugazy Expects Own Arena In New York This Year.

"I do not know whether I will fight again, whether I will be a promoter, or whether I will go into other business ventures that I have under consideration," the former heavyweight champion continued, and added "I am getting a great kick out of promoting."

Fugazy was accompanied to Miami by his wife, by his attorney, Barth Manfredi, of New York, and Albert W. Luce, of New York. They will be joined tomorrow by Ed Cole, New York broker.

Fugazy said that he expects to have his own arena in New York within nine months.

Roseate Prospects of Miami Bout Demands Larger Park.

New York, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—The battle of the Southland between Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling at Miami Beach, February 27, has assumed such proportions that need of a new and more commodious site forced securing of Flamingo Park, Jack Dempsey today wired officials of the Madison Square Garden here.

The heavyweight king, now actively engaged in the promotion of the last fistic spectacle Tex Rickard scheduled before his death, wired that the park would hold an arena seating between 40,000 and 60,000. Dempsey signed a contract with the City of Miami Beach today for use of the site, rent free. Rickard's Miami Beach Kennel Club, where the fight was to have been staged as first planned, would seat less than 30,000, Dempsey said. Flamingo Park, in the center of the city, covers 60 acres.

"The arena can be so designed," Dempsey wired, "that the most remote seats will be closer to the ring than the bulk of the ringside seats at the Tunney-Dempsey fight in Chicago."

Godfrey-Paulino Bout Off When Dempsey Objects

New York, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—The Madison Square Garden Corporation has abandoned plans for a fight at Havana, Cuba, February 18, between George Godfrey, giant Leiperville, Pa., negro, and Paulino Uzcudun, of Spain.

Two factors entered into the decision to abandon the bout—opposition of Jack Dempsey and the difficulty in lining up Paulino for the match.

Dempsey, in a telegram to Garden officials, expressed disapproval of the match on the grounds that it would interfere with his plans for the Jack Sharkey-Young Stribling battle in Miami Beach Fla., on February 27.

Paulino, who dropped a decision to Godfrey in a gruelling battle on the Pacific Coast last year, could see no good reason for meeting the negro again, especially in view of the fact that the Basque woodchopper already is virtually assured of one of the big "shots" of the heavyweight eliminations this summer. Al Mayer, one of Paulino's board of strategy, suggested instead that Godfrey be included among the heavyweights still in the running for the title Gene Tunney forsook last summer, and that he be permitted to participate in the elimination tournament.

There was some talk of obtaining a substitute to meet Paulino at Havana, but Dempsey's protest was enough to make the Garden corporation drop all its plans for the match, at least for the present.

College Sports Body Asks A. A. U. Conference

New York, Jan. 21 (U.P.).—Gen. Palmer E. Pierce, president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, has written two letters to Dan J. Ferris, secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union, requesting the appointment of committees for two conferences on controversial subjects brought up at the recent meeting of the former sports governing body.

Pierce announced the N. C. A. A. has appointed two committees, with himself as chairman of both, to confer with the A. A. U. on the matter of supervision of intercollegiate athletic registration and upon the matter of Olympic committee control. Ferris has referred the communications to President Avery Brundage of the A. A. U.

Bobby Jones Not to Play In Havana Open Event

Havana, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Robert T. Jones, jr., American amateur golf champion who arrived here yesterday from Key West, today told the Associated Press that he would not enter the open golf championship play at the Havana Country Club.

Bobby said that he was here on vacation and to play with several old friends, but that he did not contemplate any championship matches while here.

Olympic Winter Sports Sought by Canada in '32

Toronto, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Canada will make a determined effort to secure the winter sports of the Olympic games in 1932 it was decided at a meeting of the Canadian Olympic committee today.

The regular Olympic competition for 1932 has been awarded to Los Angeles, but no place has been chosen for the winter sports. It is understood that the international committee will meet at Cairo, Egypt, next month to decide the site for the winter games.

Ban Against J. Dundee Lifted in California

San Francisco, Jan. 21 (U.P.).—Joe Dundee, world's welterweight champion, is free to defend his title in California as Charles Traung, member of the State Boxing Commission, today withdrew his objections against the Baltimore Italian and Max Waxman, Dundee's manager.

The fighter and manager had been banned in this State since the Dundee-Ace Hudkins championship riot in Los Angeles a year ago. The action of Traung may pave the way for a bout between Dundee and Jackie Fields, of Los Angeles.

Sonnenberg Wrestles Polish Giant Feb. 7

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 21 (U.P.).—A heavyweight championship wrestling bout to a decision will be staged here February 7 when Gus Sonnenberg, new title holder, will take on Stanley Stasiak, 270-pound Polish manhandler. Sonnenberg, former Dartmouth College grid star, recently defeated Ed "Strangler" Lewis for the title.

Glendons' Crews Meet In Dual Regatta Apr. 27

New York, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—"Old Dick" and "Young Dick" Glendon, father and son will match crews in a dual rowing regatta this spring for the first time.

The rowing schedule announced today by Columbia University is headed by a dual regatta with the Naval Academy on the Harlem River, April 27. The Middies are coached by the elder Glendon, while his son holds forth at Columbia. Their oarsmen will meet in a varsity race, and it is as yet unsettled as to whether the competition will include junior varsity, freshman or lightweight crews as well.

Dead Policeman Known As Athlete in Capital

John Francis McAuliffe, 23-year-old policeman who died yesterday of bullet wound inflicted by a drunk-crazed man on Saturday, was well known in sports circles of the District as a baseball and football player.

McAuliffe, a graduate of Business High School in 1923, captained the Business Team while playing third base. He also earned his letter in football. In later years he managed and played with the Chevy Chase Bearcats, a strong sandlot nine, and last season he was the third baseman of the Police Department's ball team.

Rex Beach's 72 Wins Artists, Writers Golf

Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 21.—Playing with the skill of a top-notch amateur golfer, Rex Beach, the novelist, towroped the field today in winning the qualifying medal in the second annual championship tournament of the Artists and Writers Golf Association. Beach romped over the Palm Beach Country Club course in 35—37—72 and was the only player to crack 80.

Second place went to the defending champion, Grantland Rice, president of the organization, with 40—41—81.

The score of other noted writers and artists follow:

Arthur Somers Roche, 44—42—86; Fontaine Fox, 42—45—87; Clarence Budington Kelland, 50—42—92; P. T. Webster, 58—49—107; Clare Briggs, 53—57—110; Rube Goldberg, 58—54—112; James Montgomery Flagg, 54—64—118.

19 Players to Get Medals At Tech Grid Banquet

Although the basket ball season is now occupying the attention of most schoolboy athletes, members of the champion Tech High School Eleven will be honored at a banquet tomorrow night at the Avingone Freres, 1777 Columbia road northwest, beginning at 8:15 o'clock. Nineteen gold footballs will be presented to members of the 1928 team.

The principal speaker on the program will be H. C. "Curly" Byrd, head football coach and athletic director at Maryland University. Other speakers will be Frank C. Daniels, principal of Tech, and Warren Spencer and Buck Woltz, alumni, who aided Coach Hap Hardell in tutoring the football team last fall.

Ward Oehmann, captain of last fall's eleven, was reelected president of the Tech "T" Club at a meeting of that organization at the school yesterday. Holmes Fountain was named vice president; Alfred Reichmann, secretary; Aubrey Spencer, treasurer; George Cole, sergeant at arms, and Leo Winston, chronological secretary. The club is for graduate and undergraduate letter men.

SUNDAY BALL FOR BRAVES ASSURED

Council to Give Permit After New Petition Made Under Oath.

BOSTON, Jan. 21.—A permit to play Sunday baseball in this city virtually was asured the Boston Braves today when John F. Dowd, chairman of a city council committee appointed to consider the club's application, reported his committee as favorable to granting the permit.

Dowd made the announcement before the city council. He said that the club would have to file a new application, however, signed under oath and specifying prices of admission to be charged and other details which the committee considered essential. A report to the council by Dowd's committee could be expected next week, he said.

Another angle of the Sunday baseball question was pursued today by Attorney General Joseph E. Warner. He questioned Orris H. Brusse, treasurer of the Outdoor Recreation League, at the State House this morning and again this afternoon in connection with the league's alleged violation of the corrupt practices act.

Expect to Quiz Adams Today In $30,000 Fund Probe.

During an investigation by the Boston finance commission of alleged bribery demands by city councilmen against Emil Fuchs, president of the Braves, to assure acceptance of the Sunday Sports act in this city, it was charged that a list of contributors to a $30,000 fund raised by the league had been falsified. The league sponsored the act, which would legalize Sunday sports in the State election. It was charged the list actually covered contributions made by the Boston Braves. Brusse had filed the list with the secretary of State.

Neither Warner nor Brusse would comment on their conference. Warner said that he expected to question Charles F. Adams, vice president of the Braves, tomorrow. Fuchs was questioned last week.

Clergy Plans Vigorous Fight Against Sunday Sports.

While the city council and the attorney general were engaged in their respective interests in the baseball situation, a declaration of war against Sunday sports was being made by Dr. A. Z. Conrad, pastor of the Park Street Congregational Church, before a meeting of the Lord's Day League. The Lord's Day League had fought the Sunday sports act before its adoption in the last State election.

"Our battle has just begun," said Dr. Conrad. "We have been defeated in a single battle, but are bound to win in the great campaign. A program of strong concentration and aggression should be adopted."

Mayor Andrew A. Cassasa of Revere today announced that he had received "virtual assurance" that the Boston Red Sox would accept his offer to both the Boston American and National League Teams to play their Sunday games in that city.

Stribling Knocks Out Montgomery in Round 2

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 21 (A.P.).—W. L. (Young) Stribling, of Macon, Ga., contender for the heavyweight championship, tonight knocked out Sully Montgomery, Fort Worth, former Centre College football player, in the second round of their scheduled eight-round battle. Montgomery, who weighed 208 pounds, had an advantage of nearly 20 pounds.

Joe Harris Will Play With Sacramento Club

Franklin, Pa., Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Joe Harris, veteran major league first baseman, who was given his release by the Brooklyn Dodgers several months ago, today announced he had signed to play with the Sacramento Club of the Pacific Coast League. Harris, who also once wore the uniforms of the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Washington Senators, said he would leave for California February 1.

Almost the Naked Truth

By JAMES S. COLLINS

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—A considerable body of gentlemen who derive their living from boxing, although they never felt a blow in the ring, will be in Madison Square Garden Wednesday night, even if they have to pay to get in. They are managers and would-be managers. Ordinarily managers are too busy thinking up schemes to put something over on the other fellow to pay any attention to anything that goes on at a fight club, excepting, of course, the counting of the gate receipts. The magnet which will draw them to the Garden Wednesday night will be the finals of the metropolitan amateur championships, which promise to uncover more than one future professional star. When the semi-finals were fought ten days ago managers were pullulating all over the place, from the press seats to the dressing rooms.

"There certainly is a lot of high binders in this racket," said one manager later. "They'd drug their own gran'mother and steal the fillin's outa her teeth if they thought they could get away with it. The other night when Jimmy Amber, who fights Al Kubart in the middleweight final, knocked over Tom Huggins, they flocked into Amber's dressing room like a lotta vultures. I'm in there waitin' for Jimmy's old man to come in, thinkin' if he was goin' to turn pro he want's somebody that knows what it's all about an' ain't in it to get all the dough he can to handle his business.

"Who, Me? I Ain't Squeezin' the Last Cent Outa a Kid Fighter."

"I ain't in there talkin' with Jimmy's old man two minutes when a lotta these vultures started comin' in. Well, Jimmy's old man told me the kid was goin' to a neighborhood party that night and wouldn't talk business wit' any one till the next day at 2 o'clock. So I didn't pester him any more, but the rest of these vultures kept pesterin' him. I stuck around so's nobody'd put anythin' over on me an' it was more than an hour before I could get outa there.

"Well, the next day I goes over to Amber's house in Bay Ridge thinkin' maybe Jimmy's old man might want me to do his business for him, and what d'ye think? A lotta these vultures was right over there, too, tryin' to get the kid hooked to a contract. Well, Amber's old man wouldn't talk business as long's the kid's in the amachoors, so all these vultures had their trip for nothin' and it served 'em right, I say. They'll be hangin' round him next Wednesday night if he gets by Kubart.

"Who, me? Well, I thought I'd just drop round and see if Amber maybe didn't want me to handle him if he turns pro. Knowin' I know what it's all about and ain't in the racket just to squeeze the last cent outa a kid fighter like a lotta these vultures I been tellin' you about."

Schmeling Stockholders Clutter Commission Offices.

Local traffic rules were revised just in time to regulate the managers' day parade of managers to the offices of the boxing commission tomorrow. Everybody who has a piece of Max Schmeling, the promising German heavyweight, has been commanded to attend. Managers of record include only Arthur Bulow, who has a contract calling for 40 per cent of Max's net earnings, and Joe Jacobs, Billy McCarney and Charley Rose, who purchased pieces of Max from Bulow, but other impresarios are said to sunk their talons into the German fighter in one way or another.

Max vows he will work only for Jacobs and McCarney, and that if the commission rules unfavorably, he will loaf until his original contract with Bulow runs out, eighteen months hence. Since the rules of the commission allow a manager no more than 33 1-3 per cent of a boxers earnings, it would seem that the logical thing for the commission to do would be to cut Bulow's rake-off from two-fifths to one-third, tell the managers who bought minority interests in the boxer from Bulow to look to the latter or the law courts for reimbursement, and let Schemeling fight here under Bulow's management or not at all as he sees fit. A contract is still a contract, even when it is entered into between parties affiliated with professional boxing. But that settlement probably would be too simple to satisfy the boxing commission, which seems to have a weakness for complications.

BALL WINNER IN CITY CLUB FEATURE

Defeats Coveleskie to Even Old Score in Best Bout.

STEWART BALL avenged an earlier defeat when he won a judge's decision over Leo Coveleskie, ace lightweight of the Knights of Columbus, in an extra-round bout, the feature of an amateur program last night at the City Club. It was fitting that this, a "grudge" fight, should be won by the boy seeking to even an old score, but the decision was not unanimously favored by the audience.

City Club boxers competed in six of the eight bouts on the card and emerged victorious in five. Two other victories went to representatives of the Knights of Columbus, while another was taken by Enoch Totten, of Devitt Prep School.

Joe Lesser, captain of the G street leather pushers, obliged City Club fans with another of his copyrighted first-round victories, scoring by a technical-knockout over Florentine Colabia, announced as the amateur bantamweight champion of Detroit.

Clark, Soldier, Knocked Out By Beckett in First Round.

One other knockout developed in the show, which as a whole was not outstanding with color or excitement. Soldier Howard Clark, of Fort Washington, stuck his chin in the way of the strong right hand of George Beckett, K. of C., in the first round and was promtly deposited on his back for the count.

Ball plainly showed that he had no love for Coveleskie, whaling away viciously at the Casey lad from the opening bell. The fact that he was so willing to trade punches possibly accounted for the decision in his favor, but it seemed that Coveleskie was the better boxer.

After an even first round, this pair opened up in a slugging exchange in the second round with Coveleskie landing many lefts to the face and Ball throwing both fists into the body. They continued similarly in the third round, although Coveleskie appeared to be the fresher at the bell.

Lesser Gains 36th Victory With Easy Knockout.

With the decision hinging on the result of the extra stanza, Ball gave everything he had in a volley of body blows and had Coveleskie in distress once or twice.

Lesser registered his thirty-sixth straight victory in two and a half years of boxing in stopping Colabia. It was probably one of the easiest bouts Joe has ever had. Colabia's weak showing spoke poorly for the caliber of amateur fighting in Detroit where he is said to have ruled over the Ford City's 118-pounders.

The Clark-Becket bout would have brought the fans to their feet had Clark been able to maintain the terrific assault with which he started. But before anybody could arise Clark

School Teams In Feature Battle

Goldblatt and Cappelli Lead Title Seekers Into Vital Fray.

Eastern Is Improved; Western and Central Open Twin Bill.

THE burden of halting the steady march of the Tech High School Team to the interscholastic basket ball championship today devolves upon the ambitious exponents of the sport at Eastern High School and on the result of the battle between these two teams hinges the probable outcome of the series.

The game, the second of the usual double-headers played at the Tech High Gymnasium, completely overshadows the battle between Western and Central starting at 3:15 o'clock. Eastern, trailing the unbeaten Tech team, with three victories and one defeat, can deadlock the lead today by a victory, while a defeat for Eastern today will give Tech a well-nigh unassailable lead in the series and grip on the championship for the first time in almost a decade during which period Eastern and Central have shared the titles.

Eastern supporters anticipate today's game with high hopes. They point to the fact that Eastern has improved rapidly since its debut in the series in which it lost to Tech and that Tech in gaining its four victories in the first half of the series was able to win all four games by a total margin of only twelve points.

Goldblatt-Cappelli Duel Looms As Supplementary Feature.

The Tech "zone defense," which baffled virtually every team in the first half of the series, is the obstacle to be overcome by Eastern today, but Coach Sanborn, of the latter school, has dwelt long on the penetration of such a defense and made wholesale changes in his line-up that have reacted favorably both on Eastern's attack and defense.

The Tech-Eastern game provides a tasty supplementary feature in the battle of Ted Cappelli, Eastern captain, and JJakie Goldblatt, Tech leader, for individual scoring honors. Cappelli last week supplanted Goldblatt in the lead but holds only a seven-point margin over the big Tech center whose play has been the individual feature of the series to date.

Tech and Eastern will be looking to Goldblatt and Cappelli respectively for prominent parts in anticipated victories. Both have established themselves as opportunists, prone to respond when points mean victory.

Many Shifts in Line-Ups; Western Nurses Hope.

Eastern has shown more improvement than Tech in recent games, Coach Sanborn has hit upon a combination in Cappelli and Ryan, forwards; Robery center, and McCullough and Woods, guards, which has performed in pleasing fashion. In addition, Sanborn boasts a wealth of capable substitutes and Eastern is probably better fortified in this respect than any team in the series.

Coach Artie Boyd, of Tech, may shift Capt. Goldblatt to guard in today's game and insert Bradley Edelblut at center. Paul Brown will play the other guard with McCartee and Johnson at forwards. Tech has gratified its supporters by the manner in which it has snatched victories from seeming defeat and demonstrated itself the most spirited team in the series.

Slim hopes of Western to figure in the championship also will be carried by Eastern today. Western, in third place with two losses against two defeats, still can figure in the running if it defeats Central today and Eastern takes the measure of Tech. Central, in the throes of its worst season in the career of Coach Bert Coggins, has yet to win a game and is the under dog today in its clash with Western.

Lewis Starts Comeback By Victory Over Gardini

New York, Jan. 21 (U.P.).—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, former world's wrestling champion, started his comeback campaign in Madison Square Garden tonight by throwing Renato Gardini, Italian idol, before about 8,000 fans in a finish bout. The fall came after 44:41 of interesting wrestling.

The pair put on a fast bout with first one then the other taking the upper hand. Lewis subjected the Italian to some cruel punishment with repeated flying mares. The Italian, however, gave the crowd some interesting moments when he took the aggressive and it appeared as if he was primed for a fall. Lifting Lewis bodily he would throw him to the canvas, to the cheers of the crowd.

Lewis' advantage of 34 pounds in weight finally wore the Italian down and the strangler pinned him with a series of headlocks. Gardini weighed 196. Lewis 230.

LANGFORD BACK TO COAST.

Elton H. "Sam" Langford, center fielder for the Cleveland Indians for the greater part of last season, has been turned over to San Francisco as part payment for Earl Averill.

PROBE OF STATE FEES OF MARYLAND TRACKS URGED

Racing Body Lax, Charges Ex-Official

Fifteen Per Cent Tax Evaded Falsely by Tracks, Accusation.

House Delegates Not Ready for Probe Yet, Is Declaration.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 21.—To the list of investigations of State departments being planned or suggested for the general assembly members of the legislature are being urged to add a probe into the affairs of the State Racing Commission, it was learned today.

The basis for such an investigation would be charges that the race tracks in the State do not pay the amount of taxes which the law provides should be collected from them.

W. Bradley Carr, former chief inspector for the racing commission and long embroiled in disputes with the commission over its control of the tracks, is said to be leading the movement for the investigation.

Leaders of both Democratic factions in the house of delegates who have been approached declared today they are not yet ready to sponsor such an investigation.

Witnesses and Information At Hand, Is Report.

Mr. Carr, it was learned, is ready to supply all the information necessary to begin the investigation and to name witnesses whom he thinks should be summoned. It is his hope, as expressed to the legislators he has approached, to name an investigating committee separate from the standing grand inquest committee of the house, which, with the similar committee from the senate, is to delve into the affairs of the State Roads Commission.

For the racing investigation Mr. Carr has suggested a committee made up of Fendall Marbury, of the Second Legislative District; George L. Edmonds, of Montgomery County; Lawrence P. Williams, of St. Marys County; Yewell W. Dillehunt, of the Fifth Legislative District; Joseph E. Joy, of Calvert County; J. Milton Patterson, of Allegany County, and W. Scott Corbett, of Washington County.

Former Commissioner Charges Group Is Lax in Control.

Since he left the racing commission two years ago Mr. Carr has insisted that the body is lax in its control of the tracks and that there are instances in which the track managements evade the 15 per cent State tax by including in permitted and tax free expenses amounts on which the tax should be paid.

Members of the proposed investigating committee said that they had not been approached regarding the move against the racing commission, and one of them, Mr. Marbury, said: "Nobody has said anything to me about such an investigation. I don't know anything about it and in addition I don't know of anything in the racing commission that needs an investigation."

EL RELICARIO, quick to find his stride, drew out into a winning lead the first furlong and won with speed to spare. WOODY LONG broke well from the outside, bore in and finished next to the inner rail, but continued to improve his position and outlasted CATADOS. Later outbroke the field and ran straight and true all the way. BLIND PAL had no mishaps. GOTTA GONOW, crowded back at start, closed a big gap. PLAY BALL acted greenly at barrier and broke slowly. PANGUITCH suffered some interference and went greenly. PONDER was eased up when beaten.

SECOND RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,000. The Try Again. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start poor. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 3:02. Off at 3:06. Winner, S. J. Judge's ch. g. (4), by Ormont—Thunder Bird. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48, 1:06 1-5.

Overweight—SEWING HOUR (2).

ORMONBIRD, away slowly, gradually improved his position on the outside and wore leaders down in final fifty yards, to win going strongest of all. OUR OWN displayed keen speed from a tardy send-off and opened up a good lead rounding the turn, but weakened in the final furlong. EPHASIAN, a forward contender throughout, made a game bid entering stretch, but went lame and faltered when the final test came. SEWING HOUR closed a big gap from a slow beginning. FAIR NET showed a flash of speed.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won easily. Place same. Went to post at 3:33. Off at 3:34. Winner, J. M. Collins' b. g. Overweights—SPECIAL (2), MARGATE (2).

SON AMI raced STUART'S DRAFT into submission the first half-mile and then drew out into a winning lead to win mildly urged. MARGATE outpassed the early stages, closed with a rush after straightening in the stretch and disposed of RAINSTORM. Latter moved forwardly with a rush on the stretch turn, but weakened in the final eighth. STUART'S DRAFT showed early speed, but weakened through stretch. BLUE GRANITE was unable to improve his position.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,000. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good for all but MUM RUFFIN. Won easily. Place same. Went to post at 4:05. Off at 4:08. Overweight—SETH'S STRANGER (5), CHOIR INVISIBLE (4).

CAPORAL II outclassed his field and opened up a commanding lead at his leisure, was placed under intermittent punishment entering the stretch, but won as his rider pleased. WHIZZING CLOUD moved up fast rounding the turn and easily disposed of the others. LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE broke well, but was crowded back the first sixteenth, slipped through on the inside thereafter and outgamed VOLSEL in the final drive. The latter hung when the final test came.

FIFTH RACE—One mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,000. The Greater Miami. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good and fast. Won easily. Place same. Went to post at 4:29. Off at once. Winner, R. COPIAPO outbroke his field, but was rushed to the first turn where he drew clear, was rated in front thereafter to dispose of LOW GEAR after going six furlongs and won in hand. LOW GEAR, never far behind winner in early stages, made a courageous bid rounding the last turn, but faltered in the final furlong. JOE MARRONE III outpaced until the final quarter, while, closed stoutly and outstayed SERAJEVO. The latter, away slowly and forced to race extremely wide entire trip, hung through the stretch. BLACK FRIAR retired the final quarter mile.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000. For 4-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won easily. Place driving. Went to post at 4:56. Off at 4:57. Winner, H. Haymaker's b. s. Overweight—BATTLE SHOT (2), COPPER DEMON (4), NORTHLAND (2), MASCARA (2).

NORTHLAND opened up a winning lead first three furlongs and was rated in front thereafter, winning as his rider pleased. MASCARA worked her way forwardly on the inside first six furlongs and, coming to the outside of DENNY COONEY after entering the stretch, outlasted him in the final drive. Latter, nearest in pursuit of the leader all the way, faltered the last furlong. GOLDEN LUX and PRIG finished going stoutly. JUNIOR'S NURSE was badly outpaced throughout.

FLASHY HOPKINS FIVE TESTS GEORGETOWN TONIGHT

Ripley Shifts Line-Ups at Hilltop

Shea Likely to Start in Place of Dunn at Forward.

Invaders Boast Trio of Stars in Debuskey, Jung, Pasarew.

THE Georgetown University five tonight will have another tough nut to crack in order to keep adding to its victory list when it engages the Johns Hopkins quintet of Baltimore in the American University gymnasium, starting at 8:30 o'clock. The visiting Blue Jays upset Maryland last week and g e promise of extending the powerful Hoyas to the limit.

It is quite likely that Bill Shea, the hustling forward who entered the Georgetown-Penn State tussle last Friday just t time to touch off the fireworks that characterized the Hoyas' late but winning rally, will be seen tonight in the starting line-up. If he does he will replace Johnny Dunn and pair up with Don Dutton, the versatile star who can ably handle himself as either forward, center or guard.

Heroes of Rally Against Lions Loom as Starting Line-Up.

With Dutton "up front" Coach Ripley will assign the center post to Paul Dillon again, while Capt. Freddy Mesmer and Maurice McCarthy will do back court duty. Should the Hoya mentor decide to change the tap-off assignment and give the call there to Dutton, Ha Meenan, the scrappy red-head who held down a regular guard job earlier in the season, will move into the vacant forward position.

The combination of Shea, Meenan, Dutton, Mesmer and McCarthy was the one which staged the winning drive against Penn State, and what was accomplished by this quintet still remains fresh in Ripley's mind.

Hopkins will exhibit three unusually clever point scorers in Debuskey, center, and Jung and Pasarew, forwards, who will bear close watching by the Hoya defense. D buskey is the Blue Jay mainstay on attack and makes full use of his height, speed and accurate eyes at all times. Pasarew presses him closely for the honors on the offense, while Jung concedes but little to either of his mates.

Georgetown May Accept Late Game With St. John's.

Taking care of the guarding role for Hopkins will be Lang and Horst, said to be a pair of human court plasters when it comes to sticking closely to their adversaries on defense. At that, they probably have nothing on Mesmer of Georgetown, who, the boys say, keeps such close watch on "his man" that the latter can not bat an eyelash without being detected.

In a preliminary attraction the undefeated Georgetown freshmen will meet the Bliss Electrical School dribblers, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Geroge town is considering a proposal from St. John's, of Annapolis, for a game late in the season. The cadet quintet is one of the strongest in this section of the country and it would not surprise if the Hilltop team, which doesn't wish to avoid meeting the best, takes the Johnnies on.

Y. M. C. A. PASSERS WIN.

While the Woltz Five idled last night, the Y. M. C. A. Quintet caught up to the Photographers in the Washington City Amateur League by winning over the Company C Five of the District National Guards, 44 to 14, in the Central gymnasium. A tie for top honors now exists between the Woltz and Y Tossers. The latter will have a chance to forge ahead on Thursday when it engages the W. H. West Co. Five in the only league game for the remainder of the week.

Due to a canceled game by the St. Martins, the Twin Oaks Seniors are without an opponent for tonight. Manager Young can be reached for a game at Main 5970 or Adams 9777 today.

Suburban Fives Lining Up To Offer Keen Fight for Honors in Post's Tourney

SUBURBAN teams are prepared to offer stubborn competition for honors in the South Atlantic basket ball tournament to be sponsored by The Washington Post this year for the third successive season in cooperation with A. A. U. officials. The tournament, starting March 11, promises to draw heavily from sections in nearby Maryland and Virginia which foster basket ball teams that long have challenged the supremacy of Washington quintets.

Owing to the enlarged scope of the Washington division of the tournament, all amateur teams within a radius of 50 miles of the city are eligible to compete as in former seasons. Thus fast-traveling quintets from Hyattsville, Alexandria, Fredericksburg, Takoma Park, Silver Spring, McLean, Fort Myer, Fort Washington, Quantico, Washington Grove, and other environs of the Capital will be bent upon waging a battle with Washington teams for tournament honors and the gold medals to be presented to the victors.

All of these communities were represented in the tournament last season and played an important part in the final disposition of honors. Hyattsville's National Guard Teams and quintets in the midget class especially figured prominently in the distribution of titles.

District Organizations Giving Whole-Hearted Support.

The tournament this year has gained the whole-hearted support of virtually every organization in the District that fosters the court game. The Community Center League, with more than a score of teams, is prepared to enter a sizable list of contenders, as is the Boys Club in the smaller classes, the Jewish Community Center, and the men's and boys' Y. M. C. A.'s. Early indications point to a history-making tournament for Washington with a minimum of 100 teams expected.

The teams who win the titles in the respective weight classes of the Washington tournament will be officially recognized as the titleholders of the District in these classes. The winners of the Washington finals will be pitted against the winners of the Baltimore tournament in the final contests for the South Atlantic titles. Washington will be the scene of at least half of the final games for the South Atlantic championships.

The Post, aided by the Washington tournament committee, composed of Charles E. Beckett, physical director of the Y. M. C. A.; Manny Goldfarb, of the Jewish Community Center, and Winfree Johnson, athletic director of the Department of Public Parks, plans a strict supervision of the tournament. A fine commentary on the successful conduct of the tournament was noted last year when only one protest was registered in the playing of the 70 games at the Arcadia.

Only Bona Fide Teams May Compete in Tourney.

In keeping with the strict policy of barring fly-by-night clubs and professional athletes, only strictly amateur teams are eligible for the tournament. Bona fide clubs must prove their eligibility by exhibiting scores of games published in The Washington Post prior to February 15.

To eliminate unjustifiable handicaps, the tournament is divided into five weight divisions, precluding the possibility that teams will meet opponents physically superior. Competition will be held in the 100-pound, 115-pound, 130-pound, 145-pound and unlimited classes, as has been the program of the tournament under The Post's auspices for the past two years. Play in the girls' division of the tournament will be held only in the unlimited class. The girls' division is being revived in Washington this year because of the growing interest in the game evidenced among the teams in Washington.

Entry blanks for the tournament will be available at The Post sports department next Friday, when members of The Post sports staff will be ready to accept entries and A. A. U. registration applications. All players on the team must be registered with the A. A. U., if not already members.

FRENCHIES RALLY TO WIN.

The Frenchy Tossers journeyed to Hyattsville last night and defeated the Hyattsville Arcadians, 17 to 16. At the end of the third quarter the home team was leading, 16 to 10, but the Frenchies suddenly uncorked a rally, while holding the Arcadians scoreless. A 2-pointer from near midcourt, in the last half minute of play, by Holland gave the Frenchies the decision.

Basketball Shots

By TED VOSBURGH
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

COACH ED KELLEHER'S great Fordham Varsity Basket Ball Five, victor over such teams as Yale, Princeton, Colgate and Syracuse, has a record of never having started a game.

All five of the first stringers are seniors and they have played together every season for four years, but they do their playing in the last three quarters of the game. For the first few minutes they watch the shock troops work.

"I believe I was the first to apply the two-team idea in basket ball," said the genial Kelleher, who learned the game as a member of the Niagara University Team back around 1910. "Anyway, I have made a practice of starting my second team in every game for the four years I have been coach. I do it in all games, hard or soft. It seems to be an important factor in winning, in addition to having the advantage of getting more men into the play.

Fordham's Success Due to Style of Play.

"With my regulars on the bench they are able to size up the other team pretty thoroughly and see just what they should do when they get in there. Little damage is usually done in the first part of a game anyway and the seconds ordinarily leave only a couple of points behind.

"Then, too, there's a psychological advantage. Boys of college age are impressionable and there is bound to be a disturbing effect upon the opposing players when a fresh varsity comes prancing onto the floor after they have had a hard time holding the seconds.

"The system has a good effect on our confidence and experience so that a year or so later they will be ready for varsity play."

Pushing Regulars Into Action Has Psychological Effect.

Kelleher's present big five which at the time of writing had reeled off its first nine games without a defeat, was his freshman team four years ago and did shock troop duty the next season before winning the varsity assignment last year.

Its members are fairly tall, Sweetman, the center, and Landers, left forward, being more than 6 feet. All five are built for speed without being willowy or fragile.

"In Dougherty, the captain, I have one of the fastest running guards I have ever seen," said Kelleher. "He shoots with either hand. Reardon, the other guard, who is sent into scoring territory only a couple of times in a game, is the fastest man on the team, so that his presence around midcourt while we are in possession of the ball is a constant threat."

A big factor in the making of the Fordham team's sensational early season sweep was the set of tactical weapons placed in its hands by Kelleher.

Forwards Come in Fast and Are in Air on Tap-Off.

He uses a five-man defense which is air-tight, the men falling back immediately after losing possession of the ball.

When the ba s in their own hands four men are well down in enemy territory while the standing guard is at midfloor.

"My offensive starts from back court," Kelleher explained. "The two forwards come in fast and both are in the air when the ball is tipped. The forward getting the ball passes it back to one of the guards and the attack begins from there.

"The center and the guards are near the middle of the floor and the forwards nearer the basket at the sides. Under my system three men always cut at once."

The offensive outlined is a five-man attack, as the standing guard is its starting point and is always near enough to the basket to be dangerous, a kind of suspended two-edged sword.

GAME AT SEMINARY.

Gallaudet College will play the National Park Seminary Six Saturday afternoon in the National Park Gymnasium. The Gallaudet girls opened the season last Saturday with a victory over the Eastman squad.

GALLAUDET VS. AMERICAN.

It was announced at the American University yesterday that the first outside basket ball game of the season for the school will be played on February 16 with Gallaudet as the opponent. At present the A. U. girls are preparing for a demonstration which will be held at the end of the indoor season. The interclass basket ball tourney will be held in March.

BASKETEERS TRIUMPH, 37-3.

The Basketeers, with Durham, Jolliff, and Hayden figuring prominently, scored over the Capital Sextet last night, 37 to 30, in a well played game in the Calvary M. E. gymnasium. Hoffman played a steady floor game for the losers, despite the fact that Irwin totaled 25 points. The Basketeers led, 16 to 12 at the half.

EASTERN FIVE VICTOR OVER ST. JOHN'S

Regular Quintet Routs Cadets, 31-17, After Reserves Start.

USING two substitute combinations and then inserting his regular team, Coach Sanborn pulled a "Rockne" on the St. John's Basket Ball Team yesterday as his Eastern Quintet defeated the Cadets, 31 to 17, in the Eastern Gymnasium.

Sanborn's first combination comprised Fisher, Harrell, Kelso, Shirley and Zahn and this quintet performed long enough to present a slim lead to the second reserve team which comprised Cole, Wade, Noonan, Shapiro and Hage. St. John's kept the pace, however, and trailed only 12 to 11 at the half, but after the Eastern regulars were inserted into the fray—Cappelli, Ryan, Phillips, McCullough and Wood—the Cadets steadily fell behind as the game approached a rout.

Jimmy Ryan, one of the regulars proved to be the scoring ace of the day with three field goals and a foul toss for 7 points while it was Noonan, of the "second combination," who ranked next to Ryan for scoring honors. Noonan collected three baskets for 6 points.

Gallagher Stars for Johnnies With 2 Regulars Absent.

"Buddy" Gallagher once more upheld the St. John's cause by playing an exceptional floor game in scoring 6 points to lead his team. Atchison and Lucas, the latter reinstated yesterday after being placed on the ineligibility list last week, played strong games for the Cadets. The team was handicapped by the absence of Slagle and Hudson, center and forward respectively, who are idle because of illness.

J. C. C. Flashes Register 18th Straight Victory

The J. C. C. Flashes, in the 130-pound class, won their eighteenth straight game of the season yesterday when they defeated the Tech Cosmopolitans, comprised of Tech lightweight players and ineligibles, 54 to 21 in the Center gymnasium. Understein and Goldberg played best for the Flashes.

The Flashes by their excellent season to date, have received an offer to play a game at Lawrence, Mass., with the Lawrence Boys Club Quintet there. Arrangements for the game are now in progress which will probably be played early next month.

The Lawrence team invites an out-of-town opponent every year and last year engaged and defeated a team from Chicago. The Massachusetts performers have not been beaten in four years. To match this record somewhat, the Flashes point to their present winning streak which has included victories over the Raven and Mondamnin clubs of Baltimore; Boys Club

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

By ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.
The Parent Counselor.

What's in a Name?

EVERYTHING. And nothing.

Everything because a well chosen name is of immense help in providing an "it." Nothing for the reason that thousands of people have succeeded in love, life, finances, authorship, and all creative work without a striking name.

A mother writes me, "What shall I name the baby?" Bless her heart, I don't know. If Aunt Jane presents the infant with a five dollar gold piece I suspect we must call it Jane. (I say "it" because mother has not given me any idea whether it is a boy or a girl.)

If a grandma on the mother's side welcomes the child more than the grandma on the father's side, we may obligingly dig out a name from the family Bible accordingly.

If the mother has recently read some novel in which Selma or Thelma was the heroine, then the youngster is already named—providing it is a girl.

If father is so proud of his name that it must be passed on, then it's obvious that "Junior" just fits.

We all forget, mother, one thing: A child's name belongs to the child himself. He or she is the one who has to carry it around with him or her and not grandmas, grandpas or Aunt Janes. Getting five dollars for the sake of having auntie's name perpetuated is too cheap a price to pay for a possible handicap.

Nothing like having names to fit people for what they are to do. Imagine dignified George Washington being called Abe, or Big Bill Thompson, of Chicago, with the first name of Perdie, or Calvin Coolidge being changed over to Jimmie, or Jimmie Walker getting along with Calvin for a first name, or Al Hoover exchanged for Herbert Smith.

But this "it" may be a girl. Later in life, supposing she is rather insipid appearing, do you suppose that a Dante would be interested in her if she were called Beatrice? Or imagine her stately and very prepossessing and being called Rosie. Or think of her with the name Thelma tacked on—that beautiful Norse name—and the girl herself a flat tire.

No, no, no! It is a pity we can not name the boy or girl after they have grown up. But the law insists that we register a name, a place, and a date at a birth.

So let's pick out a name to which the child will be obliged to live up. Instead of hitching our wagon to a star we often find it hitched to a name. So let's be careful.

If we want our girl to be a Beatrice we may call her that and then we must work and pray that she reach to its significance.

If for our boy we want the dignity and honesty of a Calvin, we must work diligently to make our boy of this type.

Tomorrow—A Letter to the Boy (assuming it is a boy).

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER.

Kissing for Respect.

What should I do when a fellow asks for or takes a kiss after he has taken me to a party? When I discuss the matter, most of the boys say, "Well, if I didn't respect and like a girl I wouldn't kiss her."

SIXTEEN PLUS.

Answer—You must remember that boys are very clever and full of camouflage. Their desires are smoke-screened by a peculiar and often false logic. "If I didn't respect and like a girl I wouldn't kiss her" is an illustration. This question is discussed in my free instruction leaflet, entitled "Necking" (terrible word), which is sent when request is accompanied by a stamped return envelope.

A Recommendation, Indeed.

As a P.-T. A. president I constantly refer in my talks to "Your Boy and Your Girl" articles. In parental education you are rendering a very real service, for you are assisting those who have immediate problems, and you are helping to bring about a mutual understanding between parent and child. The direct help you give to young people is splendid. GRATEFUL.

Answer—Thus the lady sizes up the ideal behind my service.

Just what problem faces you, father or mother, boy or girl? Please write it out, and do not use a lot of words, because it takes a long time to read a long letter. Send it to me and just see if one of my instruction sheets isn't Johnny-on-the-spot.

I receive hundreds of letters inquiring how to purchase my whole set, consisting of over 200 leaflets. They are not for sale in a job lot. They are free when asked for singly or in couples. An extra 2-cent stamp will bring you a quartet.

Remember that behind this column there is a real, very real, service bureau, paid for by this newspaper, which does its best to answer any and every problem which comes up in the life of a mother dealing with her child, of a father dealing with his son, and of young folks who have to deal themselves with the problems of life.

Curb Review

New York, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—The curb market displayed none of the uneasiness over the credit situation that affected the stock market today, and scores of issues rose to new high levels on a wave of buying. Utilities rode the crest, but virtually every other group was carried along, although automotive shares were somewhat slow to move.

There was little in the news to influence the market and the acquisition of utilities apparently was based on expectation of further mergers and organization of holding companies in this field. While some profit-taking near the close caused a few recessions, most issues held their gains, and final prices were about the best of the day.

Electric Bond & Share was one of the many features, soaring 8 points, to a new high, at 201½, and holding most of the gain. American Commonwealth Power B, Buffalo, Niagara & Eastern Power A, American Superpower A and B, Electric Investors, Northern States Power A, Southeastern Power & Light certificates, United Light & Power A, and Pennsylvania Power & Light preferred were among the utilities to invade new high ground with net gains running 4 points or better.

Aluminum Co. of America was one of the strong issues in the industrial list, establishing a new peak, at 174, up 13 points, and recovering all lost ground after breaking to 166.

NATIONAL TRUST CO. INCREASES SURPLUS

Fund Is Swelled to $2,500,000 by Transfer of $500,000 Undivided Profits.

RIGGS STOCK AT NEW TOP

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Directors of the National Savings & Trust Co., meeting in annual session late yesterday at the bank, voted to transfer $500,000 from undivided profits to surplus account, bringing the total earned surplus of the company to $2,500,000.

President William D. Hoover reported the best year in the history of the bank. The directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent and, in addition, an extra dividend of 5 per cent. Extra compensation was voted employes in recognition of services rendered.

Incorporated January 22, 1867, just 62 years ago, the bank is reputed to be the oldest savings institution in the city. It is capitalized at $1,000,000, and December 31, the date of the last bank call, reported deposits of $13,245,929.40, and resources of $17,191,246.10.

Directors reelected were James J. Becker, Woodbury Blair, William A. H. Church, Walter C. Clephane, H. Rozier Dulaney, jr., Franklin H. Ellis, H. Prescott Gatley, William D. Hoover, Walter B. Howe, Reginald S. Huidekoper, Victor Kauffmann, Edmund D. Rheem, Frank Stetson, Frank W. Stone, William H. Walker, William B. Willard and Harley P. Wilson.

Following the shareholders' session, the directors met and elected the following officers:: William D. Hoover, president; Woodbury Blair, first vice president; Frank W. Stone, second vice president; Frank Stetson, trust officer; Charles C. Lamborn, treasurer; E. Percival Wilson, secretary; Frank R. Ullner, John W. Calvert and W. Hiles Pardoe, assistant treasurers; Bruce Baird and David Bornet, assistant trust officers; A. J. Fant and John M. Botelер, assistant secretaries, and Audley A. P. Savage, auditor.

Bank Organizations Active.

Local banking organizations will be unusually active this week.

Tonight the educational committee of the Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, will meet at the Raleigh Hotel with the board of governors and board of consuls of the chapter, to talk over plans preliminary to the opening of second semester courses January 29. Harold Stonier, educational director of the institute, and James A. Soper, president of the chapter, will speak.

H. Parker Willis, editor of the Journal of Commerce, authority on the Federal Reserve act and one of the country's leading students of the money situation, will address the midwinter meeting of the District of Columbia Bankers Association tomorrow night at the Willard.

Another event of unique interest scheduled for tomorrow night is the speed contest to determine the fastest adding machine operator in Washington banks, which will be held at 7:30 o'clock in the Becker Building, under the auspices of the Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking. A first prize of $15, and runner-up prizes of $10 and $5 are offered.

Thursday night directors of the Chevy Chase Savings Bank will tender a dinner in honor of Dr. F. E. Farrington, president, at the Columbia Country Club. Thursday afternoon the new safe deposit section of the District Bankers Association will meet at headquarters. A meeting of the Bank Women's Club of Washington is scheduled for Friday.

Note Circulation to Continue.

National Bank currency, condemned to retirement under the original interpretation of the Federal Reserve act, may be continued indefinitely in circulation, it was inferred yesterday from letters addressed by Secretary Mellon to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

"The question has received the thorough study and consideration of this department, and I have concluded that it would be inadvisable to submit to Congress at this time a program looking to early retirement of our National Bank note circulation," the Secretary stated in the letters, which were made public at the Treasury Department.

"Accordingly, when the new-size paper currency is issued, on or about July 1, 1929, the Treasury Department will be prepared shortly thereafter to make available National Bank notes in the reduced size."

Directors Are Reelected

Stockholders of the Mortgage Investment Co., Inc., of this city, have reelected the following nine members to their board of directors: John N. Auth, J. Rozier Biggs, Harry R. Carroll, A. S. Gardiner, Harry S. Lewis, William Neuland, E. W. Petherbridge, Ivan K. Strasburger and Ernest G. Walker.

At the organization meeting of the directors which followed, officers were reelected as follows: A. S. Gardiner, president; Harry R. Carroll and William Neuland, vice presidents; J. Rozier Biggs, treasurer; Frank A. Spicer, secretary.

Incorporated under the laws of Delaware in August, 1923, the company has since dealt exclusively in real estate and mortgages. It has paid 8 percent per annum on the preferred stock of the company, since its inception.

Expansion in Coal Fields

Steady expansion in the coal fields of Virginia and West Virginia is playing no small part in the continued improvement in business conditions in the Fifth Federal Reserve District, of which Washington is a part.

Reports from the district show that not only are the mines working at a good rate, but coal dumpings at Hampton Roads are above the average, and shipping from that port has taken a jump in recent months.

Decreased sales in department stores is said to reflect unseasonable weather throughout the district. The open winter, however, is reported to be materially helping the employment situation.

Plans calling for the expenditure of $15,000,000 in two years by the Virginia Electric and Power Co. were announced last week. The project includes a 25,000-kilowatt hydroelectric plant on Roanoke River.

Riggs National Stock Moves Up.

Riggs National Bank stock moved up a point to 581, a new high for all time, in trading on the Washington Stock Exchange yesterday. The stock opened at 580, and 22 shares changed hands at that price. Thirty-four shares traded at 581.

Capital Traction, which moved to 107¼, registered a new high for the year. Gains were recorded in Lanston Monotype, which advanced to 121; Potomac Electric 5½ per cent preferred, to 108¾; American Security & Trust Co., to 465; Fireman's Insurance Co., to 40. Strength was also shown in Columbia Sand & Gravel Co. preferred at 93¾; Merchants Transfer & Storage Co., at 108½; Terminal Refrigerating & Warehousing Corporation, at 52.

Only one transaction was recorded in the bond division, where $1,000 Georgetown Gas 5s were traded at 102½.

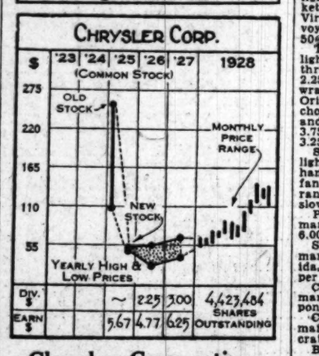
What's Behind Your Stock



Chrysler Corporation.

Already indicated to be in third place in American automobile industry, Chrysler Corporation, with the addition of Dodge, fully attains this position. Successor to the combined business of the former Maxwell Motor Co. and Chalmers Motor Corporation, the company has made notable progress. Its four and six cylinder cars, and also the new "De Soto," are well received by the public.

A consistent policy of expansion has been followed, there being $21,112,000 spent on the property in the three years to 1927, with depreciation charges in the same period of about two-thirds of that amount.

The combined net earnings of Chrysler and Dodge have been stated as $38,780,000 in 1926 and $29,835,000 in 1927. Chrysler earnings alone in 1927 were $19,841,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Uneasiness about likelihood of crop damage resulting from widespread severe cold predicted for domestic winter wheat territory did much to enhance wheat values today. A good deal of notice was also taken of the fact that a big decrease of 3,519,000 bushels today in the United States wheat visible supply total is nearly 1,000,000 bushels in excess of the falling off year ago.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, at the day's topmost figures, 1 cent to 1⅝ cents and 1½ cents over Saturday's' finish. Corn closed ⅛ cents to 1 cent up, oats ¼ cent to ⅝ cent advance, and provisions varying from a shade decline to a rise of 7 cents.

Interest concerning the outlook for the 1929 wheat crop in this country was decidedly more evident today than has been the rule prior to this time. One reason given, aside from forecasts of a cold wave which threatens to catch many fields unprotected, was that the Liverpool wheat market is showing unlooked-for strength, coupled with authoritative assertions that because of relative low prices an extraordinary disappearance of bread grain the world over has taken place this season. Reports were also circulated that speculators everywhere are anticipating reduced supplies in producing countries toward the end of the season.

Advices of subnormal snowfall in Canada and prospects of substantial abandonment of winter wheat acreage in the United States this spring were given further significance by word today that stocks of wheat on farms in Great Britain are 6,000,000 bushels less than last spring. Besides, curtailed production of wheat in Spain is such as to require estimated import needs of 30,000,000 to 40,000,000 bushels. Friends of higher prices laid stress also on the circumstance that today's striking decrease of the United States wheat visible supply was in spite of the fact that export clearances were of only negligible amount.

Corn was weak much of the day, but ran into buying orders on the price setbacks and became stronger toward the close. Argentina weather was clear and hot, and further corn crop damage reports were received, together with a private estimate making the 1929 Argentina crop 180,000,000 bushels, about 125,000,000 bushels under last year's harvest. Meanwhile a Government report from Washington showed 3 per cent more cattle on feed in eleven corn belt States than last year. On the other hand the United States corn visible supply total increased 1,974,000 bushels for the week, and Chicago receipts of corn today were of liberal volume, 583 cars. Oats were unsettled, owing to sympathy with other grain. Provisions were under pressure of hedging sales in lard, but commission houses bought on resting orders.

HELP—MALE & FEMALE

An Unusual Opportunity

Selection of the route for Lee Boulevard, the new 200-foot wide superhighway, has aroused keen public interest in real estate opportunities along this new thoroughfare. "Brandon Village" is the first tract of land near Lee Boulevard to be subdivided into home sites and business property.

This Ruby Lee Minar, Inc., development in Arlington County offers you a wonderful opportunity to make BIG MONEY in 1929.

Free Training Given

In our 1929 program we require twenty more capable and earnest men and women to assist in the sale of this unusual property. If you are inexperienced, you will be given free training and assistance in closing your sales. You have the opportunity of adding to your present income while learning. More than $200,000 worth of home sites already sold in the first section of Brandon Village. For full particulars, call at 1405 New York avenue and ask for sales manager.

DISTRICT SURPLUS NOT TO LOWER TAX, CITY HEADS CLAIM

Utilization of Fund Expected for Projects Set Forth in Congressiona' Bills.

APPROVAL ANTICIPATED FOR MUNICIPAL CENTER

Simmons Obtained Submission of Alternate Supplementary Items by Leaders.

The several-million-dollar surplus piled up by the District will not mean a reduction in the present District tax rate of $1.70, District officials said yesterday.

The program which the Commissioners have laid down for the general guidance contemplates the expenditure of all of the moneys produced by the existing tax rate. As the receipts go up so will the expenditures for public works, they said. This program is subject to modification under extraordinary conditions.

The Commissioners refused to comment on the House committee's report, or to discuss the disclosure of the surplus by the committee beyond the statements contained in the letter written by Commissioner Dougherty to the committee and made public in its report. That letter, the Commissioners said, covered the situation so far as they were concerned with public discussion at this time.

Expect to Use Surplus.

They did say, however, that the program of legislation which they proposed provided for utilization of a considerable part of this surplus, and, even making allowance for those projects which have not been approved, should Congress approve several items still pending, the surplus would be reduced materially.

The Commissioners are hopeful that Congress will enact the bill providing for initiation of the Municipal Center development opposite Judiciary Square. This bill calls for the purchase of the two squares immediately south of Judiciary Square at an estimated cost of $2,400,000, it was pointed out. This is in addition to the regular appropriations for the conduct of the District government.

Simmons Was Critical.

The report of the hearings on the District appropriation bill, which was made public yesterday, reveals that Chairman Simmons, of the District subcommittee of the House appropriations committee, was quite severe in his criticism of the Commissioners.

Simmons contended that while the Commissioners submitted to the Budget Bureau an original list of supplemental estimates, they did not follow this up with an alternative list when they knew that the original list would not be approved. The Budget Bureau, he said, sent word to the District Building that an alternative list would be considered, but the Commissioners failed to heed it, even though they had $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 lying idle.

Finally, at Simmons' suggestion, the Commissioners did submit an alternative list of supplemental estimates, and these were included in the appropriation bill.

Extra Items Topic Of District Heads

Supplementary Estimates to Carry on District Work Discussed.

Supplemental estimates totaling in the neighborhood of $500,000 were discussed by the District Commissioners with their department heads yesterday, preparatory to sending the estimates to the Budget Bureau for approval for enactment at the present session of Congress.

The supplemental estimates, it was said, did not include provision for any new projects, but provided for carrying on, without interruption or letdown, work now being done by the various District departments.

The Budget Bureau, of which Gen. H. M. Lord is the head, has forbidden District officials to make known what they propose, and the Commissioners and Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, reminded interrogators of that order and refused to disclose to the public just what the city executives are planning. Care of the insane, funds to board children committed to the care of the city, payment of various claims against the city and various other proposals are among the deficiency items, which range from $150,000 down to less than $1,000.

Chase Ends in Arrest Of Man on Rum Charge

Charged with a second offense of transporting and possessing liquor, Robert Duffel, 25 years old, was held in $1,500 bail for jury trial by Judge Gus A. Schuldt yesterday in Police Court. Duffel was captured by members of the police flying squadron, commanded by Sergt. George M. Little, early yesterday morning near the District line at Georgia avenue.

Sergt. Little's squad pursued a rumrunning automobile 15 miles, from Cedar Hill road northeast to Silver Spring, Md., where the occupant of the car escaped. The car containing 438 quarts of liquor, was confiscated. While returning to the District with the seizure, members of the squad sighted an automobile driven by Duffel. After a brief pursuit the car was overtaken and Duffel was taken in custody. The police said Duffel's car contained 72 gallons of liquor.

7,888 Votes Registered in Day By Girls of Pickford Contest

Four More Young Women Enter in Effort to Earn Trip to Hollywood; Chance to View Peak of Mount Lowe Offered Winner.

With contestants bringing in 7,888 votes yesterday the number cast in the contest for the free trip to Hollywood as the guest of The Washington Post and Mary Pickford totals 29,688, it was announced last night by the official tabulators.

Four new contestants registered yesterday. They are Mary Schomette, Abigail Dodge, Margaret Kirby and Frances Henny.

A large number of the candidates for the trip have exceeded the thousand mark in the number of votes polled and as the contest approaches a close a stiff battle is forecast for the winner.

As the girls begin trebling their efforts the tabulators are preparing to count thousands of votes in the few remaining days.

Entries will be received until January 29. Ballots used in the contest may be obtained in the library on the fourth floor of The Post Building. All a candidate has to do is have them filled out by her friends and acquaintances. The ballots are as follows:

The Washington Post.

I nominate Miss Blank to go to Hollywood as the guest of The Washington Post and Mary Pickford, who is now making the all-talking picture, "Coquette."

Name .....

Address .....

Telephone No..... Apt. No.....

The cards must be signed by the name and address of the writer, and if any card or address is found to be obviously fictitious, you will be immediately disqualified for the contest.

The contestants must register at the library of The Washington Post in order to enter the contest.

The girl who has the greatest number of these cards signed in her behalf, will be the winner.

Important Conditions.

There are three important conditions of the contest. First, no cards that are mailed in will be considered, but must be brought to this office by the girl in person, in packets of not less than ten at a time. Second, not more than one letter of nomination must be written by the same person. Third, contestants' cards will be received in the library of The Washington Post, each week day between 11 and 1 o'clock and 3 and 6 o'clock only.

Announcement of the winner will be made on or before February 2 and the winning contestant will be chaperoned by a woman member of The Washington Post staff and will leave Washington February 8.

The contest is open to any young woman between the ages of 18 and 25 except employes of The Washington Post and members of their families.

In case of a tie the same prize will be given each of the successful contestants.

Four Are Accused Of Beating Man

Defendants in Ambassador Raid Case and Others Ask Jury Trial.

Charged with beating a man, whom they suspected of being a police informer, William T. Deegan and his brother, Francis Deegan, who were defendants in the recent Ambassador Oyster House liquor trials, and Charles P Smith and William Gordon were haled before Judge Gus A. Schuldt in Police Court yesterday. All pleaded not guilty, demanded jury trials and were freed in $500 bail each.

The alleged assault occurred on Friday at a barber supply shop near Eighteenth street and Columbia road northwest. Alonzo Rolles, who complained against the quartet, appeared at court with his face bruised and his eyes blackened.

The Deegan brothers still face trial on the liquor charges resulting from the sensational raid on the Ambassador Oyster House last August. The first trial in October resulted in a mistrial and at the second trial last month the jury was unable to reach a verdict. Assistant District Attorneys R. F. Camalier and David A. Hart, who conducted the prosecution at the trial, declared the third trial will begin within a few weeks.

Youth Held as Burglar Under $5,000 for Jury

Charged with housebreaking and larceny, James Irwin, 19 years old, of 1501 M street northwest, was bound over to the grand jury in $5,000 bail by Judge Gus A. Schuldt yesterday in Police Court.

The youth is accused of breaking into the automobile accessory establishment of Edward Shore at Thirteenth street and New York avenue northwest recently and taking $25 from the cash register.

Civitan Club to Hear Weather Bureau Chief

Prof. Charles F. Marvin, chief of the Weather Bureau, will speak today at the luncheon at the Lafayette Hotel of the Civitan Club.

Prof. Marvin has made a study of the proposed new calendar month and will discuss that subject. Frank A. Birgfeld, president of the club, will preside.

Christy to Select College Beauties

George Washington University Coeds Compete in Campus Contest.

Howard Chandler Christy, famous portrait painter, now stopping at the Mayflower Hotel, will judge the twelve winners of the balloting in the George Washington University beauty and popularity contest for coeds, it was announced yesterday. He will select six girls as the most beautiful of the twelve.

Results of student voting for the 12 final candidates from among 25 girls nominated three weeks ago will be made public tomorrow. Approximately 1,000 votes were cast.

Among the contestants are Helen Taylor, captain of the rifle team; Margaret Rees, winner of the Clarendon beauty contest and entrant at the Winchester Fair, and Elizabeth "Billy" Wright, tennis champion and leading lady in two campus musical comedies.

Rover Will Take Oath As District Prosecutor

The oath of office of United States Attorney for the District of Columbia will be administered to Leo A. Rover by Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at ceremonies in Criminal Division No. 2 of the District Supreme Court.

Formal commission of Mr. Rover as prosecutor for the District was received from President Coolidge. Mr. Rover was recently unanimously confirmed for the office by the Senate. He succeeds Maj. Peyton Gordon, who was appointed to be an associate justice of the District Supreme Court. Arrangements for the ceremonies are being made by Chief Deputy Marshal Stephan B. Callahan.

700 Men Reserve Seats For Banquet to Prelate

About 700 persons have made reservations for the banquet the League of Laymen's Retreats will give in honor of Archbishop Michael J. Curley at 7 o'clock tomorrow night at the Mayflower Hotel.

Walter Beller is acting as chairman of the banquet committee. George O'Connor, chairman of the entertainment committee, and Gerald Walsh of the invitation committee.

DIPLOMA MILL BILL IS PASSED BY HOUSE

Ten-Year Fight for Reform Ends; Two Other District Projects Are Won.

HOSPITAL WING PROVIDED

The ten-year fight against bogus "colleges" and "universities" here, commonly known as diploma mills, was virtually won yesterday when the House passed the bill designed to stamp out such institutions.

The bill, which passed the Senate at the last session, was amended by the House, which means it must go to a Senate and House conference before it becomes law. The House amendments, however, are virtually certain to be accepted by the Senate.

The House yesterday also passed two other bills affecting the District, one exempting members of the Board of Education from personal liability for acts of the board, and the other authorizing $890,000 to complete the new wing of the medical school at Walter Reed Hospital.

The three bills came up on the consent calendar of the House, which means that they had to have the unanimous consent of all those present to pass. Seven other District bills, including one to supply free textbooks to high school students and one authorizing twelve bathing pools, were subjects of objections.

Representative Zihlman (Republican), of Maryland, chairman of the House District committee, was in charge of the District bills yesterday and made a valiant attempt to put through those that met objection. As it was, he felt gratified over the passage of the three.

Aeronautic Organizer Faces 14 Fraud Cases

Charles J. Marchant, alias J. C. Reevar, 32, of New York City, was brought to Washington from Charlotte, N. C., yesterday by Headquarters Detective Harry Cole and charged with fourteen cases of obtaining money under false pretenses. He was arrested on a warrant sworn to by Thaddeus De Vall, of Clarendon, Va., employed at 1526 Fourteenth street northwest.

Marchant, police allege, obtained approximately $1,000 during a visit to this city recently from persons to whom he represented himself as the organizer of a corporation known as the National Association of Aeronautics. He is said to have obtained the money in return for stock in the company.

North Carolina Society Elects J. G. Korner, Jr.

J. Gilman Korner, jr., former chairman of the Board of Tax Appeals, was elected president of the North Carolina Society of Washington at the New Year reception and dance at 2400 Sixteenth street northwest last night.

Influenza Cases Fall With Epidemic on Wane

Only ten new cases of influenza were reported to the District Health Department yesterday, bringing the total of cases reported since January 1 to 1,546, according to figures announced by Dr. E. J. Schwartz, acting health officer.

Reports of deaths since Saturday brought the total attributed to influenza since January 1 to 46, Dr. Schwartz said. He considers the present epidemic definitely on the wane.

Dawes' Auto Damaged In Crash With Truck

Vice President Dawes' automobile figured in a collision early last night at S and Fourteenth streets northwest with an auto truck. The Vice President was not in the car, Frank Loughrey, the chauffeur, being on his way to pick up Dawes at the time.

Rudolph Minor, colored, 34 years old, of 917 P street northwest, was the driver of the truck, police said. Both cars were damaged.

Jury Trials Are Demanded.

Pleading not guilty to charges of possessing liquor and conducting a disorderly house, George Butler, 31, and Constance Conrad, 31, demanded jury trials when arraigned yesterday in Police Court. They were arrested in a raid on 1223 L street northwest on Saturday Louise Blaylock, 24, who was arrested on a statutory charge in the raid, forfeited $10 collateral by failing to appear in court.

CITY, WITH 21 BLAZES, SETTING NEW RECORD FOR FIRES IN MONTH

Suspicion of Incendiarism Found in Two Recent Cases; Maniac's Doing Recalled.

With 21 fires yesterday, in which one woman lost her life, and 25 other persons narrowly escaped a similar fate, local fire companies have responded to a total of 356 blazes so far this month, and are well on their way to the establishment of an all-time record for total alarms answered for any one month, officials believe.

The record was established during January, 1928, when firemen responded to a total of 507 alarms. It was during this period that the pyromaniac, John Fisher, now incarcerated at St. Elizabeths Hospital, applied the torch to a number of buildings, causing thousands of dollars in damage.

During the three-week period ended last night firemen have responded to 208 local alarms for small fires and 148 box alarms.

The largest fires this month have been those at Dulin & Martin chinaware store on F street, between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets northwest, that at 922 Fourteenth street northwest, early Sunday morning, in which several families were trapped by flames, which wrecked the four-story building; that in the Glendower apartment house at 21 Sixth street, early yesterday morning, in which Miss Carrie Goodwin, 24 years old, lost her life, and that last night in the four-story building at 619 E street northwest, used by the Hecht Co. as a storehouse.

$300,000 Blaze Spectacular.

The Dulin & Martin's fire was the most spectacular one ever to occur in Washington's business district, and, for more than three hours, threatened to envelop the entire business district.

The blaze, discovered at 3:16 o'clock the morning of January 12, resulted in a loss of approximately $300,000. Before it had been placed under control, apparatus from Baltimore and nearby Maryland and Virginia had been summoned to protect the city.

The fire in the apartment house at 922 Fourteenth street northwest, discovered early Sunday morning, aroused the suspicions of fire officials, who believed the blaze to have been of incendiary origin. That in the Glendower Apartments yesterday morning also resulted in an investigation by police.

Two alarms were turned in for the blaze discovered eating its way through the Hecht Co. warehouse shortly before 8 o'clock last night. The Blaze, which caused about $5,000 damage, is believed to have originated in a shed in the rear of the building.

The warehouse was well stocked with paper bags and other inflammables. Firemen, however, succeeded in placing it under control before it had gotten much headway.

Girl Loses Her Life.

Burned fatally after saving 25 other occupants of the Glendower Apartment house at 21 Sixth street northeast from a possible similar fate, Miss Carrie Goodwin, 24 years old, died at Casualty Hospital several hours after fire yesterday partially destroyed the four-story apartment in which she lived.

The blaze, believed to have originated at the bottom of a dumbwaiter shaft in the building, had gained such headway by the time the first apparatus arrived four alarms were sounded before the fire cuold be placed under control.

Failure of the fire alarm system in the apartment house, residents declared, resulted in many of the occupants narrowly escaping being trapped in the blazing building.

Awakened by the odor of smoke shortly after 4:30 o'clock, Miss Goodman, living in Apartment 103, reached for the telephone near her bed and shouted "fire."

An operator of the Lincoln exchange, failing to get a response to her question of "Where?" traced the call and notified the Fire Department, which sent two companies to the scene.

Meanwhile Miss Goodwin investigated. As she opened the door of the dumbwaiter shaft in her apartment, she was enveloped in a sheet of flame. Her night clothing ablaze, Miss Goodwin fell to the floor. Her mother, Mrs. Dora Goodwin, and a sister, Miss Ada Goodwin, wrapped her in blankets in an effort to smother the flames.

F. A. Weissmiller, attached to No. 8 Engine Company, one of the first companies to arrive, carried the injured woman to the street, placed her in the automobile of Third Battalion Chief E. Howard and sped to Casualty Hospital.

Hand Extinguishers Are Used.

Meanwhile other occupants of the building had been aroused. William Clemmer and P. T. Moss, occupants of the building, awakened by smoke, rushed to the basement and used hand extinguishers in an effort to smother the flames shooting up the shaft. On their way down they endeavored to arouse other occupants by breaking in the automatic alarms, but these failed to work, they said.

When their efforts at fighting the blaze failed, the two men rushed through the building and knocked on the doors of the sleeping residents.

Damage to the building, owned by David Notes, of 2925 Ordway street northwest, was estimated at between $30,000 and $35,000, by officials of the Fire Department.

Opinion on Airport Asked of District

Vandenberg Sends Letter for Ruling If Capital Bears All Cost.

Senator Vandenberg (Republican), of Michigan, chairman of the airport subcommittee of the Senate District committee, yesterday addressed a letter to the Commissioners asking hem if they would still want a municipal airport at Gravelly Point if the municipal government had to foot the entire cost.

The Capper-Zihlman bill authorizing $1,500,000 for the Gravelly Point site provides that the Federal and District Governments shall pay for the project on a 50-50 basis. Budget Director Lord, however, has disapproved of this plan.

The Commissioners are expected to insist on the Federal Government paying a share, and to point out the advantages that it would derive from a municipal airport.

18 MORE POLICEMEN REFUSED BY HOUSE

Members of Force Get Verbal Clubbing, Committee's Transcript Discloses.

NOT NEEDED, IS IDEA

Washington policemen came in for a verbal clubbing when the House appropriations committee was considering the District appropriation bill, judging from a transcript of the proceedings made public yesterday.

Representative Simmons (Republican), of Nebraska, chairman of the District subcommittee which wrote the bill, told of seeing groups of policemen "holding up a corner."

Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, admitted that it was difficult to keep his men from gathering together and "gossiping" while on the way from the station house to their beats.

In relating his own observations, Representative Simmons told of what he had seen on New Year's morning along Fourteenth street. Said he:

"There were two motorcycle policemen and three of what you would probably call foot patrolmen in a group on the corner; five policemen there.

"The motorcycle policemen had pulled their motorcycles up and were standing beside the curb. They were having their morning visit.

"It is not an unusual thing to see two, three and four policemen in a group, but New Year's morning I found five men on that corner, and two blocks north of that, at the Tivoli Theater, there were three more of them.

"In other words, there were eight policemen within two blocks having their morning visit on New Year's Day."

The subcommittee concluded its consideration of the Police Department appropriation by disallowing a request for eighteen additional privates, the members taking the position that the city already has enough policemen.

Drowning Inquiry Will Take Weeks

Navy Department to Bring Bodies of Officers for Burial in Arlington.

Receipt at the Navy Department of a report on investigation of a collision between a barge and gig off Balboa, Panama Canal Zone, Sunday, resulting in the drowning of two naval officers and three enlisted men, will be a matter of weeks, department officials said yesterday.

At request of relatives, the bodies of Capt. Ralph Griswold, 2435 Wisconsin avenue northwest, and Chief Pay Clerk Arthur S. Wrenn, native Washingtonian, whose father, A. C. Wrenn, resides at 3800 New Hampshire avenue northwest, will be sent to this city for burial in Arlington National Cemetery.

The department up to late yesterday had received no word of the recovery of the bodies of the enlisted men. They were Coxswain Fred W. Schweineberg, West Orange, N. J.; Seaman Herbert D. McDowell, Jacksonville, Fla., and Fireman Earl T. Tibbetts, Haverhill, Mass.

Man Who Tried to Get In Curtis' Auto Fined

An attempt to enter the parked automobile of Vice President-elect Charles Curtis resulted in the imposition of a $25 fine on Charles Purfire yesterday in Police Court. Patrolman J. McLarney, of the Sixth Precinct, testified that while Mr. Curtis was attending service at the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal Church, John Marshall place and C street northwest, on Sunday, Purfire tried to get into the car, which was parked outside.

After frustrating the man's attempt, the policeman said, he smelled the odor of liquor on his breath and arrested him on a charge of intoxication Judge John P. McMahon found Purfire guilty and imposed the fine.

POLICEMAN DIES FORGIVING SLAYER

ASKS NO PROSECUTION

His last words those of forgiveness for the drink-crazed man who fatally shot him Saturday night, John Francis McAuliffe, 23-year-old policeman of the Seventh Precinct, died yesterday morning in Georgetown Hospital, with a smile on his face, and his limp hands clasped tenderly in those of his mother beside him, prostrated with grief.

In a nearby room, Samuel Jenkins, of 1213 Thirty-fourth street northwest, lies dangerously ill, from a self-inflicted bullet wound over his heart. A police watch is maintained at the bedside of the remorseful Jenkins, charged with the murder of McAuliffe. He is expected to recover.

Mrs. Mary McAuliffe, mother of the youthful policeman, hurried to the bedside of her son yesterday morning when notified by physicians that he had but a short time to live.

A few moments before he died, McAuliffe turned his blanched face toward his mother, sitting at his bedside and gasped weakly:

"He shot me, mother, and then shot himself. But he didn't know what he was doing. They mustn't prosecute him. Promise me that you won't let them."

McAuliffe, a faint smile on his face, died as his mother vowed to keep the promise.

Fellow officers understand why McAuliffe felt kindly toward Jenkins. They said yesterday he always was that way. They never knew him to hold a grudge since he came on the force a little over a year ago.

Jenkins has not been informed of McAuliffe's death. Police fear he will attempt to kill himself if he learns of it.

McAuliffe, who lived with his parents in Friendship Heights, Md., also is survived by two sisters, Mary and Eleanor, and three brothers, James, Thomas and Stephen. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Physicians said yesterday Jenkins would recover unless pneumonia set in. He is the father of two children, Doris, 12, and Wilton, 15 years old. Jenkins shot McAuliffe while standing at a parlor window when the policeman went to the home to investigate reports of a disturbance. Jenkins went to a second-floor bedroom and shot himself after fatally wounding the policeman.

500 Attend Exhibition By Court Photographer

Richard N. Speaight, F. R. P. S., the London court photographer, presented an exhibit of European photographs at the Willard Hotel yesterday, with the British Ambassador and Lady Howard heading the list of those who enjoyed the unusual presentation.

At 8 p. m. Mr. Speaight delivered an illustrated lecture to more than 500 members of the profession. The exhibition included offerings from the leading photographers of London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Budapest, Prague, Stockholm, Gothenburg, Copenhagen, Geneva, Milan and Rome. The exhibition will be open to the public in twelve American cities.

Contract Is Awarded For Revenue Building

Award by the Treasury Department yesterday of a contract to James Baird Co., Inc., 1800 E street, for construction of the superstructure of the Internal Revenue Building, in the sum of $5,799,000, marks the largest contract thus far given for the local Federal building program in the triangle north of the Mall.

The building will be erected south of the Postoffice Department Building, in the area bounded by Tenth, Twelfth, B and C streets. Foundation work has been completed and the superstructure work will be completed within 300 working days, or about two and a half years.

ARRESTS OF DRUNKS BREAK ALL RECORDS IN CITY DURING 1928

Total Was 13,708, Maj. Hes Police Superintendent, Reports to House.

174 PER CENT ABOVE 1911 WIDE-OPEN DAYS

Total Captures Reach 112,-812; Police Solve 42 Murders Out of 44 Reported.

Arrests for intoxication continue to soar in Washington, according to a report submitted to the House appropriations committee by Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, and which was made public yesterday.

The number of arrests for over-indulgence in liquor during 1928, the report shows, broke all records. In the twelve-month period the police took in custody 13,706 alleged "drunks."

This was 174 per cent more than were arrested for the same cause in 1911, when the town was supposed to be "wide open."

In 1911, when there was a saloon on nearly every corner, the police arrested 4,988 persons for being intoxicated. The number climbed gradually until 1917, the year this country entered the war, when 6,896, or nearly 1,000 less than the year before, were taken in by the police.

Started in 1920.

Arrests for intoxication continued to decrease annually after that until 1920. In that year, the amazingly small number of 3,568 were given a ride to the station house. Two reasons might be assigned for this—people were taking prohibition seriously, and the bootleggers, still very much unorganized, had not yet discovered diverted alcohol, or Maryland corn and rye.

From 1920 on, however, the number of arrests for intoxication soared steadily until by 1925 the number was over the 10,000 mark.

Last Year Busy One.

The year 1928 was a busy one for the District police, for in no other year in the history of the city have they arrested so many persons. One out of five residents of the Capital of the Land of Freedom suffered the indignity of arrest, according to a separate set of figures made public yesterday by Maj. Hesse.

Arrests by police in 1928 totaled 112,-812, which was almost a 50 per cent increase over the number of arrests in 1924. In 1927, there were 96,772 arrests; in 1926, there were 94,870; in 1925, there were 78,017 and in 1924, there were 76,399.

People were arrested for everything from parking overtime to murder. There were 48,194 arrests for traffic violations, of which the greatest number, by far, were for minor offenses. Violations included vagrancy and other minor legal offenses.

But none of these things were stressed in the analysis of the activities of the department, which was prepared by Inspector William S. Shelby, assistant superintendent of police, and made public by Maj. Hesse. The analysis dealt with serious crimes against the community.

Two Murders Unsolved.

There were 44 murders committed in the District in the last year and the police solved 42. They still are seeking to solve two murders.

"Of particular moment," says the analysis, "is the gradual increase over a period of five years in arrests under a charge of housebreaking, indicating that this class of crime is on the increase, but indicating also that the department is unusually active in apprehending criminals of this type."

"Generally," Hesse said, "the statistics setting forth the activities of the force during the calendar year 1928 were most gratifying."

Police Quench Fire On Arresting 2 in Raid

A bucketful of pigs' feet and brine was utilized to save four pints of alleged liquor, which were brought to Police Court yesterday to be used as evidence in the trial of Viola Toliver, 29 years old, and William Smith, 30. Armed with a warrant charging sale of liquor, Patrolmen R. L. Jones and William R. Laffin, of the Eighth Precinct, forced their way into the house at 2267 Eighth street northwest Saturday night. A group of colored persons upset a stove in a scramble for freedom, they reported.

The policemen seized the bucket of pigs' feet, afloat in brine, and extinguished the resultant blaze. A search of the house, they said, resulted in seizure of the four pints. The man and woman pleaded not guilty to charges of sale and possession of liquor and were held in bond for jury trials by Judge Gus A. Schuldt.
